Nature Gives And Nature Takes Away

JOANNE E. MORVAY

Franklin, Adams
Correspondent

MERCERSBURG (Franklin Co.)—Mother Nature has played the cruelest trick on some farmers in the Mercersburg area this summer.

She spent weeks nurturing their fruit trees and grain to bumper crop levels, only to snatch everything away in a spate of recent storms.

The thunder and hail storms have left some local dairy farmers wondering how they'll feed their cows next winter. The corn stalks broke off about two feet above the ground—too low to save the ear.

Many area fruit growers are scrambling to land cannery contracts for their damaged peaches and apples—fruit that would've commanded top price in their retail markets before the storms hit.

Franklin County CFSA executive director Thomas Kerr said there is not rhyme or reason to the destruction. Fields that have been wiped nearly bare of corn stand next to fields where the crop was not even touched. Orchards scarred by hail that riddled the skin of peaches and apples lay just down the road from orchards where the fruit remains perfect specimens.

Donald Stuff, a local agronomist said two weeks after the last big storm, grain farmers are still finding large areas of down corn that can't be seen from roadways.

"In 35 years, I've never seen a storm do this kind of damage," Stuff said.

When Bob and Kathy Hartung went to bed on July 15, their corn stood tall in the fields surrounding Rohart Farms.

"It looked like a 150-bushel crop—and a chance to get out of the hole finally after the drought two years ago," Kathy Hartung said.

YORK (York Co.) — On her first-ever trip around the showring, Dar-Dale Vanguard Val topped the senior three-year-old class at the York County Holstein Show, then bested that win by taking senior and grand champion honors.

The Relay Arise SWD Vanguard-ET daughter was also named best bred and owned of the annual York Holstein competition.

Held at the York Fairgrounds, the show was officiated by Franklin County Holstein breeder James Burdette.

Following a first-lactation finish with 20,000 milk, Val freshened in March and scored VG-86 during May classification. Her sweep of the show, along with several other high-placing entries, combined to earn both the premier breeder and exhibitor banners for the Dale and Darla Doll family,

Manor Farmers Meet To Assess Reassesment

MOUNTVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — A cloud burst of rain torrents pounded loud noise on the tin roof of the large bank barn on the farm of Robert Noll Monday evening. Inside, on the double barn floor, semi-circles of freshly baled straw provided an arena around a speaker's stand and microphone. Cob webs and old bale ropes, hanging from the rafters glistened in the light rays projecting downward from the hastily erected flood lights hung from the purline.

"The steers down in the lower stables will make some rumbling noises, but bear with it," Phil Shertzer, master of ceremonies, said. "This is a farm, and this is a barn."

The 100 Manor area farmers had gathered to discuss local real estate taxes and the disquieting results from the county reassessment program that is just now being reported. Back in June, 12 to 15 local farmers had met in Shertzer's farm shop with the county commissioners to discuss the high assessments and why these farmers thought they were out of line. As a result of the earlier meeting, the farmers had been promised that discrepancies in the Manor district would be reviewed. And from that meeting additional local, county, and state elected officials were invited to meet with this larger group of farmers that assembled as the rain noises became quiet.

"We came to the conclusion that the whole tax scene points to the

PDA Announces Animal Import Restrictions

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius on Thursday announced a quarantine, effective immediately, on hoofed animals entering Pennsylvania from states where vesicular stomatitis has been diagnosed during 1995.

Vesicular stomatitis is a viral disease that causes blister-like lesions around the mouth, nostrils and feet of the animals that result in painful ulcers. Humans exposed to the virus may experience flu-like symptoms but rarely suffer serious disease.

"Other states are experiencing problems with vesicular stomatitis this year," Brosius said. "We want to prevent the disease from affecting livestock production in Pennsylvania."

The quarantine prohibits

National Egg Market

ATLANTA, GA
JULY 26, 1995

Prices were unchanged to higher in the Midwest and New England, and elsewhere, prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady to firm. Demand was still mixed from sluggish to very good, but was mostly moderate. The best demand was where featured, into food service channels, and in vacation areas. Supplies of jumbos and extra-large remained short to tight, large were tight to adequate, and light weight eggs were generally adequate. Breaking stock supplies were adequate for the mixed demand, and plants continued to run fulltime to parttime schedules. Spent hen offerings were short to adequate for the fair to good demand, and the undertone was steady.

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA
JULY 25, 1995

Prices were unchanged following last week's dramatic increases. The market tone was steady to fully steady. Demand was mixed, and centered on immediate needs. Floor stocks of frozen products were generally adequate. Shell egg offerings were more available at steady prices, and the trade sentiment was steady to fully steady. Most breakers limited shell purchases to regular commitments and only ran schedules for current orders.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
JULY 26, 1995

Additional weakness showed up in wheat pits, today, due to carryover profit taking and continued slow export sales. Corn and soybean bids fell slightly on the outlook for favorable growing weather in the Midwest next week. Wheat 1 to 9 cents lower. Corn 1 to 3 cents lower. Sorghum 2 to 8 cents lower. Soybeans mixed. Wheat bids extended Tuesday's losses as fund selling continued for the second day. Export demand for wheat has slowed somewhat over the past couple of days and indications Egypt may not buy more US wheat for a while, added extra pressure. Cooler weather and rainfall in Midwest forecasts for next week, pushed corn and soybean bids slightly lower. Some strength in beans was noted, however, on reports China may be interested in buying US beans.

Our Building Lease may be the best way to build your farm or commercial building.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost. And call your Telmark representative:

OK City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
JULY 26, 1995

Compared to last Monday: Feeder steers over 700 lbs steady to 1.00 lower. Steers and steer calves under 700 lbs steady to 2.00 lower. Feeder heifers and heifer calves steady to 2.00 lower. Demand fairly good for feeder steers and light for feeder heifers. Demand moderate for calves. Quality of the supply average to attractive and greatly improved from past several weeks. Flesh conditions remain constant with feeder cattle medium to slightly thin; calves medium to moderately fleshy. Weigh-ups mostly average, some full and this was an improvement for buyers. Monday morning's storm was accompanied by straight winds of 97 miles per hour that blew thru the central and southern portions of Oklahoma City. The Oklahoma National Stockyards was in this path and was left without power until 2:30 P.M. Monday afternoon at which time the auction commenced. Power failure was the only major problem at the Stockyards. Other damage was inconsequential. Receipts this week 8,705; last week 10,588; last year 10,599. Supply consisted of 77 percent yearlings and numerous calves over 600 lbs; 18 percent calves under 600 lbs; 5 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

Feeder Steers: Medium and Large 1 few 300-350 lbs (326 lbs) 80.25-81.00 (80.57); few 400-450 lbs (418 lbs) 75.50-78.50 (76.38); few 450-500 lbs fleshy (483 lbs) 68.50-69.50, pkg thin 77.00 (70.48); 500-550 lbs (537 lbs) 65.00-73.00 (67.25); 550-600 lbs (579 lbs) 64.00-70.00 (67.50); 600-700 lb mostly calves with few yearlings (650 lbs) 64.25-70.50 (67.04); 700-750 lbs (725 lbs) 66.00-68.75 (67.41), Calves 725 lbs 64.50; 750-800 lbs (778 lbs) 64.00-67.25 (65.89); 800-850 lbs (820 lbs) 63.25-66.00 (65.10); 850-900 lbs (867 lbs) 62.75-65.50 (64.09); 900-1000 lbs (950 lbs) 61.50-63.75 (61.89).

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With

FIRST QUARTER MOON, AUGUST 3.

EVERYDAY SUPERSTITIONS

To Saxons, Sunday represented Sun and soul. To Christians, it is the Sabbath. Superstition says to beware of five Sundays in a month. Monday, for the Moon and the mind, is Sabbath to the Greeks. Some say a Monday marriage bodes wealth, but it's an unlucky day to cross rivers. Tuesday is the Saxon day of Mars and all things physical The Amish like it as a wedding day. Wednesday, Mercury's day, is dedicated to the power of speech. Thursday goes to Jupiter and wisdom. Venus takes Friday, named for Friga, the Saxon goddess of love. Laugh on Friday, weep on Sunday. Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath, is named for the Saxon god of soil and revelry.

Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. — Matthew 6 34

TIP OF THE WEEK

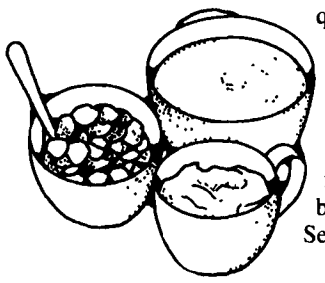
HASTY PUDDING

1/2 cup yellow cornmeal
1 cup cold water
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cup boiling water

Mix cornmeal with cold water. Add with salt to boiling water. Reduce heat and cook 10 to 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Serve with cream and maple sugar, brown sugar, honey, or molasses. Chill unused mush, slice, dust slices with flour, and brown in butter or bacon grease Serve with syrup

Makes 4 servings.



The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

Thursday at three tells what Friday's weather will be.

The Thursday weather before a Moon change denotes the weather for that next Moon phase.

A wet Sunday, a fine Monday.

OPINION

Beauty Is Contagious

The Dairy of Distinction program to recognize dairy farms whose owners work to keep their farmsteads looking good has been completed for another successful year. In Pennsylvania, for example, 43 new farms have received the recognition. Each one is a good representation to consumers of where milk originates. Attractive dairy farms enhance consumer confidence in the dairy industry. Certainly, the winners of the Dairy of Distinction award do their part to increase this confidence.

For many dairy farmers, the award symbolizes years of hard work, sprucing up the barns and fences. To others, it becomes a symbol of how they view their farm and gives employees and visitors alike a sense of respect for the farmstead.

With our special section in this issue, we also honor these farmers and say, "Thank you," for promoting the dairy industry through beautiful farms. Beauty is contagious. Often, when one farm wins the award, neighboring farms also do the necessary work to win the award. This is the way it was planned to work.

If you have a nice looking dairy farm, plan to apply for the Dairy of Distinction award next year.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Improve Conception Rates

Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, reminds us during periods of hot weather, conception rates in dairy cows may decline for a number of reasons.

Cows are less active and harder to detect if in heat, dry matter intakes are less, cows may be in negative energy balance and elevated body temperatures reduce conception rates in cows and contribute to lower fertility levels in bulls.

A number of things may be done to help reduce these problems.

Observe cows for heat in the cooler hours of the day and night. Maximize energy intakes by feeding cows during the cooler hours of the day and night. Increase the energy density of the ration while also meeting the cows minimal forage and fiber needs.

Provide cows with plenty of water and make feeding and watering areas enticing to cows. Do not get cows overheated and agitated before breeding.

Keep them as cool as possible for a day or two after breeding. If there is a risk of farm bulls becoming temporarily sterile, rely heavily on artificial insemination. Semen in the tank is immune to hot weather.

For improved heat detection, use heat detection aides such as pressure pads, crayons or activity markers.

To Understand Yellow Jackets

During mid-summer we can expect to see yellow jackets swarming around picnic tables, backyard barbecues, garbage cans and any place there is food outdoors.

Yellow jackets normally feed on other insects. They capture flies, beetles, roaches, etc. to feed themselves and their young. However, the food we enjoy is also great food for yellow jackets.

Among other things, they also like hamburgers, cheese, cookies, soda and beer.

Yellow jackets are aggressive if someone comes near their nest. However, when they are foraging they will usually flee if someone waves a hand at them.

If a person hits them with their hand, takes a bite of a hamburger or drinks some soda when a yellow jacket is doing the same, the person is likely to be stung.

Interesting, only the female yellow jackets sting.

The yellow jackets we have in the northeast are social insects. Queens and males are produced in the fall. These mate and the males die while the queens over-winter alone under rocks, bark or debris that offers some protection.

In the spring, each female starts a nest alone. She constructs a comb, lays eggs and collects insects that she feeds her young.

After the first brood emerges they become foragers while the queen stays home to lay more eggs and protect the young.

To Protect Yourself From Yellow Jackets

How does one protect themselves against yellow jackets?

There is no perfect answer.

Picking up carefully after a picnic helps. If any bits of food are left on a table or on the ground, the yellow jackets will continue to forage.

Garbage cans should be tightly closed.

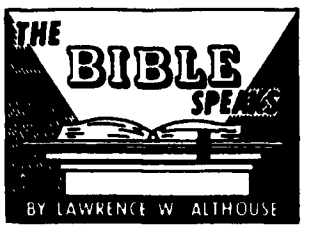
Dressing properly helps. All stinging insects are much less inclined to sting through light colored, smooth finished clothing. Covering the head with a light colored hat or scarf gives protection.

Light colored socks are better than dark ones. Stinging insects are irritated by rough materials such as wool, suede, leather and sweat.

On the other hand, using too much perfume may attract these insects because it makes people smell like flowers.

Generally speaking, repellents that are effective against flies and other biting insects do not protect against stinging insects.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Excellence can be yours if you offer respect as readily as you expect it."



IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE!
July 30, 1995

Background Scripture:
Micah 1 through 3
Devotional Reading:
Micah 2:1-7

Do you remember when Communism reigned throughout Eastern Europe? After 40 long years I doubted that I would see the day when the yoke was lifted. But then, suddenly it was shattered and with it the Soviet Union and its satellites! These people were now free. I remember one commentator exulting that this was the next best thing to the coming of the Kingdom of God. And so it seemed.

In recent years we have had occasion to visit behind what was once the Iron Curtain — in Russia, Estonia, Poland, Hungary, East Germany, and the Czech Republic. And, often, what we discovered was profoundly disturbing.

Yes, these people were now free — free to suffer the social ills of crime, drug abuse, economic exploitation, private and corporate greed. While for a few in Russia, economic and personal freedom has meant sudden prosperty and wealth, for most it has brought instant poverty and a hopeless future. As one citizen of St. Petersburg told us, "Under Communism we had some money, but there was nothing in the shops to buy. Under capitalism we have lots to buy, but no money."

FREE AT LAST?

Last year, we found that many car rental companies in Europe will not rent cars to be driven into Eastern Europe. The reason: the high incidence of car theft. We were also warned to be on our guard when walking the streets of these former Communist cities. In Wenceslas Square, the very heart of Prague, a group of young people tried to rob us in broad daylight with scores of people passing by.

Most disturbing to us was the realization that all this burgeoning crime and corruption was introduced by the demise of Communism and the rise of free market economy. Some people told us wistfully that they would prefer to see Communism return and bring order to their society once again.

At this moment our own country is not exactly a shining beacon for either democracy or the free market. Our government seems paralyzed and those who exploit the free market are widening the abyss between the haves and the have-nots. We no longer trust our public officials, respect our legal system, or have compassion for the needy in our midst. Conflict seems to have become the national pastime. We are a nation glued to our television sets watching the tawdry trial of O.J. Simpson and ignoring the truly earth-shaking issues that should be the concern of free people. We have been seduced into becoming a nation of peeping-toms exulting over someone else's dirty underwear.

IDOLATRY'S NEW NAME

Now, Communism is not the answer. But by themselves, neigher are democracy and free enterprise — without a strong moral undergirding. Otherwise democracy is dominated by demagogues, free enterprise is used for greedy exploitation, and personal freedom becomes personal license.Yes, we need to strengthen both marriage and the family, teach values in the home and in the community. But none of us can be truly prosperous and fulfilled so long as we are selfishly oblivious and unresponsive to "the least of these my brethren."

Although consumerism seems to underlie our free enterprise system, it must be tempered with spiritual values lest sheer materialism corrupt us as much as Socialist materialism corrupted Soviet society. As much as idolatry — an old name for materialism — corrupted the nations of Judah and Israel, prompting dire prophesies from Micah: "Therefore because of you Zion shall be plowed as a field; Jerusalem shall become a heap of ruins . . ." (3:12).

Don't worry, said the preachers. It can't happen here, said the people of Israel and Judah.

But it did.

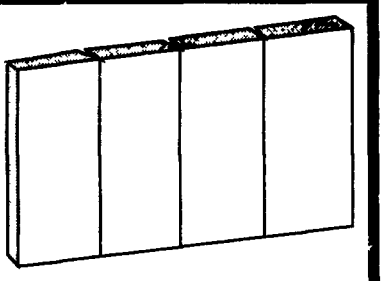
Lancaster Poured Walls


IT'S HAYLAGE SEASON - THINK BUNKER SILO!! can you think of a better wall than poured on site with lower construction costs and no maintenance?

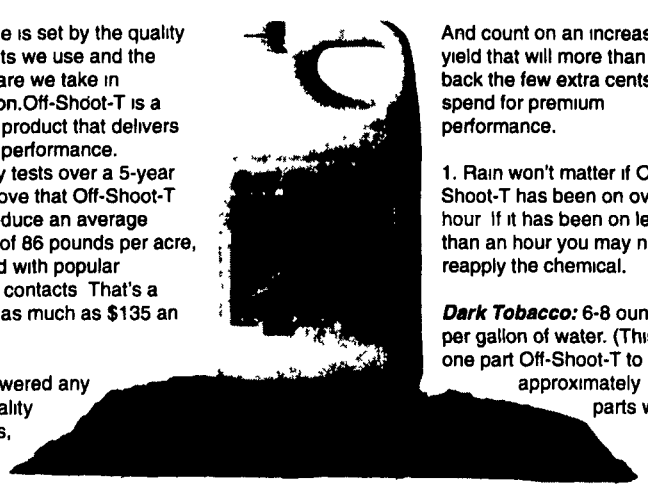
Tobacco Sucker Control


Our price is set by the quality ingredients we use and the special care we take in formulation.Off-Shoot-T is a premium product that delivers premium performance. University tests over a 5-year period prove that Off-Shoot-T helps produce an average increase of 86 pounds per acre, compared with popular "bargain" contacts That's a bonus of as much as $135 an acre

If we lowered any of our quality standards, we could sell Off-Shoot-T at a bargain price, but you wouldn't be getting premium performance. You wouldn't be getting Off-Shoot-T

So if you are going to shop for a bargain this year, make sure it's a real Bargain-Off-Shoot-T

And count on an increased yield that will more than pay back the few extra cents you spend for premium performance.

1. Rain won't matter if Off-Shoot-T has been on over an hour If it has been on less than an hour you may need to reapply the chemical.

Dark Tobacco: 6-8 ounces per gallon of water. (This is one part Off-Shoot-T to approximately 16-21 parts water)

Maryland Tobacco: 4-4 1/2 onces per gallon of water. (This is one part Off-Shoot-T to approximately 25-30 parts water.) One gallon diluted product will treat approximately 190 plants

In university tests, and in the field, Off-Shoot-T sets the sucker control standards

ARE YOUR PROFITS GOING TO COMMERCIAL FEED COMPANIES?

Get it together

Weigh-Tronix takes a systematic approach to feed processing. Using technology proven both in industry and on the farm, Weigh-Tronix has developed a complete system, MFP, the Modular Feed Processor.

Modular design—Add on components designed for the system as your operation expands.

ple awoke to hear winds "that sounded just like a freight train was going through the bedroom," Kathy Hartung said.

Local media reports claim winds reached 75 miles per hour that night.

When it was over, the Hartungs had calf hutches spread for half a mile. They found alive the one calf that was living in a hutch.

But nothing could save the 600 acres of corn the Hartungs were raising.

"We're lucky if we have 50 acres still standing," Kathy Hartung said.

Their farm supports three families—Bob Hartung is in a partnership with his two sons, Bob Jr. and Thomas.

Kathy Hartung said her family has gone on with the daily milkings and other chores, but they remain in a state of shock.

"It's almost like a death in the family," she said.

The ground the Hartungs own and the fields they rent adjoin each other in a straight line. The wind "went right down the road," she said.

Bob Hartung estimates the loss at $60,000—"and that's being conservative," Kathy Hartung said.

Gerry Martin was doing some counting that July 16 morning, too. And what he found was less than 10 stalks left standing on 19 acres that averaged 14-foot high rows the night before.

Martin said he lost 65 percent of the 250 acres he had in corn.

"Mine was just in tassel and just about to shoot an ear," he said. "We had the right amount of rain and an excellent growing season. This would've been the best crop I've ever seen."

Instead, Martin spent the past two weeks shredding the stalks that were left and replanting the fields in sorghum.

Martin has to wait for the corn to cure down before he can determine whether it will be safe to feed to his cows. His nutritionist told him the nitrates may be too high. The shredded stalks also pose a toxin danger because of the dirt the shredder picked up.

Kathy Hartung said her family's insurance company will cover one-third of the loss. But if the family tries to salvage what's left for silage, "the company's going to deduct it from the payment," she said.

"To me, that's rubbing salt in the wound," Hartung said.

Area fruit growers find themselves facing similar circumstances.

At Bingham's Orchard, the Kriner family is weighing the economics of letting insurance pay for their damaged fruit or selling it to canneries for juice and other products.

"We've had two nasty hail storms that completely wiped out our crop," said Tammy Kriner.

Jill Hughey, assistant manager of Mountain Brook Orchard, said peaches there are so damaged "We probably won't even harvest them."

Mountain Brook has 400 acres of apples also and half of that crop is gone, Hughey said.

She is hopeful for a decent return on apples sold for juice. But this year's sales receipts will fall far below what her family usually grosses in its retail market, Hughey said.

The Kriners—who are working on their fifth generation in the fruit business—have commanded as much as $15 a bushel for top-quality peaches in the past, Tammy Kriner said.

"We're not going to have any of that fruit for our customers this year," Kriner said.

The Kriners plan to buy fruit for their retail market from local growers who survived the storm unscathed.

But the family is worried about the long-term effects of a third lost peach crop.

In 1993, construction on Pa. Route 30 kept customers away—in spite of a bumper crop, Tammy Kriner said. Last year, the family—like most orchards in the region—had no peach crop to speak of because of the unusually hard winter.

"You can't have too many years like that," she said.

Pa.DHIA Field Staff Meets, Reviews More Immediate Goals

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The field staff of the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association (Pa.DHIA) met July 17 and 18 in State College to discuss current issues and plan events.

Dean Amick, director of field operations, started the meeting by initiating discussion on the importance of keeping all bulk tank comparisons within set parameters. All region managers said they agreed to aggresively pursue this matter.

The importance of each herd receiving the correct number of tests per year and being tested on a regular basis was stressed. The ability for a dairyman to manage his operation depends greatly on being on a regular test schedule. Each region manager is to monitor this situation also more aggressively.

Also discussed was the ability to keep herds tested when a technician quits or takes vacation time. The consensus of the group was to give the opportunity of making up the deficit in service to technicians within the area of demand.

Amick gave a report on the availability and success rate of the current Innovative Programs options. The Innovative Programs allows any dairy farmer to basically tailor virtually any testing program that best suits the needs of his dairy operation.

Discussion was pursued on the subject of the Technician Advisory Committee and the Senior Technicians program. A meeting is to be held Sept. 12 that is to include the Advisory Committee. Also scheduled, on Oct. 31, those serving as senior technicians are to meet with field staff to review a set agenda as well as exchange ideas on different subjects affecting Pa.DHIA.

In other business, the field staff made schedule arrangements to participate in the Empire State Days to be held in New York on August 8, 9 and 10. It was decided that field staff would be present to discuss current programs and give information.

A schedule was also worked out to accommodate each field staff memeber, so that Pa.DHIA would also be present at the Penn State Ag Progress Days, scheduled to be held at Rockspring August 15-17. It is planned that staff will have literature on current testing programs to distribute as well as being available to answer questions.

Each region manager is also to attempt to set up booths at all major fairs and dairy days activities within their region. This is to allow members of Pa.DHIA to be able to ask questions directly and also to view different programs available.

Of others topics covered, it was reported that the Pa.DHIA Mobile Meter Van is currently making progress in calibrating the technician's meters throughout the state. This procedure goes hand-in-hand with the rules of quality certification.

Jim Boyer, manager of the Dairy Records Processing Center, gave a report on changes that will be made in the system. An update will be made available in the near future.

David Bigelow, training coordinator, gave a report on the summer conference. He said he felt that the emphasis placed on sales and motivation was well received by technicians. According to the evaluations given out to each technician, the sales and motivational theme will long be remembered, Bigelow said.

Bigelow also asked region managers to confirm fall conference dates and locations so arrangements can be properly made.

The fall conference is set to allow time for the yearly exam, as well as for more education on the new Nutrient Program. It was decided that Pa.DHIA should build on the program presented at the summer conference.

Bigelow also reported that he is preparing a lesson program to present to technicians as well as agribusiness people. The lesson program is to involve workshops on records set to be held through the state to edcuate people on Pa.DHIA records.

During the meeting it was also decided that Bigelow should contact each county agent to ask for their participation and ideas for county winter workshops.

York Holstein Show

Glenville.

Winning show champion honors with a never-before-shown animal is somewhat uncommon. But for the Doll family, it was the second year running to accomplish that feat, as well as pick up a third consecutive pair of the coveted breeder and exhibitor banners.

Named the reserve senior and grand champion was the four-year-old Wilsholm Mary-ET, owned by youth exhibitor Joshua Hushon, Delta. The win marked a new high in the showing career of the 14-year-old 4-H member.

Though she nearly died delivering twin bulls when she freshened as a heifer, Mary is now projected to a second lactation of 25,000 milk and 1,000 fat. She is scored EX-90.

The Doll and Hushon families also split top honors in the heifer classes.

Junior champion was the spring yearling Dar-Dale Nittany Pepsi, entered by junior exhibitor Dixie Doll. Jacob Hushon took the reserve junior champion rosette with his winter yearling Twin Wind Broker Kiss.

An annual highlight of the York show is the Kiddie Klass, open to youngsters from three to eight years of age showing young calves. Winners were cousins Trisha Knight, 7, and Candice Knight, 8, both of Airville. Also accepting awards in the Kiddie competition were Chad Thoman, Stevie Greek, Amanda Thompson, Brian Cohagan, K.C. Beshore, Anthony Heaps, Katherine Doll and Shane Hall.

Winter Calf - 1. Coredale Odin Frizzle, Amy Trimmer, East Berlin; 2. Daphne Doll, Glenville; 3. Roy Thompson and Shirley Trimmer, East Berlin.

Dam And Daughter - 1. Walk-Le Holsteins, Thomasville; 2. Walk-Le Holsteins; 3. Ridge Hill Farm.

Premier Breeder - Dar-Dale Farm, Glenville; Reserve place, Coredale Farms, East Berlin.

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — The 4-year-old cow of Willard Maust, Meyersdale, was named grand champion of the Somerset District Holstein Show, held last week at the Somerset County fairgrounds.

Elk-Lick Southwind Faithie was judged as the finest animal of some 89 Holsteins in the junior and senior shows, and had the best udder in her class, according to judge Kress Simpson from Mansfield in Tioga County.

Faithie is a daughter of Southwind Bell of Bar-Lee, a home bred animal with five generations of home bred behind her. She was her class champion and senior show champion.

Maust and his wife, Ella live on the homestead of her childhood and also own the farm where he was raised. Of the 300 acres in the family operated farm, 150 are tillable.

The premier breeder title was awarded to Cessna Brothers who come from Clearville in Bedford County. Five members of the family attended the show.

Melinda Thomas, Bruceton Mills was the premier exhibitor in the senior show.

There was a tie between Ben Miller, Boswell and Dan Ream, Markleton, for the title of premier breeder in the junior show. Then Miller was named premier exhibitor.

Showpersons and breeders came from numerous communities in the county. Others came from Garrett County, Maryland and Redford County.

The championship trophies and T-shirts for the first place junior winners were purchased through a donation to the Somerset County Junior Holstein Club by Walker's Farm Service Inc., Somerset.

Amy Paul, the Somerset County dairy princess presented trophies and ribbons with help from a former dairy princess Stephanie Singo.

Md.-Oakview Mark Kix Is Grand At Central District Championship

WEST FRIENDSHIP, Md. — Holstein showers from a four-county area in Maryland held their Central District Championship Show July 17, at the Howard County Fairgrounds, in West Friendship.

Marlin Hoff, of New Windsor, showed the senior and grand champion Holstein, a 5-year-old cow, Md.-Oakview Mark Kix.

There were 107 head of cattle shown representing Holstein owners from Baltimore, Carroll, Harford and Howard counties. John Burket, of Burket-Falls Farm in East Freedom, Pa., was show judge. Jenell Rinehart, of Rinehart Farm, in Taneytown, was judge for showmanship and fitting.

According to the judge, there were strong classes of animals with high quality and he was pleased with the champions.

A hard rain during the show didn't deter observers, as a large crowd was in attendence to the event with Carroll County as host.

The open division junior champion was a winter calf Md.-Dun-Loacin Altair Season, shown by Shannon Harrison, also of Burkittsville.

In the youth division, the senior and grand champion Holstein was a junior 3-year-old, Chris-Gold Starbuck Gem-ET, shown by Mark Iager, of Fulton, while the reserve senior and reserve grand champion was a senior 3-year-old Windsor-Manor Del May-ET, owned by Jeffrey Sutton, of New Windsor.

Intense Competition Wraps Up State 4-H Achievement Days

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — After three days of intense competition at Penn State University, a busload of 4-H'ers returned to Lancaster County clutching coveted awards.

The state 4-H Achievement Days, where top 4-H winners in each county compete against each other, ended with Lancaster County teams placing first in senior livestock judging and in archery competition.

In the public speaking category, Jimmy Mullen of Peach Bottom talked his way to the top with his prepared speech on his painful past year in baseball. The pain — being knocked out, spiked, and hit with balls and bats — might have been worth it, Jimmy conceded since the experience enabled him to accumulate the most points of any individual in the 4-H presentation category.

Another top individual winner was 15-year-old Kenneth Cramer of Lancaster who competed in the air rifle category.

The senior livestock team included Lisa Reiff of Strasburg, Regina Landis of Manheim, Dale Livinggood of Lampeter, and Gerald Boyd of Ephrata. Boyd also had the distinction of placing third in individual livestock competition.

The archery team included Kandy Mullen of Peach Bottom, Dere Stoner of Lancaster, Chris Reeder of Little Britain, and Mike Hartman of Paradise.

Zoann Parker, 4-H extension agent, said that most of the 43 countians who participated in the 3-day competition placed in the top 10.

"It shows that our volunteer leaders are trained well and are passing that knowledge on to our 4-H'ers as well," Parker said.

This was the fifth time that a Lancaster County team placed first in livestock competition since Achievement Days began, but the first time since 1991. Last year a Lancaster County team also placed first in archery competition.

Each 4-H'er is allowed to participate in only one category. Jimmy Mullen said that he had a choice between competing in archery or public speaking.

"I'm glad I chose public speaking," he said.

The 43 participants returned to Lancaster Thursday afternoon. They were hot, tired, and sweating from the intense heat and the long drive in a school bus.

"The trip and hard work was well worth it. It's what we have been training for all year," Livingood said.

Placings for 4-H'ers in other counties will be published when Lancaster Farming receives the information.

Zoann Parker, 4-H extension agent, stands with top individual winners from Lancaster County. Jimmy Mullen, center, is top individual in public speaking, and Kenneth Cramer is top individual in air rife competition.

Vanishing Acres: Pressured By Development, Farmers Become Neighbor Relations Experts

Last Of A Series

Editor's Note: In the final part of the series, farmers realize that farming in the 1990s is not only crops and cows — it's nurturing communications skills and learning how to deal with an increasingly urban public. Despite development pressures, these farmers have learned to communicate their problems and work to solve "neighbor relations" challenges.

Neighbor relations skills will be essential. The farmer of tomorrow will have to be a good neighbor.
— Charles Wille
N.Y. Farm Bureau President

Headline from June 5, 1993 Lancaster Farming:
'Key To Successful Farming Among Urban Neighbors: Be Firm, Be Friendly, But Don't Be Frustrated'

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

KLECKNERSVILLE (Northampton Co.) — One day, it rained. It rained heavy and hard, and flooding ensued.

John Valkovec, dairy farmer, received the call from one of the Moore Township supervisors. Stormwater was causing enormous flooding in one of Valkovec's fields, pouring dirt, stones, and muddy water onto Rt. 512, a major highway that runs adjacent to fields he farms.

Valkovec tried to deal with the problem.

Confused and perturbed, he asked for help. For one thing, the catchbasin created by the development architects next to his field was overflowing. The water was coming from the development property. The engineers assured him that the basin was designed correctly.

Valkovec said he called everybody. "I called the township. I called the conservation district. The conservation district said it was the township's problem, the township said the engineer calculated it, so it should be right."

An engineer came out and installed some plywood to redirect the flow. But the stormwater caused enormous gullies in the field.

Valkovec was told that, according to the calculations, 'this is not a problem.' But Valkovec told the engineer, 'According to the calculations, that's great, but look at the ditches I have in the field.'

Valkovec was told that, according to the calculations, "this is not a problem."

But Valkovec told the engineer, "According to the calculations, that's great, but look at the ditches I have in the field."

Valkovec couldn't get anywhere with the situation.

Instead, he took matters into his own hands. He constructed a waterway, losing almost an acre of land from production.

To this day, Valkovec believes he made the right decision.

'Once the houses are up, the developer is gone.'

"I would rather lose the acre of land than have to go through gullies like that" with field equipment, he said.

Valkovec said that zoning laws don't specify how many developments are constructed. While many supervisors remain "antidevelopment," said Valkovec, still, many developers come, build, and leave.

"The developer, he's long gone. Once the houses are up, the developer is gone. The township keeps money to make sure the roads are built, but forget the rest of it."

Left and right, in all areas of the township, Valkovec, who milks 50 cows and farms a total of 500 acres, said similar problems confront those who farm.

This is not only true of towns in Pennsylvania, but in other parts of the country.

According to the Vol II., No 2 issue of "Farmland Update," the newsletter published by the American Farmland Trust, between 1990-1992, a place in Illinois called McHenry became the fastest-growing county in the state. The populated exploded by 90.2 percent to 200,000 residents. No other counties in Illinois came close to meeting that growth rate.

Since then, development pressure has increased. Farmers have sold their land to residential and commercial developers. Those who remain in agriculture are changing their cropping patterns.

In the end, the communications skills that farmers cultivate with their non-farm neighbors could prove even more successful for farm survivability.

John Pihl, McHenry County Farm Bureau president, indicated that as a result of fast "upzoning," development is occuring far too rapidly.

"We are being taken for a ride," said Pihl, co-owner of a 1,000-acre farm. "Everything is happening so fast. The disturbing thing is we knew 'progress' was coming, but we didn't plan for it."

Tim Fritz, part-time Lancaster County dairy farmer and Montgomery County extension agent, said his father, Harold, purchased the 70-acre dairy in 1979. But it has only been since the spring of last year that 15 acres, a small parcel of the total operation, was sold to development.

'When you look at a map of southeastern Pennsylvania, it's pretty scary,' he said. 'Growth is just coming from all over.'

Like Lancaster, according to the newsletter, the county has to work out the problems encountered with encroaching urban development in a rural setting. But Lancaster's zoning is successful because of tight regulations created by urban growth boundaries.

But growth boundaries and ag zones to help contain development may not be enough. In the end, the communications skills that farmers cultivate with their non-farm neighbors could prove even more successful for farm survivability.

The Fritz dairy rarely gets complaints. Tim Fritz, who also serves as Montgomery County crops agent, has to handle many complaints from the urban and farm sector in a county which has seen as much, if not more, development pressure as Lancaster.

"When you look at a map of southeastern Pennsylvania, it's pretty scary," he said. "Growth is just coming from all over."

For Montgomery County, the closer farms are to the urban center, the more pressured the farm is, but the less complaints, less conflicts from urban side. Fritz said, "They appreciate the farm when there's so few left. It's more favorable for them to see the farm."

However, Fritz said that, in the more rural portions of Montgomery County, more complaints occur because there are a lot more farms around and neighbors don't have the same concerns. The neighbors "don't appreciate the farm as much."

In Montgomery County, development pressure has been growing exponentially. "It just keeps on pushing. In the seven years I've been in Montgomery County, I just watched the line move. You can see it by the signs for land for sale, land available. You can see it by the new houses going in."

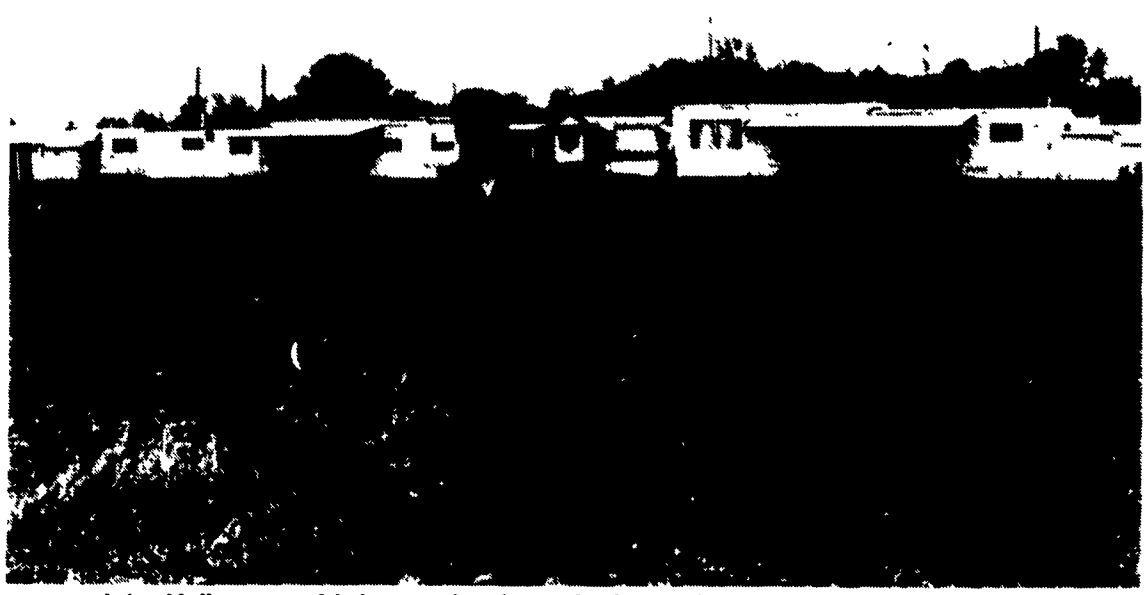
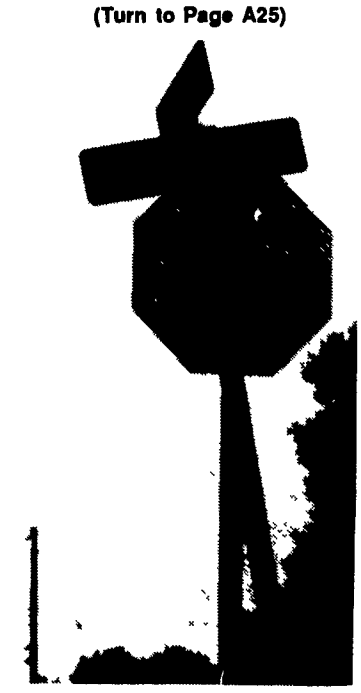
'In the seven years I've been in Montgomery County, I just watched the line move. You can see it by the signs for land for sale, land available. You can see it by the new houses going in.'



John Valkovec said that zoning laws don't specify how many developments are constructed. While many supervisors remain "antidevelopment," said Valkovec, still, many developers come, build, and leave.



A sign near the Valkovec property in Northampton County. Lancaster County farmer Joe Stahl said the chance to meet many more urban neighbors allows him to talk to many different and interesting people. And building those relationships — working together — may be the key to survival for many farmers.

Fritz said that communicating the difficulties farmers face with the general public takes up a great deal of his time as an agent. He said that he speaks to the news media quite often and that communication is essential.

Anita Valkovec, who farms with husband John in Lehigh County, once spoke to some neighbors who moved into the area from New Jersey and New York. She said they were making fun of the simpler, slower life of the Pennsylvania Dutch. She told them, "If you don't like it here, move away. We didn't ask you to come here. I said, I liked it here before all this development started — the traffic and all. It was much nicer before."

'I liked it here before all this development started — the traffic and all. It was much nicer before.'

'I try to get the disagreeing parties together, because a lot of times the complainer has never even talked to the farmer.'

For Leon Ressler, Lancaster County ag environment agent who deals with farm/urban interface issues, it's essential to keep the lines of communication open.

"What I try to do is give them the options they can use and encourage them to talk to the farmer," he said. "I try to get the disagreeing parties together, because a lot of times the complainer has never even talked to the farmer."

Increasingly, according to Ressler, the people surrounding the farmer will dictate exactly what is done of the farm — when the farmer will expand, what kind of livestock will be cared for, when the fields will be worked, and when the manure will be spread and how quickly it is incorporated.

In several states, specific times dictate when tractors can operate and when certain farm chores can be done. According to Valkovec, a "normal farming practice" can differ from farmer to farmer.

"We have some people that wanted to be alerted when you spray, and so forth," said Anita Valkovec.

For "entertainment farmer" Fred Seipt, of Freddy-Hill Farms in Landsdale, providing a service is the key to maintaining good community relations.

For many days of the year, the farm is host to farm tours for children in many schools in the greater Philadelphia area. "We give them a lot of hands-on attention, and I think, as a result, we get a lot of repeat business."

It's an "educational thing, not just an entertainment thing," he said.

Neighbors who live next to the Jacob Stahl Farm in Lititz often comment on the cattle Joe raises.

"Children enjoy watching the cattle in pasture," said Jacob.

In the meantime, farmers are often called on to educate the public about what they can and cannot do near a farm, such as dump yard waste, which includes plants highly toxic to animals, in the fields.

Joe Stahl said that the chance to meet many more urban neighbors allows him to talk to many different and interesting people.

And building those relationships may be the key to survival for many farmers.

"If you're a genuinly nice guy, the likelihood that the neighbors' ability to put up with some inconvenience will probably be greater than if they dislike you and think you're mean," said Leon Ressler, Lancaster County ag environment agent. "Their tolerance for inconvience coming from your place will be less."

'Their tolerance for inconvience coming from your place will be less.'

In all areas of the township, John Valkovec, who milks 50 cows and farms a total of 500 acres, said similar problems confront those who farm. This is not only true of towns in Pennsylvania, but in other parts of the country. On the tractor is John Valkovec, Jr.

State Crop Report Indicates More Oats, Barley, Wheat

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Based on July 1, 1995, forecast for yield and production, the Keystone state's farmers expect to produce more barley, wheat and oats than in 1994.

Pennsylvania's 1995 planted potato acreage is estimated at 18,000 acres, down 5 percent from last year. Harvested potato acreage is estimated at 17,000 acres, down 6 percent from last year.

Oats acreage for harvest at 16,000 is the same as last year. The July 1, 1995, oats yield forecast is set at 60 bushels per acre, up 7 bushels from 1994. The resulting oats production of 9.6 million bushels will be 13 percent more than last year.

Winter wheat acres to be harvested will total 185,000, 12 percent more than last year. The July 1, 1995, winter wheat yield forecast is set at 51 bushels per acre, up 3 bushels from 1994. The resulting winter wheat production of 9.44 million bushels will be up 19 percent from the previous year.

Barley acreage for harvest at 75,000 is the same as 1994. Barley yield is expected to be 69 bushels per acre this year for an expected production of 5.18 million bushels, which is 6 percent above last year's production.

Based on July 1 conditions, the state's peach production is forecast as 90 million pounds. Peach production in 1994 was insignificant due to freeze damage.

At the United States' level, oats production is expected to be 181.5 million bushels, down 21 percent from last year. If realized, this would be the lowest oat production since records were first kept in 1866. The expected yield per acre for oats is forecast at 55.9 bushels, compared with last season's average of 57.2 bushels. Oats harvested acres is estimated at 3.25 million acres, 19 percent less than last year.

Winter wheat production at 1.53 billion bushels is down 8 percent from a year ago. Harvested winter wheat acreage is estimated at 41.3 million acres with a yield of 37 bushels per acre. Barley harvested acres is estimated at 6.42 million, down 4 percent from 1994. Barley yield increased from 56.2 last year to 59 this year, and production is expected to go up 1 percent to 378.7 million bushels.

For the United States, fall potatoes are planted on 1.22 million acres this year, down 1 percent from last year. Harvest is expected from 1.2 million acres, 2 percent above 1994.

Peach production is estimated at 2.49 billion pounds, down 1 percent from last year.

Monfort Packing Joins Angus Beef Program

WOOSTER, Ohio — The nation's third largest beef packer, ConAgra DBA Monfort, Inc., has joined the Certified Angus Beef (CAB) Program as the newest licensed packer/fabricator.

Monfort will process and market Certified Angus Beef™ product at its Des Moines, Iowa, facility, reports Louis "Mick" Colvin, CAB program executive director. Production began in mid-July.

"We are excited to have Monfort as a licensed Program participant," Colvin said. The tremendous growth of the CAB Program has made it a challenge to fill Certified Angus Beef product demand. Monfort will provide an opportunity to increase the availability of Certified Angus Beef product and boost its market share."

Maryland Holstein Picnic Set

MONKTON, Md. — Maryland Holstein enthusiasts are invited to attend the Maryland Holstein Association's second annual picnic set to be held 10 a.m., August 12, at My Ladys Manor Farm, in Monkton.

Home of the Smith families, a catered lunch is to be served about noon and a day of activities is planned.

Booths, displays, and commercial exhibits are to provide up-to-date information.

Tom Moses, from Holstein USA, is to conduct "Grassroots Member Meetings," small discussion groups so that members desires can be better expressed and achieved.

Don Crossen, a Holstein classifier, is to present a classification workshop for all ages.

At 2 p.m., a free calf drawing is to be held for all youth aged 21 years or less, but the winner must be present to receive the prize.

Free T-shirts are to be given to any youth attending.

In addition, the Maryland Junior Holstein Club will hold a meeting and will also be given a foot trimming demonstration on both the table and a box.

There are to be tours of the farm facilities and a demonstration of the farm's manure irrigation system.

For activities, a swim suit for swimming in the Smith's pool, and and comfortable shoes for games and volleyball are suggested.

The Smith families are working hard to make this an extra-special memoriable event for you and your family. No need to make reservations.

There is no charge for the event. For more information, call Harold and Colleen Smith at (410) 557-8522; Robert and Mary Smith at (410) 692-6186; or Ross and Jeanette Smith at (410) 692-6561.

Directions: From Exit 27B on Rt.695, travel north on Rt. 146, go west on Rt. 23 for two miles, make a left onto Old York Road, and My Ladys Manor Farm is the first farm on the left.

From the left, fitting and showing champions are, Kelly Myers, Jeff Sutton, and David Miller. Judge is Jenell Rinehart.

Penn State Dairymen's Club Seeks Service Award Nominations

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Penn State Dairymen's Club is soliciting nominations for their annual Dairymen's Club Service Award. The award is rotated thru three sectors of the Dairy Industry. They are Farmer/producer, Dairy/Agriculture Industry, and Extension/Education. The 1995 award will recognize an individual in either extension or education who has labored for the advancement and benefit of the Dairy Industry in Pennsylvania.

Examples of individuals who you should consider nominating: college/university faculty, local extension personnel, vocational agricultural instuctors, etc. Nominations can include retirees, as well as those still active in their chosen area.

This year will mark the sixth annual presentation. A winner will be selected from all nominees and will be recognized at the Club's Annual Dinner-Dance on Friday, November 10, 1995. This event will be held the evening prior to the Nittany Lion Fall Classic Sale at the Penn State Ag Arena.

All nominations should be submitted in writing to Chris Swartz, Dairymen's Club, 131 Petersburg Road, Lancaster, PA 17601. Deadline for nominations is September 1, 1995. The individual's nomination may include such items as:

Leadership within the agricultural community

Personal involvement in the dairy industry

Years of service to the industry

Personal advancement of their chosen profession & desire for excellence.

Previous award recipients were: 1990 Robert Patton, Monsanto Co. (industry); 1991 William Conyngham (dairy farmer); 1992 Larry Specht, (Education); 1993 Dean Amick, (PA DHIA); 1994 Samuel B. Williams Jr. (farmer); 1995 education; 1996 industry; 1997 farmer.

The Penn State Dairymen's Club is a nonprofit support group whose mission is to facilitate the activities for undergraduate education and experience within the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences. New members are always welcome.

Adams County Breeders Seek Improved Efficiency

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.)—Techniques for improving breeding efficiency was the focus of a dairy twi-light meeting cosponsored by the Adams County Holstein Club and Penn State Cooperative Extension, held July 13, at Ke-Holtz Dairy, home of Kevin and Karen Holtzinger, in East Berlin.

Kevin Holtzinger presided at the event.

Speaking on the synchronization of estrus, Dr. Michaela Kristula, D.V.M., University of Pennsylvania, discussed the influence of pregnancy rate on herd performance and how excessive days open leads to culling animals for reproductive reasons. She suggested a goal of 75 percent pregnancy within 120 days following calving.

Estrous synchronization and programmed breeding can be profitable management tools. Through controlled breeding, animals can be inseminated artificially to superior A.I. sires on a timely basis. The chance of inseminating an animal during the optimum time is increased and there is a reduction in time spent for heat detection.

Kevin Holtzinger introduced his family and his employees. Together they care for a herd of 300 Holstein cows, 220 heifers, and farm 700 acres of land to provide feed for the herd. Milking three times per day, the herd has a rolling herd average of 20,300 pounds of milk and is fed a total mixed ration.

Graduates of the National Holstein Leadership School, both Kevin and Karen are available to speak to groups on the requirements of dairy farming. They announced the formation of a Dairy Network Leadership program to further advance this effort.

Joy Hess, alternate county dairy princess, reported on attending the state workshop for dairy princesses. She announced that entries for the dairy show at South Mountain Fair are due by August 15. Those interested in showing should call Josie Riser at (717) 334-6919.

Marlin Hoff, New Windsor, Maryland, a member of the board of directors, National Holstein Association, was introduced and described options for identifying animals for type classification. While the breed association has worked with 30 percent of herd owners in the past, our goal is to work with all herd owners. He complimented Pennsylvania Holstein breeders for hosting a very successful National Convention and sale in Pittsburgh.

Hoff served as official for a cow judging contest in which Cheryl Ulrich and Sam Stoner were declared winners in the senior divison, Joy Hess and Matthew Guise were winners in the junior division. Door prizes and refreshments were provided, courtesy of supporting agri-business firms.

Northeast Lamb Pool Dates Set

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—The 1995 Northeast Lamb Pools will take place on August 11, Sept. 29, Nov. 3, and Dec. 1. The pools are to be held at the Troy Sales Barn in Troy, Bedford County.

Slaughter lambs, feeder lambs and slaughter sheep will be accepted and graded from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. on the day of the sale.

Personnel from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Livestock Division will grade the lambs and slaughter sheep using USDA grading standards. The lambs will be penned in uniform lots as to grade and weight.

The sale will be conducted by tele-o-auction beginning at 3 p.m. Interested sheep producers and buyers should contact David Albert, pool manager, at (717) 998-2505.

Buyers must contact the pool manager prior to the sale to be included in the tele-o-auction or be at the sale barn for the sale. The sale day phone number is (717) 297-9095.

hoofed animals from entering Pennsylvania if vesicular stomatitis has been diagnosed within 10 miles of the premises of origin since Jan. 1.

The disease is primarily an insect-borne disease, and does not survive cold weather. The quarantine will expire Dec. 31, 1995.

In addition, all hoofed animals entering Pennsylvania from a state where vesicular stomatitis has been diagnosed during 1995 must be accompanied by a certificate of veterinary inspection by an accredited veterinarian.

As of July 21, the disease has been diagnosed in Arizona, Colorado and New Mexico during 1995.

The most common symptom of vesicular stomatitis is drooling or frothing at the mouth. Affected animals frequently refuse to eat or drink and may show signs of lameness. Severe weight loss and a drop in milk production may also occur.

The disease occurs in the United States typically between late spring through early fall.

"Pennsylvania livestock producers can prevent the introduction and spread of this disease by making sure that the provisions of the quarantine for animals being imported into Pennsylvania are met," said Dr. Max A. Van Buskirk, Jr., director of the department's Bureau of Animal Industry.

"Producers should also be mindful of the need for biosecurity, insect control, good milking practices, personal protective measures and isolation of herd replacements as preventive measures to limit the introduction or spread of this and other diseases."

Animals exhibiting signs or symptoms of vesicular stomatitis should be reported to the Bureau of Animal Industry at (717) 783-8300.

York 4-H Dairy Show Names Supreme Champion

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Dar-Dale Starbuck Alicia, a four-year-old Holstein, was named the Supreme Champion at the York County 4-H dairy roundup, held July 18 at the York Fairgrounds.

Alicia is one of the several youth project Holsteins owned by exhibitor Daphne Doll, Glen Rock. The Holstein breed winner is currently milking about 80 pounds per day and has not yet been classified. Judge Steve Wilson, Maryland, especially praised her height and width of udder in announcing his selection.

Named his second choice for the supreme honor was the champion Brown Swiss, Lake Lane Pebbles, exhibited by Joshua Hushon, Delta. The senior three-year-old is scored VG-87 with an EX-mammary and is projected to 18,500 milk.

In the Holstein breed show, the reserve senior and grand champion honors went to senior 4-H member Brad Walker, Thomasville, with his aged cow Sunnybend Odyssey Astro Sex. Junior champion breed honors were shared by Dixie Doll, Glen Rock, showing her spring yearling. Reserve junior champion title went to the winter yearling exhibited by Jacob Hushon, Delta.

Ayrshire champion honors went to Jesse Stambaugh, Spring Grove, with his four-year-old Triple-J Gemini Andy. His brother Jason handled the champion for the 14-year-old, six-year 4-H veteran, who was crutches-bound following a sports injury.

Reserve champion Ayrshire was the junior-three-year-old exhibited by Thomasville 4-H'er Katie Shoemaker, B.E.K.A. Hill Farm Anni Aerial. In the junior champion lineup, Stephanie Pomraning copped top honors with her first-place fall calf, over the reserve winner, the fall yearling exhibited by Katie Shoemaker.

Reserve champion Brown Swiss was Brothers Three Perky, a senior two-year-old exhibited by Jacob Hushon, Delta. In addition to his Brown Swiss senior and grand championship, Joshua Huson took both junior class titles. Junior champion was his fall yearling, besting the spring yearling on size and scale.

With no milking cows entered, Guernsey breed competition was limited to heifer classes. Junior and grand champion rosettes were won by Barbara Leiphart, York, with her winter calf Rutter Bros. Perfectos Wonder. Terri Johnson, York, claimed the reserve junior and grand champion honors with a paternal sister winter calf, Rutter Perfectors Lydia. Both are first-time 4-H roundup competitors.

The Jersey breed show likewise included no milking animals, and brought rosette honors to two first-time 4-H exhibitors. Junior and grand champion was Queen-Acres Orion Shiela, a winter calf exhibited by Kristina McElwain, Stewartstown. Placing as reserve junior and grand champion was Fawn Grove 4-H rookie Barbara Richardson, exhibiting a spring calf.

Milking Shorthorn entries were both from exhibitor Heather Crowl, Airville. The 13-year-old, 5-year 4-H exhibitor earned champion honors with Spruce Hill RC Bubbles, a senior two-year-old. Heather's spring yearling was named junior and reserve grand champion.

Sharing the Brown Swiss champion spotlight at the York 4-H show were brothers Joshua Hushon, left, with the champion, and Jacob Hushon, in reserve. The Brown Swiss winner was also later named reserve in the supreme champion runoff.

York 4-H show Guernsey honors went to the calves exhibited by Bobbie Leiphart, left, grand champion, and Terri Johnson, reserve grand champion.

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — Top-O-Hill Admiral Precious, a 3-year-old Jersey cow bred and owned by Mildred Seeds, of Downingtown, on Thursday night was named grand champion of the open division Jersey cattle show at the Kimberton Fair.

Seeds is a perennial exhibitor and winner at the Kimberton Fair and other local Jersey shows in the southeastern region of the state. With the trademark uncut horns and brass lock and chain adorning the heads of the milking cows, Seeds' Top-O-Hill cows, heifers and calves also won top place in all the show's group classes, won for best udder, and took five firsts by age class. In all, there were seven Top-O-Hill prefix animals as class winners.

The Kimberton Fair has a slightly unusual dairy show format. There are technically no reserve junior, senior or grand champions recognized, even though they are acknowledged by the judge. It's a show idiosyncracy.

If there were reserve places, Seeds would have showed the reserve junior champion, while Amy Plummer, of Chalfont, also a regular Jersey exhibitor, would have earned the title of reserve grand champion.

As it was, Plummer's senior 2-year-old, Junos Beacon

In the Ayrshire fitting show, Advancer Sara was named runner-up senior and grand champion in the open division and senior and grand champion in the youth division. Plummer has recently graduated from high school.

Plummer also showed the junior champion Jersey in both open and the youth division. It was a junior yearling, Neshaminy Imperial Prestige.

The judge for the show was Jane Pepple, of Oxford, who praised the competitive depth of the show.

"I think it was an outstanding show. There were a lot of good quality animals, a lot of stiff competition. I got a workout," she said after the show.

Pepple, who said she really enjoys the youth shows, in part because she was a 4-H member, has a couple of other shows to judge in the next week and is also slated to judge showmanship at 4-H district competitions in Harrisburg.

There are other dairy cattle breed shows at Kimberton, though the Jersey show is the largest.

During the Ayrshire show, held earlier in the week, Brian Nolan, of Pottstown, showed the open division senior and grand champion animal, an aged cow, Dreamnol Johnny's Kassy. It was also the youth division senior and grand champion.

The junior champion of both divisions was an intermediate calf showed by Craig Nolan, also of Pottstown. The calf was Dreamnol Teddy Bear Lindy.

Judge for the Ayrshire show was Mike Kunkle, of Jonestown.

Seth Wolfgang, of Bechtelsville, was senior age champion; Meredith Baily of West Chester was intermediate aged champion; and Rebecca Nolan, of Pottstown, was junior aged champion.

In the Ayrshire showing competition, Craig Nolan was senior aged champion; Kevin was intermediate aged champion; and Rebecca was junior aged champion.

Compound Activates Plants' Immune Systems

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Ciba Crop Protection researchers have announced the development of a chemical compound that controls several plant diseases by stimulating plants' natural defense mechanisms. The innovative new product, called a plant activator, was announced at the recent International Crop Protection Conference in The Hague, Holland.

The natural defense mechanism in a plant is stimulated when a plant is infected by a fungus, bacterium, or virus. However, in a field of crop plants infected by a disease, the disease-resistance mechanism is not uniform in its onset or intensity. The plant activator, if applied protectively or in the early stages of a controlled disease, uniformly triggers the defense mechanism.

Because the activator, known by the developmental designation CGA-245704, acts indirectly on plant diseases by mimicking the natural phenomenon which activates plants' self-defense mechanisms, it is not classified as a fungicide. This indirect effect minimizes the possibility of diseases developing resistance to the compound.

In field tests, CGA-245704 has been shown to induce control of some wheat diseases and, in vegetables, downy mildew, leafspot, and bacterial diseases. Also, the chemical provides good protection against blue mold in tobacco.

Eileen Watson, Ph.D., director of research and development for disease control at Ciba Crop Protection's U.S. headquarters in Greensboro, N.C., said company researchers have conducted many laboratory and field tests to establish which diseases the plant activator is effective in controlling.

"Now we are conducting market research to determine which of the diseases are economically important to U.S. growers," Watson said. "We already have decided to apply for an Experimental Use Permit in tobacco next year, and we hope to have it approved for use in 1997."

Row Mulcher Helps Farmers Save Time

BIRD IN HAND (Lancaster Co.)—Millcreek Manufacturing Company introduces a unique machine that helps small farmers eliminate hand labor for mulching row crops.

The new Millcreek Row Mulcher applies wood chips, compost, and other types of spreadable organic mulch to row crops, such as berries and grapes, in a 24 inch wide row pattern. The new machine comes in three sizes: 3.0 cubic yards, 4.5 cubic yards, and 6.8 cubic yards, and is PTO operated. It includes a 10-year guaranteed floor.

Said Millcreek President Joe Glick, "We saw the need for a machine that was affordable to small farmers and would save them much of the hand labor that is so time consuming. The only other machine of its type we know of is about three times as expensive."

The new Millcreek Row Mulcher applies wood chips, compost, and other types of spreadable organic mulch to row crops, such as berries and grapes, in a 24 inch wide row pattern.

The Millcreek Row Mulcher allows operators to stay about one and a half feet from rows during application to avoid plant damage. The two smaller models are 62 inches wide to fit between most rows. The largest capacity model is 80 inches wide. Millcreek additionally builds custom row mulchers for special needs.

Equipment Design Enters Virtual Imaging World

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Virtual imaging — the higher-than-high tech process that brought dinosaurs back to life in Jurassic Park and created memorable scenes in Forrest Gump — is entering the world of agriculture and equipment design.

At the forefront is Caterpillar, the Peoria, Ill.-based manufacturer of construction, industrial and agricultural equipment. At the core of the company's effort in virtual imaging is Richard Ingram.

Ingram, a staff engineer for 20 years with Caterpillar, will discuss this newest of technologies during the first annual North American Agricultural Equipment Conference (NAAEC), November 4-5, at the Hyatt Regency in Chicago. He has worked in vehicle modeling, hydraulic system design for wheel loaders, hydraulic system analysis, and vehicle performance analysis.

Ingram's topic, "Virtual Prototyping," will be a joint presentation with Mathew VandeWiele, a doctorate student at the University of Illinois-Urbana. Their presentation is expected to center on how virtual reality (imaging) systems provide engineers with dramatic opportunities in computer-aided interactive design of machinery and hydraulic systems and the study of machine testing and performance.

With this technology, manufacturers can improve product design and expedite development. The auto industry has been a leader in using virtual imaging to develop cars and introduce them to the market at lightning speed.

Caterpillar already accomplishes its basic test driving and equipment ergonomics with virtual imaging. For example, operators can sit behind a computer model of a tractor cab and test the equipment's control panels long before a prototype of the machine enters the manufacturing process. Operator comments are then used to make adjustments to the computer model.

This type of testing helps control the constant rebuilding of clay or even steel prototype tractor cabs and control panels. Modifications can be made from the computer screen within hours instead of the months it might take to rebuild a prototype.

Cost-Share Applications Accepted For Winter Cover Crops

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—Maryland Department of Agriculture Secretary Lewis R. Riley has announced the Maryland Agricultural Cost-Share (MACS) Program is accepting funding applications for winter cover crop to be planted this fall to tie-up residual nitrogen in the soil. Cover crops are an agricultural "best management practice" used by farmers to protect water quality in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries.

"This program is an excellent tool for the farmer to preserve nitrogen and phosphorus and reduce nutrients from entering the Bay water. We have continued it for this year due to such positive results," said Riley.

Rye, rye/legume, barley and wheat planted during the fall of 1995 are eligible to receive cost-share funding for $10.00 per acre. The following are some cost-share guidelines for farmers to consider:

•MACS assistance is limited to acreage where corn or soybean is the immediate preceding crop.

•Cover crops must be planted before certain deadlines.

•Grant payments will be awarded in the spring of 1996, after the cover crop has been destroyed.

•Cover crops being produced for commodity purposes are not eligible for funding.

•10 acre enrollment is the minimum application per farm.

Farmers should submit a cost-share application to MDA though their local soil conservation district between July 3 and August 4 for the 1995 growing season. Both tenants and landowners may apply for assistance.

The Maryland Agricultural Cost-Share Program provides farmers with up to 87.5 percent of the cost to install selected best management practices (BMPs) to protect water quality and control nutrient movement. Grassed waterways, spring developments, and animal waste storage structures are among the 25 BMPs currently eligible for MACS funding. During its 12-year history, MACS has helped Maryland farmers install more than 9,000 BMPs throughout the state.

For more information on Maryland's Agricultural Cost-Share Program, contact the local soil conservation district or call MDA at (410) 841-5864.

Universal Brings New Services To Agway

KANSAS CITY, Mo.— Universal Dairy Equipment Inc., one of the largest dairy equipment and service companies in the world, is bringing a new and innovative dimension to the former Agway dairy services that will dramatically improve the service Agway customers have already come to expect.

Called "Universal Dairy Direct™," the Service Plus™ representatives-most of which are former Agway service technicians—will provide 24-hour service to customers. Also, the "Route One" sales representatives will continue to supply familiar products as well as a lineup of proven cleaners and sanitizers from Universal, all competitively priced. More importantly, Universal Dairy Direct customers will have access to a 24-hour toll-free customer service line to provide assistance any time of day, any day of the week.

The number is (800) 409-1170, according to Walt Maharay, president of Universal.

"The recently announced agreement between Agway and Universal means more than the fact that former Agway dairy route trucks will now be Universal Dairy Direct," Maharay said.

Seedway To Distribute Penn State Variety

HALL, N.Y. — Seedway has announced it will be distributing a new soft red winter wheat, Pennmore, released by Penn State University.

Pennmore exhibits high grain yields, high test weights, excellent milling quality, and moderate resistance to leaf rust and powdery mildew. Pennmore is beardless, and medium in maturity and plant height.

Pennmore will be available on early order with Baytan seed treatment. Baytan provides excellent disease control on powdery mildew, rust, glume blotch, and smut. Some advantages of using Baytan include thicker, lusher, greener stands, more vigorous crop, bigger heads, and increased tillering.

Farmland Report Notes Banner Year

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius said that the state's Farmland Protection Program is succeeding in preserving Pennsylvania's valuable farmlands.

The program's 1994 annual report, which was released to the General Assembly, notes an increase in farm acreage protection. It also notes that five new counties joined the program in 1994, including Butler, Clinton, Lawrence, Mifflin, and Washington counties.

"Adding these new counties will further our efforts to protect quality farmland," Brosius said. "Preserved farms will remain available for future generations to use all across the state."

Initiated in 1989, the Farmland Protection Program allows the state and counties to purchase development rights — referred to as easements — to guarantee that farms will remain as agricultural land.

Individual landowners initially apply to county agricultural land preservation boards. If approved for purchase, the county boards may request state funding participation. Counties may participate jointly with the state in easement purchases or may purchase easements outright themselves.

In the program's last fiscal year, which ran from April 30, 1994 to April 30, 1995, the state Farmland Protection Board approved easement purchases for 12,587 acres on 104 farms. The diversity of easements purchased included dairy and livestock operations, fruit and vegetable farms, hay and grain fields, and vineyards.

Fiscal year 1994-1995 was the first full year using transfer money from cigarette revenue of two cents per pack. Two transfers were made from the cigarette fund to the program, totalling more than $22 million.

The Farmland Protection Program has purchased or approved easements for 66,582 acres on 533 farms to date.

need for tax reform, and that is why we have elected officials with us here tonight," Shertzer said.

The elected officials were introduced. In the group were Rep. Tom Armstrong; Rep. John Barley; Sen. Noah Wenger; Terry Kauffman, Lanc. Co. commissioner; Paul Thibault, Lanc. Co. treasurer; Robert Kindig, president, and Ed Davis, member, Penn Manor school board, and Les Eckman, Manor Twp. supervisor.

"This is not a whining or complaining session," Shertzer said. "But it is a time for farmers to share our insights and hearts on this issue of high assessments."

Dave and Lou Ann Hostetter were first to report. They used their own farm tax situation as an example of the impact of real estate taxes on their farming operation.

"We believe we are being unfairly burdened in financing local governments," Dave said. "Our products are sold on contract or market price, and we have no way of extending these costs to others. Since we purchased the farm in 1986, real estate taxes have been rising at an alarming rate. Under the present taxing system, the ability to pay is not considered. That's why we are concerned about our present situation and more so, our future in farming."

Lou Ann showed their farm taxes with a bar graph. In 1988 their farm paid $4,000 in taxes. By 1991 their payment increased to over $5,000 and now, two years later the 1995 tax bill is over $7,000. Of course, reassessment does not kick-in until next year.

At the same time, the average residental property in the district increased $758. For the nine year period, the farm paid $46,870 in taxes while the average residente paid $10,171.

To put the earning power of the farm in perspective to the residential wage, Lou Ann said the average household in the Manor district would need to be earning $178,000 a year to be spending the same percentage of income for real estate taxes.

"We would like to continue to farm, but with the present tax system it does not look real encouraging," Dave said.

Noll said his father purchased the farm in 1965. At the time, the farm was in considerable disrepair. Sodded waterways and terraces were installed to conserve the soil. Noll said he was proud of his father for doing the right things to build up the farm.

Today, however, everything is being done to increase the income on the farm. Noll called the farm "maxed out." The beef and broiler operations on the 125 acre acre farm with 116 acres tillable has been expanded to the limit. Double cropping of beans and corn after hay has been done for about the last 10 years. Additional ground is rented, and some custom work is done to increase income. Even with the increased farm activity, the farm economy has not kept up with costs, and Noll's wife works part time off the farm.

Noll said he also is "maxed out," working the equivalent of two full-time jobs on the farm but with an income that amounts to the average teacher's salary in the Penn Manor School District. "I'm paying more than my fair share of the tax burden because of the income the farm can generate," Noll said.

Noll said excessive taxes on his farm is nothing new because assessment on his broiler houses is based on the square feet size rather than the ability to produce income. In 1995 his real estate taxes are expected to take over 16 percent of his farm and off-farm income. And with the reassessment, he projects next year 31.7 percent of his income (if his income stays the same as this year) will go for real estate taxes. Taxes divided over the total tillable acreage on the farm is $159 per acre and you can rent ground for less than this cost. Even with "Clean and Green," the program that helps to base farm assessments on the ability to produce, Noll said he would pay $1,500 more next year than at present.

"One of my major concerns is that if property taxes continue to increase at the rate they have been in the last 10 years, I will soon be paying 35 to 40 percent of my total income," Noll said. "That will mean I will be retiring from this farm before I expected or hoped to do.

"Obviously, I am paying four or five times what the average home owner is paying with the same income. Industry is paying less than one percent of its net income on property taxes. If taxes on farms increase in the next 10 years like the last 10 years, there is no question I will be doing something other than farming."

"Is this really what Lancaster County wants for our farming community? I hear often that we must save the Lancaster County farm. What does this mean? At whose expense are these farms to be saved?"

Wilmer Shertzer said his assessment increased 1,015 percent, and many farms have experienced 1,000 percent increases. He said we don't need this extra expense in the dairy industry in which lower milk prices and increased production costs have reduced bottom line incomes. In 1982, dairy farms had 8.4 percent profits after taxes. In 1993 this profit dipped to 1.5 percent, and under the new reassessment tax base, profits will go below one percent.

"With this very low profitability, it's the kind of business you sell to someone else and let them lose the money," Wilmer said. "I think we need a totally new structure for taxes. But before that can happen, we need relief from the assessments the county has imposed. Every farmer needs to take some kind of stand and do our job to get this thing changed."

Dave Charles said he was disappointed that the whole reassessment program was done in secrecy. Even under "Clean and Green," the buildings are the same as under the regular assessment. And because the figures have not been released to the county, these figures on farm buildings are hard to obtain. "Even at the prescribed hearings, very few of us got to see the paper work involved," Charles said. "I think if there had been more openness before the final decisions, there would have been greater input into the procedures and a possible better tax situation now.

"I learned that the most valuable building on our farm is a spring house they coded as a granny house or apartment where grandma would live. That building was not constructed as a dwelling place and could not be made livable. Also, it is 40 feet long; they have it at 500 feet.

"I encourage everyone to go over his figures," Charles said. "Check the date of construction, what the building is being used for, the depreciation schedule, size of the building and the final assessment. Property taxes are prone to error. The majority of local taxes should be based on income and not on someone's opinion."

Guy Eshleman said that on his 200 acre crop farm it's a struggle to make ends meet, and with the new taxation schedule, he will owe $32,000 on his 200 acres. That's 240 per acre. "Why would I encourage my kids to go into farming when you can rent gound for less than that?" Eshelman asked. "We can't keep on digging into savings to pay taxes to keep on farming for the pleasure of it. We are all in this together."

Phil Shertzer said he was concerned that many farmers are going to get a wake up call next year that they are not anticipating. "We know it will be high," Shertzer said. "But when the bill comes and your taxes are doubled, I don't know about you, but I don't know where that extra tax money is coming from. We are paying for farms with what is being generated on these farms. We're not coming to the farm with a pocket full of money."

Terry Kauffman, county commissioner, confirmed the report that the county had asked AVS to do a full review of the Manor district. In addition, the county's regular assessors are doing spot checks throughout the county.

"The board of commissioners is determined to make the assessment fair and equitable. Where there are discreprancies, we are going to look at that. We want to be able to tell you with clear conscience that we have done it the best way we know how.

"But even if every one of your farms' assessments were reduced by 20 percent right now, with what has happened in Penn Manor in the past, in two years, the total tax burden would be exactly the same. What I'm telling you is that tax assessment is a horrible way to do business; tax reassessment is an inexact science.

Noah Wenger said he believed the farmers' concerns were legitimate and said that was why "Clean and Green" was enacted—to give some relief to the ag community. But it does not solve everyone's problem. He said there were state bills in progress that would address the tax reforms to shift taxes from real estate to personal income.

"But, tax reform does not reduce taxes; it simply shifts taxes" Wenger said. "In most cases the shift would be beneficial to many farmers. But if you are retired and don't own real estate and your income is from investments, then you will have an increase in taxes. Think about it carefully. Reform will be helpful to some people, but everytime you reduce tax for one person, you increase it for someone else.

Tom Armstrong said he believed that legislators were convinced that we need to transfer from real estate based taxes to earned income. But some areas of the state already have an earned income tax, so for them tax reform would be someting different. At one time, only property owners could vote. Now everyone can vote, but many of these people own no property. "Since we have more people who have an earned income who don't own property, they need to pay their share of taxes also," Armstrong said.

John Barley said that before we can address tax reform, we need to address the cost of government. And while agreeing with the need for tax reform, Barley said that not all the savings in farm taxes would be profit for the farmer if the base was shifted from real estate to income.

Barley gave the example that if the shift reduced a farm's tax liability from $6,000 to $3,000, the saved money would then become income and subject to the increased taxes on this income. If this extra $3,000 shifted the farm total income into a higher percentage bracket, then the farm might run the risk of paying more taxes than with the real estate based tax.

But for the farmers seated on the straw bales on Bob Noll's barn floor Monday night, the issue of how the taxes were assessed was not the real heart of the underlying feelings in the meeting.

"In many cases, for farmers, you are not talking about greater or fewer taxes." Phil Shertzer seemed to express the consensus of the group: "You are talking about our survival."

Keystone Ram And Ewe Sale Has $1,200 Top

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—The 47th Keystone Stud Ram and Ewe sale was held recently at the Penn State Ag Arena. The event is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers and managed by David Harpster, Boalsburg.

Sheep were placed by Doris Powell and Kenneth T. Moore, Jr., both of Rome.

This year's sale was dedicated to the honor of Kenneth Moore and in memory of Ruth Moore, Rome.

Buster Wilson, Rural Retreat, Virginia, was presented with Townsend Award for Best Consignment.

The supreme champion ram (fall ram lamb, champion Suffolk) consigned by Lyn-Lee Farm, State College, was purchased by Timothy Ruth, Pineville, for $550.

The supreme champion ewe (early spring ewe lamb, champion Polled Dorset) consigned by Riverwood Farms, Powell, Ohio, was sold to Harold and Linda Tyson, Kempton, for $425.

The champion Jackpot Wether was shown by Emitt McMillen, Indiana, and the reserve champion Jackpot Wether was shown by Jeff Rapasky, Ohio.

The top selling ram was the reserve champion Polled Dorset ram from Penn State. This early spring ram lamb sold for $1,200.

The top selling ewe was an early fall ewe lamb Polled Dorset consigned by Van Bair Farm, Dauphin. This ewe was purchased by William and Elizabeth MacCauley, Atglen, for $775.

Breed Summary

Cheviot

Champion ram (spring ram lamb) consigned by Triple J Acres, Windsor, was purchased by Erdenheim Farm, Lafayette Hill, for $275.

Reserve champion ram (spring ram lamb) consigned by Rising Sun Sheep, Schnecksville, was purchased by Erdenheim Farm, Lafayette Hill, for $200.

Champion ewe (yearling ewe) consigned by Bill Lawter, Bainbridge, IN, was purchased by Sandra E. Burger, Kunkletown, for $275.

Reserve champion ewe (spring ewe lamb) consigned by Triple J Acres, Windsor, was purchased by Lo-Ke Cheviots, Rome, for $300.

Dauphin Holstein Field Day Held At Great-View

The Dauphin County Holstein Field Day was held on July 15 at Great-View Farm hosted by The Millers on the hottest day of the year. Record heat was over 100 degrees.

Two classes of Holstein individuals were judged with winners in the Men's division - 1. Dave Wenger of Lancaster Co., 2. Jay Kopp; Ladies division - 1. Theresa Feidt, 2. Shawn Wenger; Youth division - 1. Adam Kopp.

Paul Miller served as the official judge. A delicious pig roast was served following the judging. Holstein Association was represented by Clarence Stauffer. Bob Schaffer, state director, mentioned the catch-up program Holstein has implemented and also contributed a hand-made plywood Holstein lawn ornament for one of the door prizes.

Guest speakers for the event included newly elected National Holstein President John Cope and Esquire Gary Heim. Cope reported on the National Convention just held in Pittsburgh. He announced the chairpersons for National Committees and also gave a report on the financial picture, stating the new building in Brattleboro should be debt free by the end of next year and still show a healthy reserve fund. He also told the group about the milking contest held in front of the Pittsburgh Vista which included the Agriculture Secretary, Charles Brosius and departing Secretary, Boyd Wolff, John Cope, Steve Kerr, John Selz, Whitey McKown, and last minute entrants from the crowd, Mel Hertzler and Paul Miller. Hertzler and Miller were declared the official winners and made the front page news in Pittsburgh. Cope challenged the winners to a rematch in Texas next year. Heim talked on estate planning and was well received by the farmers present.

Door prizes were awarded to many from sponsors Select Sires, Atlantic, Taurus Service, IBA, Fisher & Thompson and PA DHIA.

The milk and cold drinks were furnished by Farmland and Harrisburg Dairies. It was the hottest day of the year. Great-View Farms also provided the cows for MAMMA's June promotion with the Harrisburg Senators at City Island. Also, Deb Miller Brubaker had the honor of singing the national anthem for this Dairy Promotion event. The State Princess, Natalie Welch and her two alternates were present along with many county princesses who handed out gifts from MAMMA to those in attendance.

Knight Family To Host York Holstein Picnic

Three generations of the Knight family will be on hand to welcome guests to Woodbine Farms, host for the York County Holstein Club's annual summer picnic. Gathered with grandmother Priscilla Knight are, clockwise from top right, cousins Christi Knight, Trisha Knight, Shane Hall, Candice Knight, and Justin Hall. Missing for the photo was Cameron Knight.

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

AIRVILLE (York Co.) — Woodbine Farms, owned and operated by the Knight families, will host the annual summer picnic of the York County Holstein Association, scheduled Thursday, August 3.

Planned activities for the picnic include pre-lunch judging of several classes of cattle and a noon meal featuring pit beef. No speaker is planned for the event so that guests can visit and tour the farm at their leisure.

The well-known Woodbine Farms was started in York County by Priscilla and the late George Knight Jr., who moved into Pennsylvania from neighboring Maryland in 1959. Nationally recognized for their winning show herds for many years, the Knight family and Woodbine's registered Holsteins gained international fame with their development of the All-Time, All-American "Northcroft Elevation Ella."

Woodbine today continues under the management of Priscilla Knight and the families of her four children. The present herd includes 209 head on test with a herd average of 20,000 pounds milk. Many of today's herd members are descendants of Ella, with some of them to be included in the judging class selections.

Priscilla and the families of the four Knight children are looking forward to welcoming Holstein guests to Woodbine Farms. All are still involved in the farm operation and its management. George III and Paul handle the bulk of the dairy herd responsibilities, while James works primarily with field crops and equipment. Daughter Cindy Knight Hall is employed off the farm but helps with milking chores.

The Knight "clan" includes George III, his wife Naomi, and their children Candice and Cameron. Paul and his wife, Jean, are the parents of two daughters, Christi and Trisha. Cindy and Mark Hall have two sons, Justin and Shane. Rounding out the family are James and his wife, Lisa.

Tickets may be obtained by contacting the following York Holstein directors: Frank Feeser, 637-7458, Leroy Walker, 259-0251, Wayne Myers, 792-3851, Larry Amspacher, 767-4171, Bridgette Bortner, 792-3647, Darla Doll, 235-2735, Phil Laughman, 852-0779, Tom Taylor, 862-3479, Dan Hushon, 456-5771, or Mike Stewart, 927-6240. Cost of the lunch is $4 for adults and $2 for children age 10 and under. Deadline is July 31.

To reach Woodbine Farms, take Interstate 83 South to Exit #1 (Shrewsbury). Follow Rt. 851 East, through Stewartstown and Fawn Grove. Continue on Rt. 851 to the intersection of Miller and Hushon Roads (there is a restaurant located at this turn), turn left on Miller Road, travel about two miles to the farm sign on the right.

Lancaster Farm Bureau Picnic Set

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Farm Bureau (formerly the Lancaster County Farmers Association) is sponsoring a picnic for farmers on August 6, from 12:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Welk Custom Butchering near Solanco High School in Quarryville.

All Farm Bureau members and their families and other farmers from Lancaster County are invited to participate in an afternoon of fellowship and discussion with friends and neighbors. The meal will be a delicious barbecued pig with "all the trimmings" catered by Gary Welk.

Meal tickets are $7 per adult, $4 for kids 5 to 12, with children under 5 free. Meal tickets are payable at the door, however, if you're planning on coming you should make meal reservations with chairman Bob Best at 717-284-4279 as soon as possible.

Welk's Custom Butchering is located close to the Solanco High School. Take Route 222 to Quarryville, at the high school turn right on Solanco Road, Welk's is the first place on the right. Look for the signs.

For more information about the picnic, you can contact Bob Best at the number above.

The event will be held rain or shine.

PMMB Lowers Over-Order Premium

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board has approved a 30-cent reduction in the over-order premium on Class I (fluid milk) sold in the state.

The over-order premium is an additional price put on Class I milk that is authorized to boost farmgate prices for that milk.

According to a news release from the agency, the current premium of 80 cents per hundredweight (cwt.) is to drop a dime to 70 cents effective August 1.

Another 10-cent drop is scheduled to occur Sept.1, while an additional drop effective Oct. 1 will reduce the premium to 50 cents per cwt.

Also, in Milk Marketing Area 5, a 15-cent over-order premium is to end August 1.

The reduction in premium is a result of a petition and various recommendations to the PMMB by various farm organizations, dairy cooperatives, milk companies, some dairy farmers and the PMMB staff.

Testimony was presented to the PMMB during a May 25 public hearing.

During the hearing,, the Pa. Association of Milk Dealers and several others testified that the premium should be immediately reduced from 80 cents to 50 cents, mostly citing a competitive disadvantage with out-of-state milk being shipped in-state.

Others called for less of a reduction, while some offered that the premium should be raised.

However, during the three months that the over-order premium is scheduled to be reduced, milk market forecasters predict the basic milk price to rise, somewhat offsetting the reductions.

According to Leon Wilkinson, chairman of the PMMB, "Since 1988 the PMMB has mandated that a premium be added to fluid milk prices to assist dairy farmers in overcoming drought, floods, and other difficult market conditions.

"The premium has been a leader in the Northeast United States in obtaining better Class I prices for our deserving farmers," he said.

According to the release, in 1994, Pennsylvania dairy farmers received an average of $14 per hundredweight for Class I milk while farmers in Ohio and New York received an average of $13.30, New Jersey dairy farmers got $13.80, and Maryland producers received $13.70.

Surrounding states are currently paying Class I premiums ranging up to 40 cents per cwt.

Fluid milk Class I sales in Pennsylvania have decreased by 2.8 percent from 1994 to 1994, according to the PMMB facts. Also cited by PMMB in the release was testimony from one Pennsylvania dairy that it lost more than 500,000 pounds of milk sales to out-of-state competition primarily because of the premium.

Another testified that it lost sales of about 15 million pounds over three years.

Robert Derry, a member of the board representing consumers, said, "When Class I sales are lost in Pennsylvania, utilization usually goes to Class II, Class III, or Class III-A, resulting in a lower amount being paid to Pennsylvania farmers."

Wilkinson and Derry agreed that the decision to lower the premium is in the best interest of the dairy farmer in the long run, according to the news release.

"We want to make sure that our producers are being taken care of, but we do not want to place Pennsylvania milk at a competitive disadvantage. It is our hope that by lowering the premium to 50 cents we will be able to remain competitive," Wilkinson said.

"Be assured," Derry said, "the PMMB will closely monitor the movement of milk in and out of Pennsylvania, and any other conditions that could have an adverse (sic)effect on the Pennsylvania dairy farmer."

In a related news release from the Pennsylvania State Grange, Brenda Shambaugh, the Grange legislative director, said, "The Grange had testified that the over-order premium should be reduced from 80 cents ... to 50 cents ... because of out-of-state milk was pouring into Pennsylvania processing plants and hurting our own producers.

"We credit the board for having the fortitude to reach this difficult, but financially prudent, decision."

Chester Holstein Field Day At Melwood Farm

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — The Chester County Holstein Field Day has been scheduled to be held August 10 at Melwood Farm near Homeville.

The 45-cow Holstein operation is home to Melvin and Mary Ellen Stoltzfus and their seven children. The Melwood herd has been leading the county in average production.

A pork roast at $4 each, $2 for children aged 4 years to 12, is offered for lunch. Reservations need to be made by August 2. Call Jane Pebble at (610) 932-3975, or Duane Hershey at (610) 593-5998.

Also to be held is a judging contest with Dwight Stoltzfus to serve as judge. The speaker is to be Dieter Krieg, editor of Farmshine. Door prizes are also to be offered.

York To Hold Snake Hunt

YORK (York Co.)—The annual copperhead snake hunt and reptile exhibition is to be held Saturday, August 19, from 8 a.m. at Indian Steps Museum, in Airville.

The hunt is sponsored by the Conservation Society of York County. Dale Leiphart, chairperson of the event, said hunters can register at the hunt and will be recognized for all copperheads captured but there will be no prizes or trophies awarded.

Each hunter is allowed to capture two snakes. All snakes will be recorded and returned to the hunter to be released where captured.

There will be numerous snake exhibits displaying snakes from all over the world. Snake experts will demonstrate handling techniques and lecture on identification and care of snakes. There is no fee to enter the hunt. The only requirement is that each hunter must register before the hunt.

There is plenty of parking at Indian Steps Museum. The museum will be open to the public and there is no admission charge. Refreshments will be available.

Anyone desiring to exhibit reptiles or needing more information on the event can contact Dale Leiphart at 755-4798 (after 4 p.m.) or at 927-6130 during the day.

Lebanon Sets Field Night

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Holstein Club has scheduled its field night for 7 p.m., August 10 at the Gary and Barb Lentz farm in the Mt. Zion area.

The Lentz farm is called Dream-On Holsteins and its 83-head registered milking string has a rolling herd average of more than 24,017 pounds of milk, 871 pounds of fat and 777 pounds of protein. The herd BAA is 107.2 ;and features the Hazel family with sons at stud in artificial insemination, including Herod, a bull that is currently +43 pounds protein, 1.41 PTAT and 1.77 UDC .

The featured speaker for the evening is to be Ray Moyer, manager of Junge Farm, in New Tripoli. His herd ;is averaging more than 26,000 pounds of milk and has a BAA of 106.7.

Official judge for the cattle judging contest is to be Mike Menendez, sire analyst for Landmark Genetics.

To get to the farm from Rt. 422, take Prescott Road (between Lebanon and Myerstown) north to Mt. Zion Road, Continue north on Mt. Zion Road about five miles to Greble Road. Turn right onto Greble Road and Deam-On Holsteins is the first farm on the left.

All Holstein enthusiasts are invited to participate in the judging contest, attend the speaker's program, and enjoy a complimentary picnic meal.

For more information, call Mike Fair at (717) 274-9838.

Chesapeake Clean Water Farmers To Sail The Bay

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania farmers from York, Franklin, and Bradford counties are to sail the Chesapeake Bay aboard the Chesapeake Bay Foundation's (CBF) vintage skipjack, the "Stanley Norman" on Monday, July 31.

Skipjacks are commercial sailing vessels historically unique to the Chesapeake Bay, and the "Stanley Norman," owned by the Foundation, is one of the few such workboats that remain in operation.

The farmers are winners of the Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award sponsored jointly by Pennsylvania's Department of Agriculture and Environmental Protection. As part of the award recognition, the farmers and their families will participate in a CBF field trip on board the "Stanley Norman."

Leaving the Annapolis, Md. harbor at 9a.m., participants are to spend the day learning about the delicate ecosystem of the Chesapeake. The Bay trip will also include opportunities to see some of the methods used in commercial net fishing and oyster dredging — the way it was done by Bay watermen a hundred years ago!

The award recipients and their families participating in the field trip are: Charles and Neva Allen, operators of a 1,000-acre dairy farm in Granville Summit, Bradford County; Jim, Sandra, and Kristina Bailey, operators of a 200-acre layer and hog farm in Spring Grove, York County; and Kenneth and Martha Myers, operators of a 278-acre dairy farm in St. Thomas, Franklin County.

CBF introduces people to the Bay through programs offered at 17 educational sites — from Pennsylvania to Norfolk, Virginia and from the Blue Ridge to the seaside. Annually, 35,000 students, teachers, and adults attend field trips offered by the Foundation.

Sheep Producer's Field Day With Sale

UNIVERSITIY PARK (Centre Co.) — Pennsylvania's Sheep Producer's Field Day scheduled in conjunction with Pennsylvania's 17th Performance Tested Ram Lamb and invitational Ewe Sale is scheduled for Saturday, August 5, 1995. The activities are scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. at the Penn State State Ag Arena.

Dr. Lester Griel will conduct a demonstration of ultrasounding ewes for pregnancy.

Dr. Tom Merritt will have a video available for viewing on cesarean section in ewes.

Dr. Tom Drake will present a talk on "Internal Parasites and Other Interesting Health Problems in Sheep."

Dr. Jim and JoAnn Evans will present a working dog demonstration.

Dr. Dan Deaver will talk on "Induction of Estrus in Anestrous Sheep."

The day's activities will culminate with PA's 17th Performance Tested Ram Lamb Sale and the Invitational Ewe Sale. Forty outstanding rams will be offered as well as approximately 50 select ewes. For more information about the field day, or the sale, contact Glenn Eberly, Director, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16803, phone 814-238-2527, phone message and fax 814-865-5857.

We hear you.

We know that making hay can be one of the hardest, hottest, dustiest jobs a farmer has to face. And a big gamble, too, when bad weather is on the horizon.

So when you asked for a tractor with the power and versatility to handle every haying operation from cutting and conditioning to baling and transporting, we heard you.

When you said you needed a tractor with a full complement of features, yet sized just right for utility applications, we heard you.

And when you told us you needed the kind of reliability and durability that'll never leave another windrow stranded in a wet field, we heard you.

And we responded with even more improvements to the industry's most advanced mid-range tractors, the Case International MAXXUM® 5200 Series.

That's why you'll now find a handy "neutral" position built into the standard full-power MAXXUM shuttle shift, allowing you to put the tractor in neutral without using the foot clutch - a real convenience when tying off round bales.

The MAXXUM cab is now more monitor-friendly than ever, with easy rear-window cable access and two new mounting points in the cab - a definite advantage when working with productive, monitored haying equipment.

And as always, every MAXXUM is built big-tractor heavy, with 2 1/2 in. thick cast frame rails, 7700 lbs. of rear-hitch capacity, and an expansive cab with 44 sq. ft. of glass - an indispensable benefit when keeping an eye on the windrow or working with high-productivity tools like the Case International 8312 Disc Mower Conditioner.

What size MAXXUM is right for you? With four models ranging from 80 to 112 PTO hp, you'll have a lot to discuss with your Case IH dealer. And remember to ask about Total Product Support, our commitment to the service and parts that turn a sale into a true partnership.

Flying Farmers Combine Love Of Farm And Flight

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MARIETTA (Lancaster Co.) — Flying and farming may seem like opposite occupations, but for 375 people who attended the International Flying Farmers Convention held in Reading last week, the combination reflects their love for flight and farm.

The Vogt family of Marietta are typical members of the Flying Farmers.

Their day-to-day job is connected to the earth, but they take to the skies in their Cessna 182 for mini-trips and for a moonlighting job.

Keith and Kathy Vogt operate R. K. Vogt Grain on their Dizzy V Ranch in Marietta.

"Stay around here long enough and you'll know why it's called Dizzy V Ranch," said the Vogt's 18-year-old daughter Becky.

The phone rings constantly. If it isn't for the grain business or the Vogt Farm Bed & Breakfast, it's for Becky or her teen-age sister.

"Flying Farmers is a family organization," Kathy said. It was founded in 1944 by Oklahoma farmers who recognized the growing interest in airplanes among farmers.

"You can't take long vacations when you're in farming. An airplane allows farmers to take day and weekend trips," Kathy said of the reason farmers opt to fly planes.

Flying Farmers started with 38 charter members in Oklahoma. Farmers in other states soon became interested and within two years, 262 farmer-pilots from 16 states attended the first convention. The organization grew rapidly until it reached its height with almost 11,000 members in 1977.

Today, a struggling farm economy is reflected in the dwindling membership. There are 5,000 members in 35 chapters across the United States and Canada.

"Farmers have a tough time affording a plane with commodity prices so low," Kathy said.

But the farmers who manage to combine farming and flying are an enthusiastic bunch.

"The organization is very family oriented," Kathy said. The convention contained lots of children and youth activities.

In fact, Becky, who is Pennsylvania's Farmerette for Flying Farmers, took first place in the youth talent competition.

Becky sang, "Love in Any Language," and accompanied herself on the piano.

As the state Farmerette, Becky also competed for the international farmerette title.

"I wanted to be a farmerette ever since my sister Michele won the title," Becky said. "It's like having our own little Miss America thing."

As the state farmerette, Becky travels to meetings to represent Flying Farmers.

Becky is a senior at Donegal High School where music plays a key part in her life. She is a member of marching, concert, and jazz bands. She plays the horn, mellaphone, and piano. She also is a member of the chorus and the rhythm singers, and she sings and dances in several school musicals and shows.

She also is baseball manager, a member of the National Honor Society, and active in the youth group at Calvary Bible Church. This summer, Becky is working at K-Mart and helps her dad with computer and secretarial work for the grain business.

Her enthusiasm for Flying Farmers is not limited to talking. Her goal is to become a pilot.

Her father became interested in flying 21 years ago when he accompanied a friend who flew a small plane. Six months later, Keith attained his visual flight license and the next year, his instrument rating.

Kathy said that she learned to land a plane and can pilot it except that she refuses to solo. "In an airplane, I can't pull to the side of the road until I gain a sense of direction."

But Kathy has played numerous active roles in the Flying Farmer's Association. In it, she was a previous state queen and was named Pennsylvania Women of the Year.

Keith's primary purpose in attaining his pilot license was the opportunity flying allowed the family to take day trips that would required overnight stays if taken by car.

His grain business that he began on the farm started with hauling grain by truck. It has now expanded to include storage and drying facilities. Harvesting months require long hours around the clock, but during the winter months, Keith has some time to pilot for a local embryo transplant company.

Kathy said the bed and breakfast business sort of evolved from her love of having visitors on the farm. When she wanted to earn some

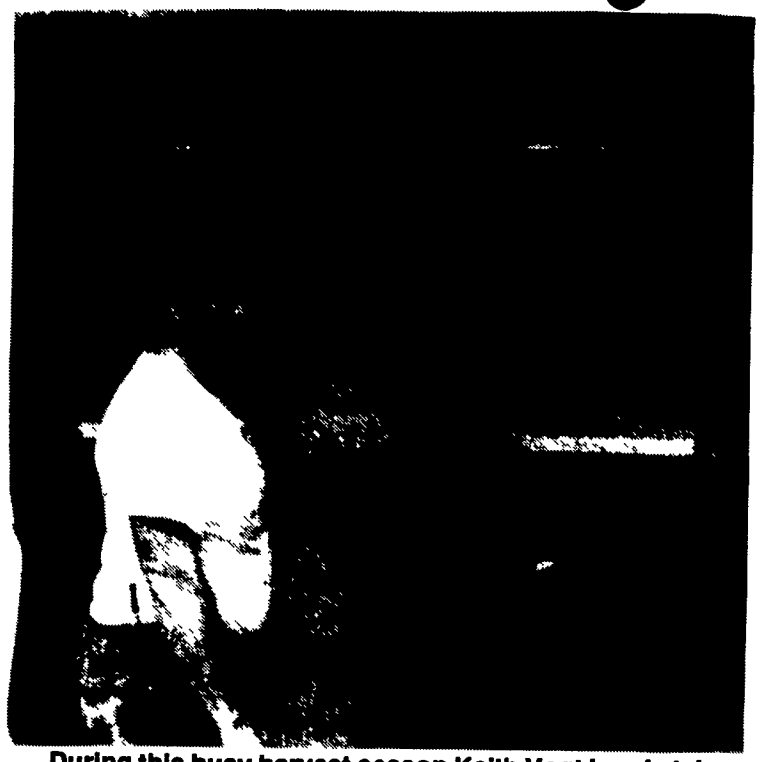
It's seldom that a member of the Vogt family has time to sit and enjoy the beauty of the farm, which is named Dizzy V Farm. Becky said, "If you sit around for awhile, you'll soon know why this place is called Dizzy V."



During this busy harvest season Keith Vogt barely takes time to sleep. He operates a grain business, flies an airplane for pleasure, and is a company pilot for a nearby embryo transplant business. The annual convention of the International Flying Farmers is always a high point in his life. This year, he was so busy with his grain business that he found little time to attend sessions at the convention held in Reading.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

International Flying Farmers Select Representatives

READING (Berks Co.) — For the first time since 1985, the International Flying Farmers organization held their annual convention in the eastern part of the United States last week.

For the first time ever, Flying Farmers elected a woman to hold a position on the international board of directors.

Aileen Homan from Centre County is the secretary of the international organization. It is a five-year commitment that will result in her moving through the ranks and eventually become the president of the organization.

The Holmans have been members of the organization since 1952 when Aileen's husband Elwood purchased a plane. The Holmans own a 300-acre farm about eight miles west of Penn State University.

"Both flying and farming has changed for us over that time span," Aileen said.

The Holmans are now retired and their son crop farms the land with some help from Elwood. Over the years the Holmans have owned several larger-size planes that they used to fly across the country, but now they settled on a J3 Cub, which they use mostly for pleasure flying in the area.

"At one time, it was much cheaper to learn to fly and the upkeep of a plane wasn't as great," Aileen said. "It's also more expensive and time consuming to farm. Consequently it's difficult for young farmers to fly.

"Membership is mostly older couples but I'd like to see younger couples able to participate," Aileen said.

Aileen has held every state office in the Pennsylvania Flying Farmers Chapter during her 50 year involvement. She has been the Pennsylvania Queen for the organization three times.

Being the first woman elected to a position is nothing new to Aileen who was also the first woman president of the Pennsylvania chapter and of Ag Land Preservation in Centre County and of the Centre County Waste Authority. She has been one of three woman to become supervisor for Ferguston Township. She is or has served on the boards of Food Bank, League of Cities, Garden Club, and other organizations in addition to being active in the local Church of Christ.

"I'm so happy to serve in this capacity," Aileen said of the job that will required her flying to many different states during the next five years.

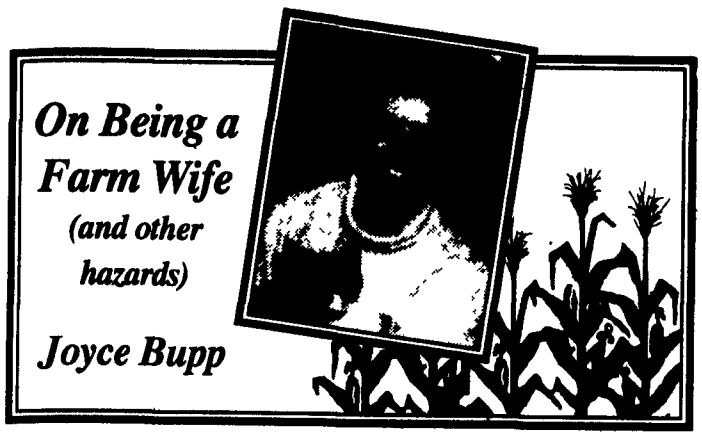
In other business, Kelly Jennings from Iowa was selected as the International Farmerette.

The adult counterpart is Queen Naomi Wallman from Kansas. Assisting her is the International Dutchess Sharon Johanings from Ohio.

Another Pennsylvanian, Matthew Zimmerman, was the first-place winner in the junior talent contest.

In addition to chapter meetings held in 35 states, the international convention is held each year in a different state. The convention date alternates annually between July and August.

Those interested in knowing more about the Flying Farmers should contact a member or the Holmans at (814) 237-7510.



Every parent has probably experienced it.

That moment of utter parental exasperation when—for a fleeting moment—you could just set that frustrating kid aside and out of your life. Very temporarily, of course. When it actually happens, when they slice those apron strings and depart merrily off on their own life, there are separation pangs.

Awareness of that crashed over us some six years ago, when our newly-married daughter and son-in-law packed up a van-full of worldly belongings and headed West. We had no idea when we would see.them again.

Believe me, it gave this mom a deep, deep appreciation and empathy for the mothers of the pioneers. Many of them never again saw the sons and daughters they waved goodbye to, as they headed West to homestead. Even a letter was somewhat of a rarity.

This distance is less vast in our late twentieth century, thanks to technology. Via telephone, postal and parcel service, even the computer, our family has remained close and in touch at least weekly from west to east coast. And at least once a year, they've returned to visit or family here has gone there.

I thought we had adapted pretty well to the absence and distance. They were happy with their active lives, while farming and extra-curricular involvements kept us equally occupied. We are all simply too busy to dwell on the distance between us.

Then, along came a new gliche —a grandson.

Originally, they planned to visit with us three weeks. While the nation's weird weather of the summer of '95 has messed up many lives and plans, it worked in our selfish favor in this instance. Josh and his mom extended their visit back here by an extra two weeks.

See, their summer was to again be spent in a fire tower on the Idaho Montana border as seasonal employees of the U.S. Forest Service. Spotting, charting and directing firefighting efforts—from a vantage point of a 9,000-foot mountain-top observation and living area—is a summertime opportunity for these two whose lives are somewhat free when schools are not in session.

But their mid-June arrival date at the tower was delayed for a week. Then two. Then three. Seems there was 10 feet of snow covering the dirt parking lot which serves the tower, as well as the drifts over the rugged road that climbs the mountain to it.

Meanwhile, month-old Josh was being inducted into farm life back East. Manure coated his stroller wheels on trips around the dairy barn. He went on his first farm-pond fishing trip and his first trip to a cattle auction. The dogs sniffed at him and went on their way, but Monk, the housecat, remained fascinated with the scent of baby and poked her nose around the baby equipment scattered around "her" house.

Summer finally arrived in the Fayette National Forest and our two generations of family are back West. She writes that most of the snow is melted, except for a high, solid drift from which they must jump down to reach the outhouse. They have yet to see the herd of elk reported nearby.

Monk has "her" house back, minus the intriguing smells. Our sink is back to holding only dishes, and not a baby who loves an evening bath there. And, I thought I'd handled missing them pretty well until I found one tiny sock a few days ago. A baby bottle left in the refrigerator. And a soft baby blanket which had slipped behind his mom's bed, scented with baby.

Two hills away from us, a tall, cellular-phone, broadcast tower was erected a few years ago. Wonder if they'd consider doubling it up as a fire tower for this neighborhood.

We know someone who could staff it.

extra money, it seemed natural to offer their 1865 brick farmhouse to guests.

At first, her one complaint about having overnight guests was the need to cook breakfast.

"I always said that I'd rather cook a full-course dinner than breakfast," Kathy said. But that soon changed. With a cache of tasty breakfast recipes, Kathy now prefers to prepare breakfast rather than dinner.

Although the breakfast menu varies, it often includes such specialties as cheddar eggs, breakfast pie or egg, potato, and cheese casserole. In addition, either pecan sticky buns, apples en croute, blueberry coffee cake or fruit pizza are served with beverages. Everything is homemade and Kathy will even accomodate special dietary needs for the guests.

The first year, the Vogts offered only one room to guests but that soon expanded to three guest rooms.

Kathy does all the laundry, cleaning, and cooking required for the bed and breakfast in addition to the usual household chores required in raising a family.

"Sometimes I feel guilty that I don't have more time to keep the grandkids or spend time with the family," Kathy said. "But I prefer to be a loner in the kitchen. I have my own way, time frame and functioning skills to get everything done."

The demands of running two businesses also resulted in Kathy resigning from community involvement such as being 4-H leader and local coordination.

Both Kathy and Keith eat with the guests at the table that opens for 20, but the girls are barred from the guest table, Becky said, "Because we don't have good enough table manners and our grades aren't good enough."

Her father's standing joke to the guests is "Becky only gets a 4.1 grade average, she can't even make a five."

Occasionally a solictous guests doesn't pick up on the camaraderie between the parents and their daughters and express dismay that the girls' "bad" grades aren't kept confidential.

"We are so accustomed to hearing Dad's jokes that sometimes we just ignore him," Becky explained the reason for some guests' misinterpretation of the family's inside jokes.

The Vogt's recently installed a gas fireplace with an old-fashioned look by using wood shutters stored in the barn for the framework and a combination of molding resulted in a beautifully carved mantle that coordinates with the trimwork of the nineteen century house.

Coffee and tea is served to guests in bed. The bedrooms are comfortably decorated with family antiques mixed among other treasures. Robes are available in each room for guests who desire to lounge on the upstairs balcony or to sip coffee on the patio.

In addition to the two teen-age daughters living at home, the Vogts have two married daughters, one foster son, and seven grandchildren.

For more information about the Vogt Farm Bed & Breakfast, call (717) 653-4810.

As the Pennsylvania Flying Farmers Farmerette, Becky competed for the international title by playing the piano and singing "Love in any Language." She won first place in the talent competition, but a teen-ager from Iowa took the international title. This room in the 1865 brick farmhouse is shared with guests who stay at the Vogt Farm Bed & Breakfast.

Pork Recipe Contest

DES MOINES, Iowa — Convenient meals with "big" flavors top the list of hot food trends, according to a recent poll of food professionals by the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC). Now, the NPPC is asking Americans which of these trends are currently tantalizing tastebuds at their own tables with the Taste What's Next Recipe Contest.

"We've talked to the professionals who say ethnic flavors, hot and spicy seasonings, lean meats, exotic fruits and easy-to-make meals with more flavor and less fat are the hottest trends," says Robin Kline, a registered dietitian and director of the Pork Information Bureau (PIB) for the NPPC. "Now we want to talk to the real experts — the people who are preparing meals for thier families every day — and see how they are using these trends in their own homes."

Recipes must include fresh pork (such as pork loin, tenderloin or chops) and will be judged for creativity/originality; use of contemporary ingredients; convenience and ease of preparation; and taste and appearance. A total of $3,000 will be awarded. The grand prize winner will receive $1,500. Cash prizes will also be awarded to the first, second and third runners-up.

The contest also uses "what's next" in communications technology — in addition to mailing or faxing in entries, contestants can e-mail their recipes directly to the NPPC. The entry deadline is November 30. Winners will be announced by March 31, 1996. For more information and the official contest rules, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to:

Mary Laeger-Hagemeister

It's hard to believe that in a few short weeks the children will be heading back to school. My two feel like they just "got out" and are not really excited about thinking of being back in the classroom, however, they do want to see their friends that they loose touch with over the summer months.

Whether your child is heading off to school for the first time as a kindergartner or first grader, or making a transition to junior high or high school, or just moving on to the next grade, school involves transition. That transition is felt by not just the students but the family as well. There are new teachers, new routines, maybe new classmates and of course new expectations of what they will be able to achieve. That adjustment period is more difficult for some children than for others, but no matter what, parents need to be patient with their children as they go through this transition period. There are some tips to keep in mind whether it's the first day of school for your youngster, or you have a child facing "senioritis."

• Treat going to school as part of the normal course of events, something that parents casually accept that the child will be doing with some support and encouragement.

• Don't make the beginning of school a topic of daily conversation during the summer months. Don't belabor the issue, or as one child said for her overzealous mother, "Don't make a federal case out of it!"

• Answer honestly all questions the child asks about school and what to expect. Uncertainty can make children anxious. They need to know details in order to master their anxiety—things like the number of days they will attend, how many hours they will be away from home and how they will get to and from school. This is especially true for first-timers but may also be true for children going into junior or high school.

• Don't give the impression that there is any choice about whether or not to attend school. Children will often say, "I'm not goin'" or "They can't make me." Respond to these comments calmly and reassuringly, letting the child know that you understand the child's concerns about this new situation but that you are confident that he or she will be able to handle it. You may want to add that there is a law which requires children to attend school.

• Let your child know that you appreciate his or her efforts to do what is being asked, and that you will do your part to make it as easy as possible for the child to meet this new responsibility.

• Don't try to force the child to be enthusiastic about going to school. It is natural for children to be less than ecstatic about entering the uncertain territory of school. Allow, even encourage, them to express all their feelings about school.

• If you are an employed parent and will not be home when school is out, be sure your child understand the arrangements for after-school care.

• It is important to remember that a child is susceptible to pressures created in school. If your child did satisfactory work last year he or she will probably continue to do so. But not necessarily. In each new school year, new subjects and new teachers call for a certain amount of adjustment on the part of the student. An individual child's manner of adjusting may differ even from year to year. In a study, ninth and tenth grade girls were to list problems or areas of difficulty in their lives. Adjustment to school work was listed the greatest number of times! This is not something we typically think about as difficult for children who have that many years of experience going to school!

• Patience, understanding and encouragement are called for as each school year begins. At times, adults tend to minimize the impact on the child that a new school year brings. We need to remember that the child in our family is not the same person he/she was last year. The child has grown; interests have probably changed, new doubts may have arisen, old friends may have moved. All of these and more mean that the child must redesign at least a few aspects of his/her life.

• A study of teen girls found their second most frequently listed problem centered around their relationship with others. Many of these relationships are grounded in school. Classmates of last year may no longer be classmates...or may be in different schools. Over the summer, some friends may have moved physically; others may have "moved away" emotionally. Friends of last year may choose new friends this year, leaving your youngster feeling left out. Considerable adjustment is involved.

• Another problem area for young people has to do with social and recreational activities. They often worry about these activities—or at least about their involvement in them. These worries typically come to a boil as children begin yet another year of school and school-related activities -another area where adjustment is required.

In closing, just remember some children adjust well, hardly missing a beat in their new school life. Some, however, find adjustment more difficult. These are the ones who especially need parental patience, understanding, and encouragement. Given that, most of them will also adjust in a few weeks or a month.

Breakthrough Can Help 40 Million Dyslexics

More than 40 million American children and adults suffer from the many varied symptoms of dyslexia and related Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD). Thanks to the groundbreaking medical research of Dr. Harold Levinson—a world-renowned psychiatrist and neurologist—there are renewed hope and help for all dyslexics, their loved ones, and all interested educators and healers.

Using real-named and pictured dyslexics in a provocative and important "text that reads like a novel," "A Scientific Watergate—Dyslexia" (Stonebridge Publishing, $24.95 U.S.) clarifies the dyslexic syndrome while exposing the confusion and "cover-up" characterizing prior research efforts—hence the Watergate title.

Following the examination of 25,000 dyslexics over the past 30 years, Levinson proved that:

•Dyslexia is due to a simple single-scrambling disturbance of inner-ear origin—and not due to brain damage as mistakenly believed for the past 100 years.

•Children can be easily screened for dyslexia before symptoms arise and before emotional scarring occurs—using a uniquely designed and patented 3-D optical scanner.

•Safe medications and nutrients—similar to those given astronauts before space flights—result in rapid and often dramatic improvements in more than 75 percent of treated children and adults.

For clear and vital insights into helpful therapies, "A Scientific Watergate—Dyslexia" is strongly recommended. It is available at bookstores, or call 1-800-334-READ.

The Many Tastes Of Tomatoes

Fads in food come and go. Salsa, a seldom-heard-of dish in this area a decade ago, is hot on the market now. But fried tomatoes aren't as popular now as they were in grandma's era — although people still love them if they aren't against fried food for dietary reasons.

One thing that hasn't changed is the popularity and versatility of tomatoes. Tomatoes are great in fresh, cooked, baked, grilled, broiled, and canned recipes. The variety available by combining tomatoes with other foods continues to amaze cooks who enjoy trying new recipes.

Here are some favorite old recipes with some fresh recipes that are appealing for both traditional and modern cooks.

TOMATO ZUCCHINI SAUTE

1 pound sliced zucchini
4 tablespoons instant minced onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 medium tomatoes, chopped
½ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon black pepper

Saute zucchini and minced onion in 2 tablespoons butter. Add 2 tomatoes, garlic salt, oregano, and black pepper. Saute 5 minutes.

TOMATO BUTTER

5 quarts ground ripe tomatoes
3 medium onions, ground
1 pint vinegar
3 cups brown sugar
2 cups granulated sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
1 tablespoons salt

Peel and grind tomatoes and onions. Combine vinegar, sugar, spices, and salt in heavy saucepan; bring to a boil. Add vegetables and simmer over low heat until thick, stirring frequently to prevent sticking. Ladle hot mixture into hot jars and seal at once. About 5 pints.

V-8 TOMATO JUICE

6 quarts tomato juice
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons celery salt
2 teaspoons onion salt
2 teaspoons garlic salt

Bring mixture to a boil. Pour into hot jars and seal.

Alice Yoder
Lewistown

BEEF AND CHEESE BAKE

1 pound ground beef
½ cup green pepper, chopped
½ cup onion, chopped
1 pound canned tomatoes
6 ounces tomato paste
½ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
2 cups elbow macaroni, cooked
10 ounces shredded cheddar cheese
Parmesan cheese

Saute onion and pepper in oil. Brown ground beef, drain. Stir in tomatoes, tomato paste, water, salt, bay leaf, and cook 20 minutes.

In 2-quart casserole, alternate layers of macaroni, meat mixture, and cheese.

Top with parmesan cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

TOMATILLO SALSA

5½ cups chopped, cored, husked tomatillos* (about 2 pounds)
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped green chili peppers
4 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons minced cilantro
2 teaspoons cumin
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon red pepper
1 cup vinegar
¼ cup lime juice

*Tomatillos are also known as Mexican husk tomatoes. They do not need to be peeled or seeded, but the dry outer husk must be removed.

Combine all ingredients in a large saucepan. Bring mixture to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Ladle hot salsa into hot jars, leaving ¼ -inch head space. Adjust two-piece caps. Process 15 minutes in a boiling-water canner.

Yield: about 2 pints.

TOMATO SANDWICHES

1. large ripe tomato, peeled
1 large onion, peeled
16 slices sandwich bread
1 tablespoon mustard
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
Salt and pepper

Cut tomatoes and onions into eight (¼ -inch thick) slices each; layer tomato and onion slices in a shallow dish. Cover and refrigerate eight hours.

Cut bread slices into circles the size of tomato slices. Combine mustard and mayonnaise. Spread on one side of each bread round. Discard onion slices. Place tomato slice on eight bread rounds. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Top with remaining bread rounds. Cover; chill up to two days. Yields 8 sandwiches.

DANISH GREEN TOMATO RELISH

30 green tomatoes
5 large onions
3 sweet red peppers
3 sweet green peppers
4 tablespoons salt
4 tablespoons dry mustard
1 tablespoon celery seeds
4 cups sugar
5 cups vinegar

Grind tomatoes, onions and seeded peppers in food chopper. Add salt and let stand overnight. Drain, discard liquid and add remaining ingredients to vegetables.

Bring to a boil and simmer 30 minutes. Ladle into hot, sterilized jars; seal at once. Process in hot water bath for 5 minutes. Adjust lids. Makes 6 pints.

Sipping a cool and creamy milk shake has always been a moo-st delicious way for kids to get the calcium they need every day. And now, kids ages 10 to 16 can "shake it up" in the "Shake Yourself A Winner" Recipe Contest sponsored by America's Dairy Farmers. Five lucky finalists will win an all-expense-paid trip to the Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park.

The rules are simple! The milk shake recipe must be the contestant's original creation and use at least one half (½) cup of milk per serving. Recipes will be judged on taste, visual appeal and originality.

Kids are encouraged to go a little wild when shaking up their shakes. Ice cream, frozen yogurt, fruit, syrups and sauces, cookies, even candy can be blended with the milk. Last year's second prize winner "shook up" the judges with her Butter Cup Shake, a nutty blend of milk, peanut butter, honey and butter pecan ice cream.

Following a preliminary judging, five finalists will advance to the final judging and "Shake-Off" at the Disney-MGM Studios in Orlando, Fla. on October 7. In addition to the all-expense paid trip to Orlando, all five finalists will win a year's supply of ice cream. The top three winner also will receive cast prizes.

Send recipes to: Shake Yourself A Winner, P.O. Box 1370, Barrington, IL 60011 or e-mail them to MooShake@aol.com. Entries must be received either by U.S. mail or e-mail by 11:59 p.m. (CT) on September 2, 1995. For complete rules, send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to Shake It Up Rules, P.O. Box 930, Barrington, IL 60011. Contest rules are also available in The Cooking on American Online.

Butter Cup Shake

1 cup milk
½ cup honey
½ cup peanut butter
2 cups butter pecan ice cream
Whipped cream
Butterscotch chips
Toasted coconut

In blender container, place milk, honey and peanut butter; blend until combined. Add ice cream; blend until smooth. Pour into two tall glasses. Top with whipped cream, butterscotch chips and toasted coconut.

Yield: 2 servings.

Newville Chefs Mix Old Recipes With Local History

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

NEWVILLE (Cumberland Co.) — At the Newville Chefs, a Cumberland County 4-H cooking club, the members mix delicious recipes with interesting local history.

When the two are combined they make some tasty dishes, as Almyra Heine, one of the club's leaders, has found.

Heine said the cooking part of the program for the club, which will meet six times this summer's focuses on the 4-H Whole Grains cookbook. That book was selected because it covers recipes that people of the 18th and 19th centuries used, she said.

For instance, one of those recipes is for 100 percent whole wheat bread. The ingredients for that are one package of active dry yeast, one tablespoon of molasses, one-third cup of warm water, three cups of whole wheat flour, one-quarter cup of potato flakes, one teaspoon of salt, two tablespoons of vegetable oil, and one cup of cold water.

Although it's an old recipe, the club uses modern techniques to prepare it. Dissolve the yeast with molasses in warm water and let it stand until foamy, about five minutes. Using a metal blade in a food processor, add flour, potato flakes and salt and pulse several times.

Next, add oil to the yeast mixture and pour the mixture into the running food processor followed by cold water through the feed tube in a steady stream as quickly as the flour mixture can absorb it. Continue processing for about 60 seconds after the dough leaves the side of the bowl and forms a ball.

Shape the dough into a smooth ball and place it in a lightly floured one-gallon plastic bag. Squeeze out the air and close it with a wire twist, allowing room for the dough to rise.

When the dough has doubled, remove the twist and punch it down in the bag, then shape it into a loaf and put it in a greased 9 1/2 x 2 3/4-inch loaf pan. Cover it with plastic wrap which has been oiled and let it rise in a warm place until the loaf has risen two inches above the pan's rim.

Finally pop it in on the middle rack of an oven preheated to 375 degrees and bake for 35 minutes. Other bread recipes have been on the menu list for the Newville chefs as well.

To make things authentic, Heine said they even went to her house to bake bread on the open hearth in her home.

For the history part of their program, the club members made stops at several places that played prominent roles in the life of their area in the 1700s and the 1800s.

One of those places was the Big Spring Presbyterian Church, Heine said. The club members walked along Parsonage Street in Newville and went to the graveyard where they did rubbings on the old gravestones of such well-known local forefathers as Colonel Denning and John Graham.

The club members studied the history of local mills' too because they were vital to the settling of the area, Heine said. Few of those mills are still around, but the members visited one of them, the Laughlin Mill.

That picturesque mill is not only in a pretty setting along the Big Spring Creek, it is one of the major historic attractions of the Newville area, having been built in the mid-1700s.

The 4-H Newville Chefs learn about 19th century manners during a visit to Victorian Reflections, a local tea room.

Heine said the 15 club members at one point ventured to the head of the five-mile-long Big Spring and ate and cooked some 18th and 19th century foods.

In the process, they learned that there were once six major mills and several smaller ones along the creek as the area was settled, she said.

One of those mills was the Macracken Mill, which once filled an order from one of the most prominent figures of the 1800s, Heine said.

That person was Queen Victoria of England who ordered 50 barrels of flour. The royal household liked the mill's product so much that the queen later ordered another 100 barrels, Heine said.

While the club members were soaking up this history and making their jelly, pancakes, muffins and such, they also got a lesson in the characteristics of limestone streams like the Big Spring.

And, Heine said, they went to an unusual local business, Victorian Reflections, where they got a lesson in delicate 19th century manners.

All in all, the members of the Newville chefs are having a summer to remember while learning about interesting facets of their area that should never be forgotten.

Canning And Freezing Workshop

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Rutgers Cooperative Extension 4-H and Home Economics will be presenting a "Canning and Freezing Workshop," using USDA Guidelines to safe food processing. The workshop will be held on Tuesday, August 1, 7 p.m. at the Extension Center on Route 31 in Flemington. There is a $3 charge for the workshop.

Food preservation is the protection of food from spoilage. Spoilage can mean unattractively done to downright dangerous because sometimes the spoilage is not evident, but can be deadly. Participants will learn safe, effective canning and freezing methods. Call Rutgers Cooperative Extension at (908) 788-1340 to register for this workshop.

ANSWER — Katie Stoltzfus, Christiana, wanted to know how to make Spam. Thanks to a Lebanon County reader for sending a recipe.

Spam Salad

1 can Spam
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 stalk celery chopped
1 grated carrot
1 chopped onion

Grind ingredients in a meat grinder. Add enough mayonnaise to be able to make a sandwich. Use as you would ham salad.

Also, you can slice it and heat in oil in a frying pan or dice it and add to macaroni and cheese or scalloped potatoes prior to baking.

Raisin Pie

1 pound raisins
1 to 1½ cups brown sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 eggs, well beaten
Juice and rind of 1 lemon, grated

Cover the raisins with water and let soak several hours or overnight. Drain off water. Mix 1 cup sugar, cornstarch, and eggs with the water. Return to raisins and cook over low heat until thickened. Add juice and rind of lemon. Let cool. Fill unbaked pie shells with filling, a dot of butter, and put on top crust. Bake at 400 degrees about 40-45 minutes. Taste for sweetness while it's cooking and add extra sugar if desired.

TOMATO PUDDING

1 quart bread cubes without crust
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons butter, melted
2 cups tomato puree
½ cup water
½ cup brown sugar
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Place the bread cubes in an oiled, flat 1-quart glass baking dish. Pour the butter over the cubes and set aside. In a medium saucepan, combine the remaining ingredients and simmer, covered, for 5 minutes. Remove the bay leaf and pour mixture over the buttered cubes. Do not stir. Bake in a pan of hot water for one hour. The top of the pudding will be puffed and dark brown. Serve immediately.

TOMATO RELISH

8 quarts ripe tomotoes, peeled
6 large onions, peeled
4 sweet green peppers, cored
2 cups cut-up celery
1 quart vinegar
4 cups brown sugar
⅓ cup salt
4 tablespoons mustard seeds
3½ tablespoons cinnamon

Chop tomatoes coarsely. Chop other vegetables coarsely. Combine all ingredients and cook slowly, stirring occasionally, 2 hours or until mixture is thick and clear. Ladle into hot, sterilized jars; seal at once. Process in boiling water 5 minutes. Makes about 14 pints.

STEWED TOMATOES

4 quarts peeled, cored, chopped tomatoes
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped onion
¾ cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons salt

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine all ingredients, cover and cook 10 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. Carefully pour into hot jars, leaving ½ -inch head space. Adjust caps.

Process 15 minutes at 10 pounds pressure in a pressure canner. Yield: about 7 pint jars.

Ball Corporation

ITALIAN POLENTA CHEESE CASSEROLE

1 cup yellow commeal
3 cups reduced-salt chicken broth
2½ cups shredded mozzarella or provolone cheese, divided
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
2 cloves garlic, minced
1¼ teaspoons Italian seasonings, divided
¼ teaspoon salt and pepper
4 cups packed fresh spinach leaves
½ cup prepared pizza sauce
2 medium tomatoes, sliced (optional)

Combine cornmeal and chicken broth in 2-quart microwave-safe dish. Microwave, covered, on high 10 to 12 minutes, stirring every 3 to 4 minutes. Mixture should be very thick. Stir in ½ cup cheese. Spoon into buttered square or rectangular 2½ -quart baking dish. Cool at least 15 minutes. Meanwhile, heat butter in large skillet. Saute mushrooms, garlic, and ¾ teaspoon Italian seasoning one minute. Add salt and pepper. Add spinach to skillet. Toss lightly and cook one minute or until spinach wilts. Spread pizza sauce evenly over polenta. Top with spinach mixture. Arrange sliced tomatoes over spinach. Toss remaining cheese and Italian seasoning. Sprinkle over tomatoes. Bake in 350 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until cheese is melted and casserole is heated through.

2 teaspoons baking soda
5 cups flour
2 cups hot water
2 cups molasses
2 teaspoons vanilla

Mix together all ingredients. Spoon mixture on top of first layer in pie shells and bake at 350 degrees or until lightly browned. Makes 4 pies.

Chocolate Shoo Fly Pie

Cream together:
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup cooking oil
2 eggs
4 tablespoons cocoa

Add:
2 cups molasses
2 cups hot water
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon or vanilla
4½ -5 cups flour

Chocolate Pudding:
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons cocoa
1 tablespoon butter
2 cups water
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Pour pudding on bottom of pie, then pour shoo-fly mixture on top. Bake at 350 degrees. Makes 4 pies. Top with chocolate lover's icing.

Chocolate Lover's Icing:
¼ cup butter
½ cup cocoa
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup milk
1½ teaspoons vanilla
3 cups confectioners' sugar

Beat together ingredients. If needed, add more confectioners' sugar until mixture reaches spreading consistency.

Apple Butter Contest

WINCHESTER, Va.—The Virginia Championship Apple Butter Making Contest will be held on Saturday, September 16, in the Winchester Recreation Park. The annual event is held in conjunction with the Rotary Club's Apple Harvest Festival and affords the participants an opportunity to win over $700 in prize money.

The contest is sponsored by the Frederick County Extension Office and the Winchester/Frederick County Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with area apple producers and support businesses. The apple butter must be made in the park on the day of the contest and can be sold on both Saturday and Sunday during the Festival.

If you are interested in trying to unseat the 1994 Virginia Apple Butter Making Champion—Robert Young—contact the Frederick County Extension Service by writing to: Second Floor, Frederick County Courthouse, 20 North Loudoun Street, Winchester, VA 22601; or phoning (540) 665-5699 for rules and an entry form.

Signalman Dan, Sidekick Matt Line Up Competition At IFF Pull

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

READING (Berks Co.) — Dan Brown took off his blue baseball cap, waved it wildly in the air, and stood back — signalling the start of the tractor pull.

Megan Detraglia, 7, from Pittsford, N.Y., pedaled the tractor easily to the finish line.

Dan, 12, Granville, N.Y., shook his head in dismay. Obviously not enough weights, he knew. It was getting way too easy for competitors to pedal their way to a championship.

In the end, only a few made it to the end of the raceway anyway, which read, "Stop, Superman!"

Ryan Dixon, 8, son of Lloyd and Linda Dixon, Chesapeake, Va., pushed the tractor to the finish line. Ryan said he felt "confident I could make it."

But the start of the race signalled the beginning of more work for signalman Dan, as he realized he'd have to stop and help load the one-pound "weights" (in other words, bricks) into the "carriage" (the pull cart) in the "pit" (the edge of the sidewalk).

Dan was too busy making sure the right kids lined up for the start, so he called upon his friend, Matt Zimmerman, for help.

"I'm doing all the work as signalman anyway," said Matt, 12, with a shrug. Matt, the son of Lois and John Zimmerman, Bellefonte, could only watch as Dan had the honor of waving the hat.

The tractor pull was one of several "olympic" events held during the eight-day International Flying Farmers (IFF) convention last week at the Reading Sheraton Berkshire Hotel.

The outdoor event featured 20 childen ages 12 and under. It was held while parents attended the business meeting of the IFF.

Lois Zimmerman, Bellefonte, a co-adviser of the youth competition, said that the previous day's event had children compete in the airplane throwing contest outside the hotel. Airplanes were assembled and tossed over a ledge into an empty parking lot. Trophies were awarded to best distance in age group categories.

For the tractor pull, for first place winners, trophies were handed out. Toy tractors were handed out to the second place winners.

Signalman Dan, Sidekick Matt Line Up Competition At IFF Pull

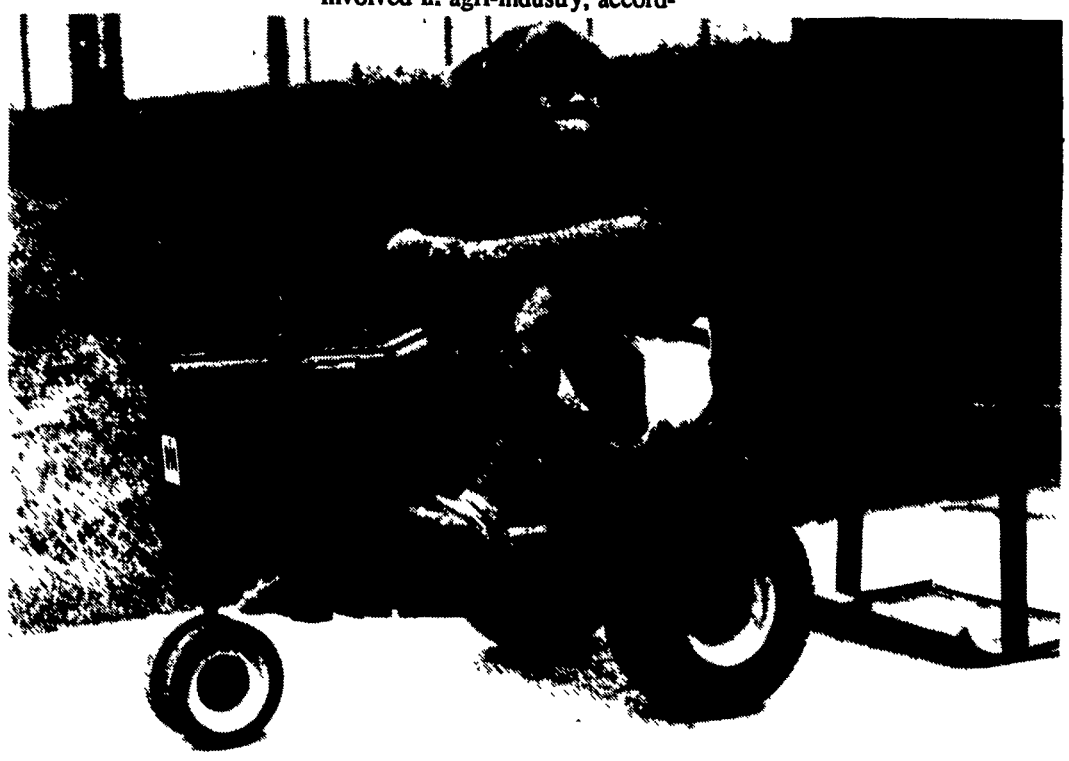
Also featured at the IFF convention were the junior and senior talent shows, which featured the talents of children in the IFF. IFF youth played a variety of musical instruments in the competition, including saxophone, oboe; French horn, and piano.

This year didn't feature as many participants in the shows, according to Lois Zimmerman. But attendance was improved for the tours all week, including to the Wilbur Chocolate Company in Lititz and Hershey Park in Hershey.

Many of the youth are farm children and children of parents involved in agri-industry, according to Zimmerman. Zimmerman was a co-adviser of the events, along with Brian and Michele Strizki, Flemington, N.J.

About 360 attended the week-long IFF Convention, held in a different location each year. Next year, the event will be held from June 28-July 7 in Rapid City, S.D.



Megan Detraglia, 7, from Pittsford, N.Y., pedaled the tractor easily to the finish line.

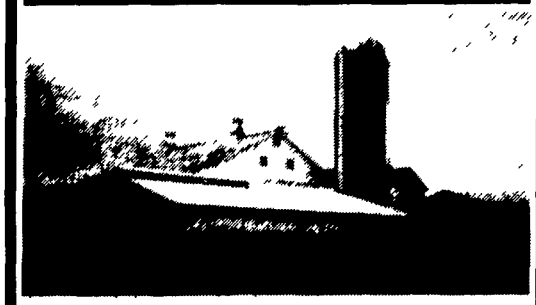
CURTAIN SYSTEMS



Lapp's Curtain System

Lapp's insulated curtains can help you make your farm more efficient. You can save up to 30% on your fuel/energy costs while maintaining a comfortable climate enables livestock to feed into live weight more efficiently, the curtain makes your barn warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

Our curtains are available in both 4 and 6 ply, both of which are faced with a impervious white vinyl layer which faces the elements. With all these benefits, the average payback is two years!

A lower cost alternative to the insulated curtains, are Lapp's single layer curtains. You still get all the benefits of using a high quality curtain to keep the elements outside and being able to lower the curtain to naturally ventilate in your barn.

Emily Dum Reigns In Perry County

LANDISBURG (Perry Co.) — Emily Dum was recently crowned Perry County Dairy Princess. She is the daughter of Thomas III and Shayne Dum of Landisburg.

Assisting Emily in dairy promotion duties are alternates Colleen Kretzing, daughter of Perry and Adelaide Kretzing of Loysville, and Pamela Stephens, daughter of Robert and Anna Stephens, Newport.

Each of the three contestants presented a skit and a speech concerning an aspect of the dairy industry. On stage, the contestants answered an impromptu question. They were interviewed by judges Patricia Miller, a former coordinator and treasurer, Marg Malehorn, Cumberland County Extension home economist; and Jay Kopp, dairy farmer.

Entertainment was provided by Heidi, Holly, and Paul Miller. Beverly Amsler, news director for WQLV, LOVE 99 F.M. emceed the pageant.

Marel Raub, the 1993-1994 Perry County Dairy Princess crowned Emily.

To serve as dairy ambassadors are Amanda Stephens, daughter of Robert and Anna Stephens, Newport, and Laurie Smith, daughter of Hunter and Kathy Smith, Newport.

Liza Haas, the former Perry County dairy ambassador, thanked everyone for their support and the opportunity to promote the dairy industry. Liza's sister Gretchen was the Little Miss during 1994-1995. Bcth are daughters of Gary and Lucinda Haas, Millerstown.

Consuming Thoughts

by

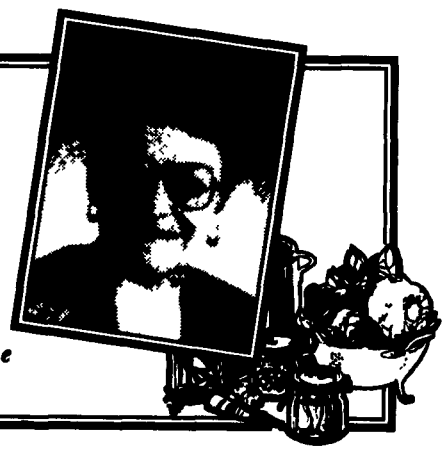
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Consumers often ask whether it is safe to eat seafood. The answer is yes—if you select a variety of products from reputable establishments or use recreationally harvested fish in ways consistent with the health advisories and handle and cook them properly, you can feel confident that potential safety concerns associated with seafood are minimized. Caution should be used if you eat raw finfish or shellfish. Persons with acute medical conditions should avoid eating raw seafood, but can enjoy eating it in cooked dishes.

Consumers have been receiving mixed messages about the quality of seafood. Seafood is a tasty and nutritious part of a healthy diet. But as with other foods there are things consumers need to know.

Potential seafood quality problems result primarily from improper handling, preparation or storage which can taint the product, consequently making people ill. Other safety concerns related to natural marine toxins or environmental contaminants are uniquely associated with specific types of fish or particular shellfish growing areas.

Proper Handling Is The Best Defense—Proper cooling or refrigeration is essential to preserve the quality of seafood. The U.S. General Accounting Office reported that one of the major causes of seafood-borne illness is mishandling and improper cooking. Seafood should be kept close to 32°F at all times to prevent spoilage. Scombroid poisoning, which results in an allergic reaction, can be prevented simply by properly cooling and storing fish associated with this illness (tuna, bonito, bluefish and mahi-mahi).

Seafood can be contaminated through contact with other food, equipment or the individuals handling it. Good hygiene and food handling practices (such as clean utensils, countertops and hands) will help prevent bacterial contamination of the seafood you are preparing.

Choosing Seafood

•Purchase seafood from a reputable establishment and plan ahead to have the equipment (cooler and ice) necessary to keep it cool.

•Look for good quality seafood. Shellfish: whole clams, oysters and mussels should be alive (shells will close them tapped). Discard dead ones or those with broken shells.

•Finfish: fish should have a clean, fresh smell with no fishy or other "off" odors. Gills should be bright red or pink. Flesh should be firm and elastic, and the skin should be shiny with firmly attached scales. Undamaged eyes are bright and clear and protrude away from head when fish is fresh.

Handling and Preparation

•Keep raw and cooked seafood cold, 32-38°F at all times. Flaked or crushed ice will maximize cooling. Refrigerate seafood immediately.

•Store whole fish on crushed ice in a cooler or refrigerator.

•Refrigerate live shellfish (clams, oysters and mussels), but don't allow them to dry out. Drastic temperature changes, fresh water and airtight containers can kill live shellfish.

•Don't store fillets or shucked shellfish directly on ice. Put them in a waterproof container that can be buried in ice or refrigerated.

•Separate raw seafood from cooked and keep seafood separate from other food products during handling, storage and preparation.

For more information and a fact sheet about eating raw shellfish, send a self addressed-stamped envelope to: Shellfish, Berks County Cooperative Extension, Berks County Ag Center, PO Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533-0520.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

QUESTION — Janice Buhl, Erie, would like a cross-stitch pattern for antique John Deere tractors.

QUESTION — Mrs. Mervin Wenger, Womelsdorf, would like to know what type of spray to use to kill weeds but not the strawberry plants in the strawberry patch.

QUESTION — Bunny Bankert, York Springs remembers reading about a health food product to give dogs that are afraid of thunderstorms. She would like to know what it is called and where to purchase it.

QUESTION — Mrs. M. Good, East Earl, said that in a recent article, Joyce Bupp referred to a tomato called Enchantment from Pine Tree Garden Seeds. She'd like the address for the seed company.

QUESTION — Marie Lorah, Tamaqua, was sent an address for a source for owl glasses. She sent an SASE but did not receive an answer. Does anyone know where she could purchase some owl glasses?

QUESTION — Laurie Baker, Kutztown, would like a recipe for milk paint, not the whitewash used in the barn but to use on antique furniture and wood trim.

QUESTION — Jeff Connors is looking for a painting of a Lancaster County farm scene with cows, barn, and field work in it. Contact him at P.O. Box 144, Perryville, Md. 21903.

QUESTION — Marcia Richards, Pitman, N.J., collects old valentines called Penny Dreadfuls or Vinegar Valentines. They are one-page caricatures with a mean poem printed beneath the picture. The valentines were mailed unsigned. She would like information someone might have regarding the valentines and also to purchase more.

QUESTION — A Pennsylvania reader would like to know where to buy a good book on knitting and crocheting. It should include patterns and directions for different stitches.

QUESTION — A Lehighton subscriber writes that she is the person who had requested an address for the company of the Merit Quik Chef Fast Grill. Someone sent an address, but when she wrote to it, her letter was returned. Does someone have an up-to-date address?

QUESTION — Does anyone remember a cleaning fluid called Renusit, available in one-gallon cans. After the garment was cleaned, the fluid was strained and able to be reused. A Lehighton reader would like to know where to purchase it.

QUESTION — Amos Stoltzfus is looking for "Got-A-Minute," a word game by Selchow and Righter. It must be complete and in playable condition. Please do not send the game without contacting him first at R.R.1, Box 106 SR 17, Blain, PA 17006-9714.

QUESTION — Rose and George Plitt of Painted Post, N.Y., grow mint in their garden. They would like to know how to package it as a dry tea. Are the leaves stripped from the plant and put on a screen to dry in the sun or the oven and for how long? How long can it be stored after drying? How much is used for a cup of tea?

QUESTION — A reader is looking for two products that she was able to purchase years ago but can no longer find them: Pine Jelly Disinfectant and Musterol, a salve to rub on your chest when you have a cold.

QUESTION — Jeff Connors, Perryville, Md., would like to know where a good FFA school is in Lancaster Co. or a good, clean Christian family farm, or a Virginia-style dairy barn.

QUESTION — Jeff Connors, Perryville, Md., would like to know where he can purchase a toy Farmall 560 1958 NFAN 1456.

QUESTION — Coralie Grant, Coopersburg, would like the name of an outlet for wool remnants suitable for making braided rugs.

QUESTION — L. Zimmerman, Stevens, would like to know where to get coal grates for a Frank's FWC 140 wood and coal furnace.

QUESTION — Harold Stoudt, Hamburg, would like to know where to buy a continuous timer that can be set to turn a fan on and off at preset intervals of 20-30 minutes.

QUESTION — Joan Francisco, Stroudsburg, would like to know where to purchase oil of cassia, used in Italian cooking.

QUESTION — Yvonne Lawrence, Newburgh, N.Y., would like to know where to purchase a rhubarb and soda mixture used for indigestion. She used to purchase it in a pharmacy but finds the New York pharmacies don't stock it anymore.

QUESTION — Mrs. William Pierce, Palmyra, would like to know where to purchase antique two-bottom dishes for crock-type chicken water fountains. Must be white with 10-inch top and 8-inch bottom.

ANSWER — Gloria Torrieri, Coatesville, wanted to buy a dulcimer from a person who makes them. Thanks to Myrtle Shenk, Manheim, who wrote that Keith Johnson makes them. He formerly lived near Manheim but has moved to the following address: Box 8, Darts Lake Rd., Eagle Bay, N.Y. 13331.

ANSWER — A reader would like to know where to purchase Birch Beer Extract and where to purchase finely ground natural phosphate. She would like a source located in either Lehigh or Northhampton counties. A reader wrote that the extract is available from any McNess dealer.

ANSWER — For the Fleetwood family who wanted to rid their attic of bats, here are a variety of solutions from Deirdre Bonnell, Barker, N.Y.; M. Gladfelter, Shrewsbury; George Love, Watsontown, and others.

Deidre Bonnell said that she has had success in installing bright lights that are kept on day and night in the attic. Bats are nocturnal creatures and lights drive them away. She adds that the game warden should be contacted, for bats carry rabies.

Several wrote that bats can't stand the smell of moth balls. Spinkle moth balls across the attic floor. The bats will stay out until the moth balls evaporate completely.

Another person writes that heavy tight wire should be placed over the chimney to keep the bats from entering. Also, bats can be poisoned. Check for the poison at a hardware store.

ANSWER — J. Keith O'Leary would like to know how to eliminate voles without gassing them. They seem to be too smart to trap and gassing is not only expensive but it can kill other ground-dwelling animals. Thanks to Deirdre Bonnell, Barker, N.Y., who writes that hardware stores sell an electronic gadget powered by D-cell batteries that consists of a hollow metal spike topped by a vibrator. The spike is driven in the ground and the vibration frequency annoys ground dwelling animals. Deidre has had mixed success using the spikes. Moles and volves are driven out by the spikes but sometimes not very far. Strategically place several spikes behind mole and vole trails.

ANSWER — For the person who wanted to know the weather in distance states, Art and Millie Thieme, Lothian, N.J., suggest going to a local library where "Places Rated Retirement Guides," include weather information. Deidre Bonnell writes that weather information is available in the library's reference section. Check "The Weather Almanac," and "Climate Normals for the U.S.," both published by Gale Research.

ANSWER — Mrs. Joseph Boll, Harleysville, wanted to know where to purchase mendets. Thanks to Laurie Baker, Kutztown, who wrote that mendets are available from the Cumberland General Store, #1 Highway 68, Crossville, Tenn. 38555. Phone 1-800-334-4640. Cost of the catalog is $3.

ANSWER — Norma Jean Yankey, Mt. Solon, Va., has a Burpee pressure canner Model #AR 1525. She needs another control valve? Thanks to Miriam Worley who writes that the name of the company to locate is Burpee Co. P.O. Box 663, Barrington, Ill 60010. If that fails, send a request to her, she has the exact same model that she no longer uses. Contact her at 1483 Sandhill Rd., Hummelstown, PA 17036-9792.

ANSWER — Coralie Grant, Coopersburg, wanted the name of an outlet for old colored feedbags. Hans Herr Heritage Days Highlights

WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.) — The Annual Heritage Day at the Hans Herr House will we held on Saturday, August 5. The event will open to the public at 10:00 a.m., and remain open until 4:00 p.m.

This year, all of the annual favorite exhibitors will again be present. The special emphasis for 1995 will focus on the methods that the early settlers employed to get their harvested crops and other goods to market. All who attend will see examples of various modes of transportation used over the years for hauling dairy and other agricultural products.

A milk wagon, a Conestoga wagon, historic farm wagons, and other pieces will be on display to highlight this important aspect of rural life. There will also be an opportunity to learn about the role that the railroad played in later years to better enable farmers to distribute these goods.

Heritage Day will feature many favorite activities from the past. Equipment exhibits and demonstrations will show haymaking. Colonial period and rural life demonstrations like papermaking, wheat threshing, stonecrushing, broom making, spinning and dyeing will all take place throughout the day. Workshops featuring topics like colonial clothing and 18th century Mennonite worship and singing will also take place at scheduled times.

There will be something for everyone, no matter what the age or area of interest. In addition to those features listed above, one will also find the blacksmith in his shop, the beekeepers at work, and the bake oven in use. There will be colonial-era games for the children (and maybe some adults). Local Native Americans will be present to give a glimpse of what life was like for their ancestors. There will be demonstrations on housebuilding and roofing. Storytellers will be looking for an audience. The all-important colonial-era work of processing flax into linen will be shown. More than 30 different activities or events can be seen throughout the day.

Of course, no Heritage Day would be complete without the ever popular food tent. The tent will feature such refreshments as pie, homemade ice cream, barbecue sandwiches, whoopie pies, and an assortment of beverages. Elsewhere on the grounds, visitors can also purchase roast sweet corn and sausage smoked in our own 1760 smokehouse.

Heritage Day is an historic event sponsored by the Hans Herr House Foundation. It is designed to be a fun filled, educational day for the entire family. Admission to Heritage Day is $4.50 for adults, $1 for children ages 7-12. The Hans Herr House is located at 1849 Hans Herr Drive, Willow Street PA, just 5 miles south of Lancaster off Rts. US 222 and PA 741 between the villages of Willow Street and Lampeter. For more information, call (717)464-4438.

Laura Watt Becomes First Woman Elected To Extension Agents Vice Presidency

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Laura Watts has done something that no woman ever has done before.

Watts, who is an agent with the Cumberland County Agricultural Extension Office, has become the first woman to be elected as vice president of the Pennsylvania Association of County Agricultural Agents.

The Carlisle area woman knows she has a big job ahead of her leading the association, which is a professional association open to all county agents in the state.

"Being a county agent is Getting harder and harder, with all the budget cuts," said Watts, who has worked for Cumberland County for 15 years.

"This organization is one way we can all work together as agents, networking with one another for better ideas, encouragement and support throughout the state and nationally," she added.

Watts has just the right background for her new position.

For four years she was the computer support person for her region. In the Cumberland County office, her main responsibilities include serving as livestock agent, 4-H livestock agent, as well as being in charge of safety, recycling, computer work and "anything high-tech," Watts said.

Agriculture has been part of her life even before she got her job with the county, she said. She graduated from Penn State University with a degree in animal production, then worked in a Berks County feed mill before attaining her Cumberland position.

Watts, whose hobbies include embroidery—she is a member of the Embroidery Guild—and horses, has been involved with the agents association for quite a few years.

Partly because of her interest and skill with computers, she was asked to run for election as the association's membership secretary in 1987.

Laura Watts

Her next step, in 1991, was to run for and win the office of the group's treasurer, a job she said she liked because she enjoys working with figures and keeping records.

Watts admitted that she had to think hard before deciding to run for the vice-president post.

"It was a major decision to decide to run for this office. It is a four-year commitment," Watts said.

In the end, encouragement from her husband, Randy, and her boss, Cumberland County's chief agricultural agent Duane Duncan, convinced her to take the step.

Now that she has the office, Watts said her main goal will be to promote professionalism among Pennsylvania's agricultural agents.

The association is well suited for that purpose because of the opportunities it provides agents for networking, in-service training and sharing ideas, she said.

Watts said she intends to help make sure the association is able to meet the needs of her fellow agents as they move into a future where the demands on them will change fast.

"Extension's role is changing," she said. 'We have to keep moving into the future and always provide unbiased information to the public. This organization can help with that."

No More Morning Sickness

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.)—Oh, dear! It's morning again! A dreaded time for pregnant women. In the early stages, one out of three pregnant women feels nauseated after she wakes up. By midday, she usually feels fine.

The morning malady is due to changes in the body as it adjusts to pregnancy. One of these is an increased need for vitamin B-6.

One symptom of B-6 deficiency is low blood sugar. This in turn can produce dizziness and nausea, both symptoms associated with morning sickness.

Most women need at least two milligrams of B-6 daily. The recommended daily allowance for pregnant women is 2.6 milligrams. Those who took birth control pills are especially vulnerable to B-6 deficiency because oral contraceptives sometimes deplete the body's B-6 supply.

To make sure they get enough of the important nutrient, it is recommended that pregnant women follow a balanced diet that includes foods rich in B-6, such as bananas, avocados, potatoes, beef, fish, chicken, dark green vegetables and whole-grain cereals.

Use as little water as possible when cooking foods containing B-6. The nutrient is water soluble and cooking food in water will reduce its B-6 content.

Some doctors prescribe vitamin supplements or morning sickness medication containing B-6 in order to relieve the symptoms.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

So far we've been lucky in our part of the country as there has been ample rainfall. The corn is growing tall and the alfalfa is quite green.

All of my cabbage seed grew and now there are more heads than I can use at one time. As our church has a garden to give vegetables to a Food Bank, I decided to contribute some of my excess. They were glad for the green beans too as our garden has given me more than I need for freezing.

This year I'm trying to keep the weeds out of the cantaloupe and watermelon patch. But, it surely takes a lot of hoeing. Some of my squash are the bush variety and so they will be easier to hoe. Even the tiny, decorative pumpkins grew and I am anxious to see what I will get from them.

My cucumbers are bearing more than I expected. Every day I pick more than 100 cukes and so far have gotten a thousand. This made a shelf full of pickles which my grandchildren want me to share with them. It does mean that sometimes I work and can late into the night when everyone else is asleep.

My soybeans were doing just fine this year until a groundhog came along one night and ate all except the main stems. If he doesn't visit again, they might possibly grow out and bear.

There are always ups and downs to gardening. One year an opossum eats the tomatoes and the next year we have a bumper crop for ourselves.

Fashion Revue Highlights

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — Creating your own clothes is fun, money-saving and a terrific way to learn decisionmaking along with clothing construction skills. 4-H clothing project members who model their creations in fashion shows also develop self-confidence and poise, and get to share their knowledge and skills with others. Former participants report their Fashion Revue experience is helpful in job interviews and career activities.

This year close to 40 4-H members from all over Montgomery County participated in the County 4-H Fashion Revue held at Dock Terrace Community in Kulpsville.

Those recognized in the novice category include: Shushana Muldowney of Wayne, Megan Marchuk of Schwenksville, Christopher Jones and Samantha Sedlak of Norristown, Alexi Cherney of Gwynedd Valley, and Michelle Budzilowicz of Lansdale.

Juniors and seniors recognized are eligible to participate in the Southeast Region 4H Fashion Revue. Those recognized in the junior category include Julie Price of Telford, Cayce Bean of Schwenksville, Micah Muldowney of Wayne, Merissa Lynn of Spring City. Ellen Nave of Horsham and Brenda Sherman of Phoenixville.

In the senior category, the following were selected to participate: Julie Buckwalter and Sarah Sheeler of Royersford, Tori Myers and Jennifer Braun of Lansdale, Karina Price of Telford, Becky Hague of Hatfield, Kelli Augustine and Sarah Warren of Schwenksville, Leah Muldowney of Wayne, and Rebekah Moyer of Harleysville.

Seniors Rebekah Moyer and Karina Price will represent Montgomery County at the State 4-H Fashion Revue. Junior winners in the Honors Group include Julie Price and Ellen Nave.

Garden Ideas

NEWARK, Del. — University of Delaware's Farm and Home Field Day will be blooming with ideas for home gardeners, thanks to the hard work of Sussex County Master Gardeners. The Master Gardeners will be available on Field nays Aug. 9, from 8:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. to guide visitors through a variety of plantings at UD Research and Education Center, just west of Georgetown on Route 9.

"The vegetable garden has been expanded to include new varieties of popular home garden vegetables, including tomatoes, squash and cucumbers," says Jay Windsor, Cooperative Extension agricultural agent. "The Master Gardeners also have run a cantaloupe variety trial for home gardeners."

In addition, there will be new plantings of herb varieties, annuals, perennial ground covers, sunflower varieties and 25 varieties of geraniums.

The Master Gardeners also will showcase shade-loving plants, including new varieties of hostas, under a lath house

Farm and Home Field Day will also include safety programs for children, consumer exhibits and agricultural variety trials. For further information on Farm and Home Field Day activities, call (302) 831-7303.

Lancaster Society 28

Lancaster County Society of Farm Women #28 met on July 13, with 10 members attending. Members had a lovely tour of the daylily gardens around the farm house of SKH of Leola. Members were also given many gardening tips and ended the evening with Jim's delicious lemonade. President Dottie Kreider presided at the business meeting. The next meeting will be to see the show "Nuptials" at the Rainbow Dinner Theatre.

Berks Executive Society

The Berks County Farm Women Executive Board met on July 10 at the Berks County Ag Center with 17 members in attendance. President Wendy Lingle called the meeting to order with the reading "Think Up."

State President Dorothy Stricker reported the State Scholarship Committee met and gave out six $1,000 and five $250 scholarshipos. Carrie Hetrick of Berks County was the recipient of a $1,000 scholarship. The 1996 Spring Rally will be held in Somerset County.

Janet Schlegel reported that as a member of agri-business she attended the agricultural night at the Reading Municipal Stadium and they handed out 2,000 T-shirts to those 15 years and older. The event was sponsored by the Pa. Beef Council, Reading Phillies, Farm City Council and the Berks Southeast Cattleman's Association. Agri-business also toured Berks Packing. Janet also reported that Chester County was the host for the past county presidents who visited Longwood Gardens. Six past presidents from Berks County attended.

President Lingle reminded us that the state youth projects, names of ladies serving on committees for County convention, and scrapbooks must be turned in by August 28.

The next board meeting will be a picnic on August 28 at President Wendy Lingle's home, we are to bring a covered dish.

Berks Society 4

The July meeting of Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 4 was held at the home of Nancy Rubendall, Long Lane, Boyertown.

Cpl. Jack Harris and his dog Zachary of the Colebrookdale Township Police Force showed the group how they work as a team to apprehend a person and also on search and rescue missions.

The August 12 meeting will be a picnic at the home of Charles and Verna Taylor in Loysville, Perry County.

Berks Society 9

Eight members of Society of Farm Women Group 9 Amityville met at St. Paul's UCC for Movie Night in June. Sue Hendricks was hostess. The group decided for the July meeting to do some shopping and eat lunch in Lancaster County, and to tour Wheatland, home of James Buchanan.

The August meeting will be at the home of Karen Schreier for the Family Picnic. A short business meeting was adjourned, and everyone enjoyed ice cream sundaes.

Lebanon Society 20

Farm Women Group #20 with their families held their picnic in the pavilion at the home of Vera Gross.

Lots of food was enjoyed by all.

Games were played by the children.

A short business meeting was held.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Sarah Funck.

Free Horticultural Training

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.)—A new video that explores free horticultural career training at Longwood Gardens, Kennett Square, is available for loan to prospective students. The 19-minute presentation tells about five separate programs and incorporates remarks from past and present participants to give a comprehensive view of what it is like to study at the world's premier horticultural display garden. Copies of the video may be borrowed at no charge by calling Longwood at (610) 388-1000, ext. 524.

Leib Joins Wayne County Extension

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.)—Maria Lieb is the new family living and youth agent for Wayne County Cooperative Extension. A previous 4-H member, Lieb will provide leadership for the Wayne County 4-H program as well as programming in the areas of family living, such as food safety, nutrition and day care provider training.

Maria is from the Altoon-Johnstown area. She has a Bachelor of Science in child development/family relations and is near completion of a Master of Arts in adult and community education, both from the University of Pennsylvania.

$50,000 Yard-Sale Mistake

An unidentified, but very real, person in Massachusetts sold a $51,700 vase at her yard sale this past spring. She sold it for $100.

"The vase said 'Rookwood' on the bottom, and I remembered hearing that Rookwood was good. So, I thought $100 was about right," laments the unhappy seller.

The mistake she made could happen to anyone, says Tony Hyman, author of seven books on turning "trash into treasure."

Only a dozen or so people in the country would recognize what the vase was, who the artist was and how much it was worth. Among those is Riley Humler, pottery curator at the Cincinnati Art Gallery, who engineered the five-figure June sale.

Humler has made other big-buck payments to yard-sale shoppers, including $29,000 for two vases bought of $60 at a spring '94 sale in Ohio.

"It's sad that people who originally owned those vases got only a tiny fraction of their value," says Hyman, "but they could, themselves, have gone to Riley or sought other expert help."

Help is available, and it's almost always free, Hyman points out. Thousands of experts make their skills available to the general public, but finding them can be difficult. There is only one great buyer of cigar boxes and a handful who want BB guns or blueprints.

"But if you search hard enough, someone, somewhere, wants to buy everything from stuffed aardvarks to zeppelin parts," says Hyman. "My job is to find that someone for you."

For 14 years, Hyman and his wife, Marilee, have been publishing guides to buyers, experts and specialists around the country.

They introduce you to folks who can help you with ivory chess sets, can openers, table radios, cookbooks, magazines, paper dolls, business cards, German pistols, pedal cars, elephant tusks, china, old photos, watches, figurines, 78-rpm records, souvenir spoons, safes, Japanese swords, tube-type hi-fi equipment, match covers, Army and Navy uniforms, holy cards, cameras, oil painting—and more than 2,000 other categories.

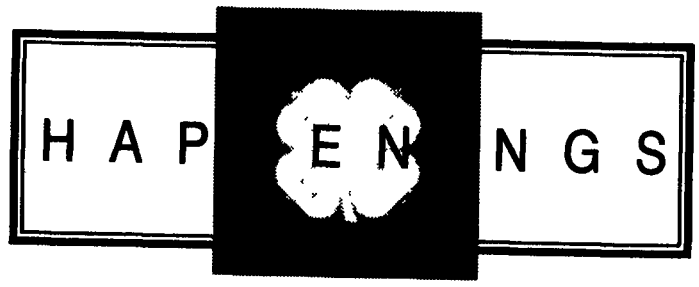
"It's amazing what people are collecting and what you can sell," Hyman says, "more than a billion items in all."

Some of the sought-after items are fairly common. On television's popular "Mike & Maty," Hyman showed viewers how to find pre-1970 Levis jeans worth $100 and 1950s jackets worth $1,500 at yard sales.

The next day, the Hymans heard from a viewer claiming she "found 14 pair already" and another claimed "nine, and the day isn't over yet."

Levis buyer David Bailey is one of more than 1,200 buyers profiled in Trash or Treasure, an easy-to-read guide to experts, what to say to them and how to sell what you have.

To get Hyman's latest 576-page guide to expert buyers, call 1-800-549-7500 with MC/Visa. You may send a check for $24.95 plus $5 shipping and handling ($29.95) to Trash or Treasure, Box 3028-E, Pismo Beach, CA 93448. Order one for yourself and one for a friend for only $44.90. To receive a free 100-page price guide (regularly $7.95) when you order, cut out the name of this paper, and include it with your check or tell the operator when you call.



4-H To Hold Ribbon-Cutting Ceremony

The Northampton County 4-H Center Board will hold an official ribbon-cutting ceremony to mark the rebuilding of its pole barn at the Northampton County 4-H Center.

This ceremony will take place on Saturday, Aug. 12, at 6 p.m.

Bill Brackbill, Northampton County executive, will be present to cut the ribbon, along with various other county and state officials and the 4-H community.

The Northampton County 4-H Center is located on Bushkill Center Road, Nazareth. The original building, which was used for various animal science activities and other aspects of 4-H work, was lost during the snows of 1993-'94. The 45 foot x 90 foot building has been rebuilt on the former site and is now ready for use by the 4-H'ers and the community. A fundraising drive is currently in progress to help fund this rebuilding.

The ribbon cutting ceremony will take place during the Northampton County 4-H Round-up, scheduled Aug. 10-13 at the 4-H Center. During the event, there will be a variety of exhibits, completed projects, and animals displays with food and fun for all. This event is the culmination of the 4-H year and will feature various animal science shows during the weekend, along with the displays and games. The roundup is free and the public is welcome

For more information concerning the ribbon cutting ceremony, call (610) 837-7294.

Goat Club Meets

The Cumberland County 4-H Goat Club met July 8 at the home of Red Allen. Ten members and their families enjoyed a hot and cold dish picnic.

Members were reminded of several upcoming events: Round-up begins August 6. Animals must be on the Shippensburg Fairgrounds by noon. The sale will start at 6 p.m. on August 7. Members are asked to bring finger foods and desserts to the buyers buffet held before the sale.

The Ag Expo will be held Aug. 9-12 at the Newville Fairground. Members were asked to help with the petting zoo on Aug. 9-12.

All members took part in trimming hooves and shaving animals.

The next meetign will be held August 2 at 7 p.m. at the home of Sonya Rinker.

For additional information, contact Red Allen at (717) 776-5097 or Ron and Lois Zeigler at (717) 776-7583.

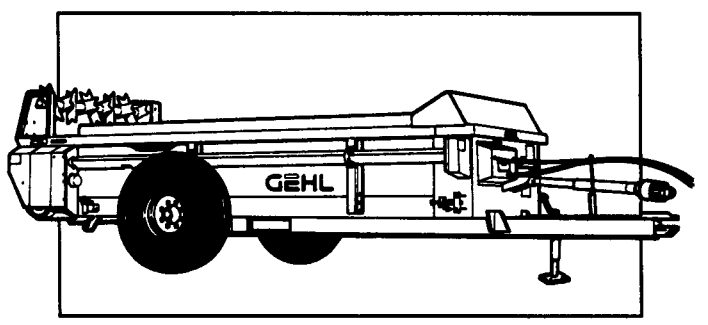
GEHL

Even When It's Empty ...It's Loaded



When you're checking out box-type manure spreaders, look to Gehl for a better spreader! Gehl box spreaders are available in five sizes ranging from 135 to 425 bushel heaped capacities. Gehl box spreaders deliver these and many more advanced features

- Gehl-Tuff flooring - Slippery so manure slides out easily
- T-bar apron chains - Extra-strong for durability
- Galvanized steel sides - For more corrosion resistance
- Single or tandem axle available
- 10-year warranty - On sides and floors
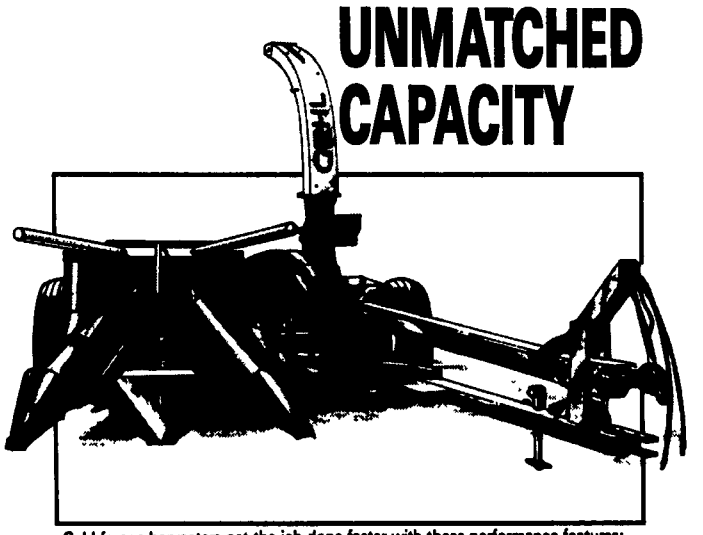
- Hydraulic apron drive (optional) - To match your specific application needs

UNMATCHED CAPACITY



Gehl forage harvesters get the job done faster with these performance features:

- Exclusive Auto-Max Load-Sensing System – Increase capacity by up to 20%. Lets you operate at top capacity without the fear of downtime due to overloading.
- Metal-Stop Metal Detector – Prevents machine damage and hardware disease.
- In-head Hydraulic Knife Sharpener – Lets you sharpen knives in the field.
- Patented One-Sided Cutterbar Adjustment – Makes adjusting the cutterbar quick and easy.
- Three Models To Choose From – Including the largest capacity pull-type forage harvester on the market.

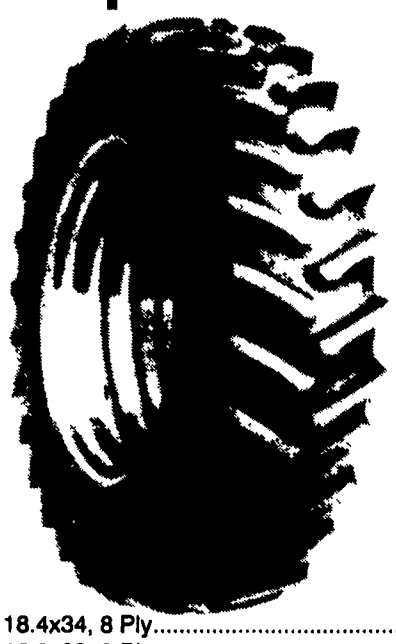
Super All Traction 23°



R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

Brosius To Speak At Poultry Show

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—Charles Brosius, Pennsylvania's secretary of agriculture, will speak to "Agricultural Issues That Will Demand Change" on the opening day of the 1995 Northeast Poultry Show, scheduled September 27-28 at the Host Resort.

The show will be preceded by a golf tournament on September 26.

Brosius owns a mushroom operation in Pennsylvania that employes 39 full-time and 18 part-time employees. He is a dairy science graduate of Penn State, where he serves as a member of the board of trustees.

Other topics at the two-day show include lighting, avian influenza, price outlook, nutrient management, food safety, MG/MS, managing manure/dead birds, consumer attitudes, and pathogen reduction on the farm.

Attendees have the option of registering for both days or just one day of their choice.

The most popular feature of the show has been the exhibit hall, which is open free of charge both afternoons until 5 p.m.

Charles Brosius

For a complete program and registration forms, write to the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, 500 North Progress Avenue, Harrisburg, PA 17109 or call (717) 652-7530.

Erie County Plat Book Available

ERIE (Erie Co.) — The 1995 edition of the Erie County Land Atlas and Plat Book is now available.

The book is much more than just a map of the county. It's a land atlas that provides quick reference to detailed maps of each township. It includes land owners' names for parcels of approximately 12 or more acres and shows the shape of the parcels and their acreage. An alphabetized index to land owners is included in the back of the book.

The book was compiled from the county's official tax maps and records and contains the latest available information. It also features an Erie County highway map and road maps for each of the county's boroughs and cities.

According to Bob Soltis, chairman of the Erie County 4-H/Youth Development Program Advisory Committee, publication of the book was undertaken by the committee as both a community service project and a fund raising effort. The book is useful to hunters, loggers, realtors, and many other types of business people, and it's been more than five years since a similar book was published. This year's book was prepared and published for 4-H by the Mercury Publishing Company of Kettering, Ohio.

Proceeds from the sale of the books will benefit the county's 4-H/Youth Development Program. The program currently serves more than 2,500 youth ages 8-19 in all boroughs, cities, and townships in Erie County. Funds raised will be used to provide members with camperships and scholarships to attend events such as State 4-H Achievement Days at Penn State and to help offset the cost of the annual 4-H Fair.

The new land atlas and plat book is available from the Erie County Cooperative Extension Office or from the Erie County Conservation District for $25. Interested individuals who would like a copy of the book mailed to them may send a check, payable to the Erie County 4-H Clubs, in care of the Erie County Cooperative Extension Office, 850 East Gore Road, Erie, PA 16509, in the amount of $25 plus $1.50 postage and handling per book. Orders will be filled while supplies last. For more information, contact the extension office at (814) 825-0900.

Nutrient Planners Available

SMOKETOWN (Lancaster Co.)—Nutrient management is more than sitting down to develop a nutrient management plan. It is even more than a seasonal activity, such as applying manure to crop fields. Nutrient management is a continuous year-round process involving a series of management steps.

To produce realistic crop yields, a nutrient management plan must account for all nutrient sources, including manure, legume residue nitrogen, fertilizer, and other nutrients. Balancing available nutrients with crop needs ensures the potential for good crop growth and the protection of water quality. Effective fertility levels, and crop yields.

There are several nutrient management steps in an overall nutrient management program for the summer and fall.

•Manure analysis. Although the nutrient value of manure can be estimated, actual values vary from farm to farm due to differences in feeding and management programs. A manure analysis is the best way to determine manure's nutrient value. Now is the time to develop a manure sampling and analysis program. Preparing to sample manure, planning how to store the samples if necessary, and determining how to deliver them to a laboratory should be done well before the fall application season arrives.

•Soil testing. Now is a good time to have the soil tested in alfalfa fields. A sampling schedule can also be made now for soil tesing this year's corn fields after harvesting. A soil testing program will help determine field-by-field nutrient requirements.

•Yield checks. Finally, don't forget to measure crop yields this year. Plan to obtain a corn silage yield check before harvesting. Also, keep a record of the tons of hay harvested from each field. These yields can be used to fine tune future nutrient management plans.

•Nutrient management planner. A nutrient management planner can help with these and other nutrient management practices. A list of nutrient management planners who are approved in the Pequea-Mill Creek Project as well as other information on nutrient management planning can be obtained by contacting the Pequea-Mill Creek Project, 307B Airport Drive, P.O. Box 211, Smoketown, PA 17576-0211, (717) 396-9423.

Wye Field Day Aug. 17

COLLEGE PARK, Md.—The Wye Research and Education Center of the University of Maryland at College Park's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources will hold its 27th annual field day on Thursday, Aug. 17, from 8:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

The Wye Field Day provides an opportunity to see and learn about the research and outreach activities being conducted by the College's Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension Service on behalf of Maryland's agricultural base, natural resources and environment.

"Our goal is to improve the lives of Maryland farmers and consumers through innovative research and education programs," said Dr. Russell G. Brinsfield, head of the Wye Research and Education Center "The Wye Field Day provides a unique opportunity to share the results of some of our efforts."

Concurrent tours running from 8:30 to 11 a.m. will feature three major areas: field crops and soils and horticulture and animal sciences. Scientists at the field crops and soils tour stops will offer useful information about environmentally conscious crop management, the efficient use of synthetic and organic pesticides and fertilizers, and the benefits of new crop varieties.

The horticulture tour will highlight nursery production, vegetable management strategies, and the use of native trees for forestation. The animal sciences tour will provide the latest information on hay and pasture management, including field demonstrations of hay baling and bale handling equipment.

From 9 to 11 a.m., three clinics will be held. Topics will include multiple application techniques for "Admire," a novel insecticide for vegetable crops; Landscaping for the Bay; and easy postharvest techniques to increase fresh produce quality and shelf life.

At the same time, a workshop entitled "Nature and Science: Providing Foods to Make You Healthy" will cover food's role in cancer and heart disease prevention. Workshop sessions will address fruits, vegetables, grains, antioxidants and vitamins A and C.

A buffet lunch of pit beef, costing $6 for those who pre-register by Aug. 4, will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Following lunch, a wagon tour focusing on emerging issues for Maryland agriculture will run until 3 p.m. Other activities will include walking tours of the integrated pest management orchard, nutrient management workshops and water quality exhibits.

A crab feast will round out the day. Preregister by Aug. 4 to obtain tickets, which cost $14, for this traditional Maryland summertime event.

Field Day Aug. 2

LAFAYETTEVILLE (Bedford Co.)—An agricultural field day will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 2 from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. at the farm of Dick and Eleanor Rice in Bedford County. The farm is located along Rt. 867 north of New Enterprise near Lafayetteville.

The program will include tours and discussion of the following:

•Intensive rotational grazing system used on this Holstein dairy

•New double-five milking parlor

•Various milkhouse waste disposal systems

•No-till and manure spreading equipment.

Speakers from the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection will give an overview of milkhouse waste disposal regulations.

Complimentary lunch will be provided. Registration required for lunch by calling the Bedford Conservation District Office at (814) 623-6706 by July 31.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

The major costs on dairy and livestock farms are related to FEED: production...harvesting...storage...purchases...delivery to animals. Significant savings in time and money are possible when you store and deliver your feed from a poured concrete silo.

"As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency: This can have as great an influence on Profit as milk price changes."

Protect your valuable feeds from rain, sleet, snow, mud, ice, wind and the sun's heat. Reduce the stress. INCREASE THE EFFICIENCY OF YOUR FEEDS, LABOR, AND LIVESTOCK!

At Sollenberger Silos Corp. we know a lot about feed storage and handling; we've been in the business since 1908. If your plans call for new feed storage, give us a call...We'd like to contribute to your success!!

NO USED SILOS!
NO REBUILT SILOS!
NO PRE-OWNED SILOS!
ALL NEW FOR YOU.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Lancaster Conservation District is requesting bids for the construction of a Agricultural Waste Storage, to be funded in part by the Chesapeake Bay Program. Construction is expected to begin in August, 1995. The site is located in East Hempfield Township, Lancaster, County.

Prospective contractors can receive a bid package, which contains Instructions to Bidders, a Sample Contract Form, the Plans for the Project, and a Bid Sheet. Construction standards and specifications are contained in the Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Program Contractor's Handbook dated March 1995, are part of the contract package, and need to be used during project installation.

Small and minority businesses and women's business enterprises are encouraged to respond to this invitation for bids.

A site showing at the property is scheduled for 9:00 A.M. on August 9, 1995. Sealed bids will be accepted until the public bid opening in the Conference Room of the Farm & Home Center at 9:00 A.M. on August 23, 1995.

The bid package and/or a Contractor's Handbook will be available at the site showing, or by contacting the Lancaster County Conservation District office at:

Farm and Home Center, Room 6
1383 Arcadia Road
Lancaster, PA 17601

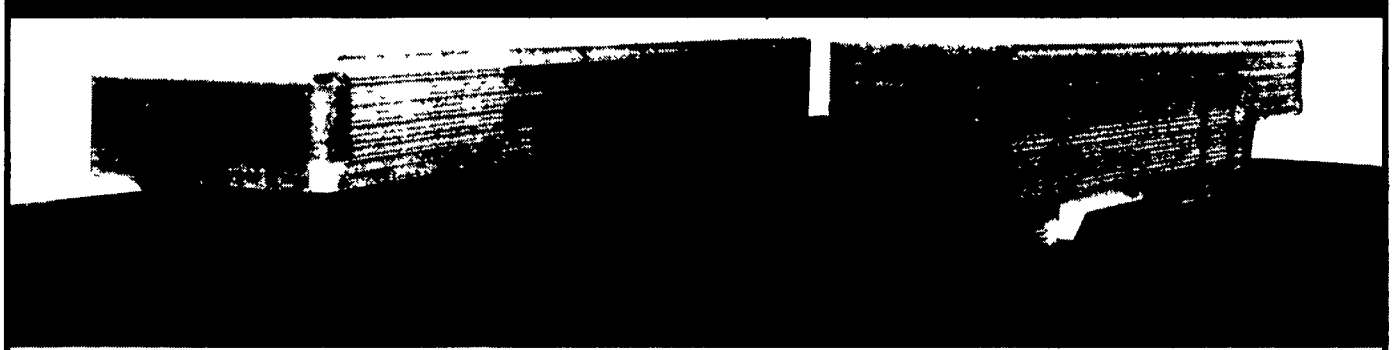
Anything Less Isn't Good Enough



If livestock is your business, Eby Gooseneck Trailers include these features to protect the livestock you transport:
- Durable all-aluminum construction with less weight for more payload
- Axies, wheels, tires and brakes that are designed to carry the weight the trailer will hold
- Gates and doors designed for easy loading/unloading
- Proven post and slat design to control airflow and easily close up for winter conditions
- Aerodynamic design to improve fuel economy

Eby Gooseneck Trailers are available in lengths from 12 to 32 feet with a choice of widths and inside heights. We offer every custom option, including stainless steel front end for great looks.

Whatever kind of livestock you transport, you can rely on EBY products to do the job right.

pmd PORCH POSTS/LAMP POSTS

Kiln Dried Ponderosa & Sugar Pine

Porch posts and matching lamp posts help create an atmosphere of understated elegance. They project the warm, welcome feeling that only finely crafted wood can offer.

Each post features the smooth, gentle turnings that effectively soften the hard lines and corners of most homes. Made entirely of kiln-dried pine, posts can be stained or painted. When finished, they will match or accent any exterior color scheme.

Every post is treated with a wood preservative that resists the effects of weather and time. They are designed to be a graceful addition to any home and a lasting statement of good taste.

The Baler That Works!

WHY STRAIGHT IS BETTER THAN SIDEWAYS . . .

Reason #1 Transport width ranges from 7'11" to only 8'88" on our 8550 Model. Conventional balers are generally 1-foot wider in transport.

Reason #2 No need to widen our baler out once you're in the field or narrowing when leaving the field. The conventional baler must be narrowed and widened. Reduced time and effort means money.

Reason #3 Never a need to pick up bales when opening a field and cropping them on the ground — you can even leave the bale thrower on and drop the bale chute. Since the baler and tractor straddles the windrow, the bales dropped on the ground from previous rounds never interferes with the operation.

Reason #4 Gauge wheels are mounted on both sides for better performance. Not so with conventional balers.

Reason #5 Our pickup is half the height of conventional belers. This means less leaves are lost because less travel distance up and over the pickup is required. An optional hydraulic pickup lift is even available.

Reason #6 Conventional balers use high maintenance cross feeders or sweep arms to move hay to the chamber Our baler feeds hay from the pickup straight into the chamber by the use of a simple stuffer mechanism Leaves don't fall to the bottom of the chamber and later fall out the back Due to our design, leaves are placed evenly throughout the bale — the leaves are not given time to settle to the bottom

Reason #7 Due to our design, our plunger stroke distance is 25-30% less than conventional balers Example John Deere 327, 337, 347 and 467 Models = 30" stroke, Case IH 8520 = 21.6" stroke and a high of 23" on our 8550 The result Less wear, less side to side stress force and less repairs!

Reason #8 The clearance of our needles from the ground far exceeds conventional balers due to the high position of our chamber This translates to less breakage and bending of the needles due to hitting high places in the field, etc

Reason #9 We have equal baler weight distribution on both carrying wheels for easier handling and less side pull on hills

Reason #10 The distance from the end of our bale chamber to the thrower belts is enough so that the thrower doesn't fight the bale, i e , the bale is not still wedged in the chamber when the thrower first contacts the bale

Reason #11 Our bale edges are sharp and corners are square on all types of hay - excellent when stackers are used or hay is hauled by truck.

Reason #12 Proven and reliable Deering type knotters on all center line balers.

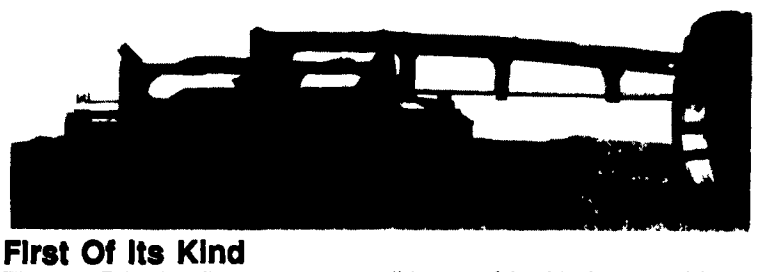
8315 Disc Mower Conditioner
15 Foot Swing Frame, Pull Type



First Of Its Kind
The 8315 is the first mower conditioner of its kind to combine a center-pivot tongue and mechanical drive with 15'3" (4.65m) rotary disc cutting performance. With its wide cutting width, the 8315 is designed to handle large acreage hay production.
A hydraulic center-pivot tongue and swivel gearbox hitch enables the 8315 to cut fields in both directions or turn corners with ease. Its rotary disc header features a heavy-duty spur gear cutterbar and 10 oval cutting discs that are powered by a belt and gearbox drive. High-speed discs are heat treated spring steel for durability and spin at 2,600 rpm to slice through the toughest crop conditions. Header tilt is also hydraulically controlled from the cab.
The wide 110" (2.79m) steel-on-steel intermeshing conditioning rolls feature automatic separation for non-plug operation, and adjustable roll spacing and pressure. A swath baffle and adjustable windrow forming shields are standard.

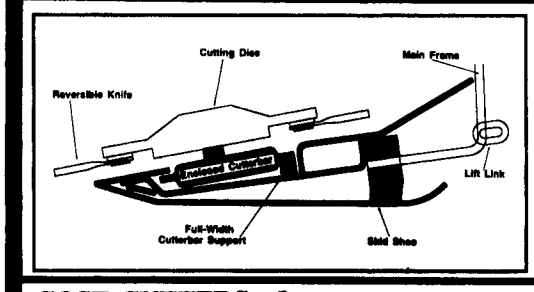
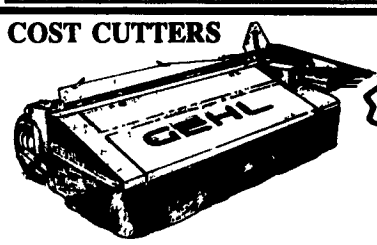
Gehl Quality Comes From Your Gehl Dealer, Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc.



GEHL A sturdy cutterbar support frame extends beneath the entire cutterbar. This design shields the cutterbar from direct impact with rocks or other field obstructions.

COST CUTTERS



9' and 10½' Model In Stock

Gehl has two all new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9 foot cutting width, the DC2360 has 8 discs, and a 10½ foot cutting width.

— Standard hydraulic tongue Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat — High speed discs — Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.

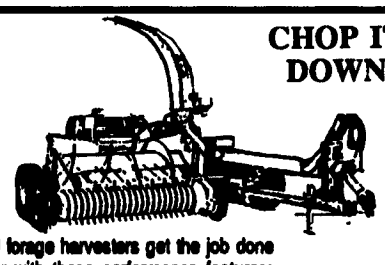
— Sturdy frame — Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability

— 540 and 1000 rpm driveline with equal-angle hitch for smooth power transfer.

CHOP IT DOWN



Gehl forage harvesters get the job done faster with these performance features:
- Exclusive Auto-Max Load-Sensing System
- Increase capacity by up to 20%. Lets you operate at top capacity without the fear of downtime due to overloading.
- Metal-Stop Metal Detector - Prevents machine damage and hardware disease.
- In-head Hydraulic Knife Sharpener Lets you sharpen knives in the field.
- Patented One-Sided Cutterbar Adjustment
- Makes adjusting the cutterbar quick and easy.

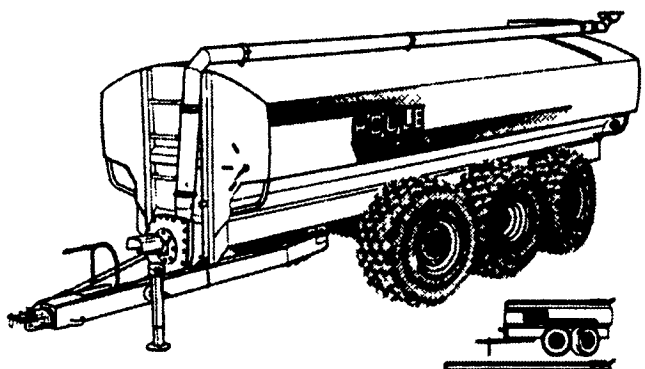
LIQUID HOULE TRAIL
MANURE SPREADER AGI-POMPE

WITH FLOTATION TIRES TO MINIMIZE SOIL COMPACTION
Available with complete line of spreading tool bars and precise flow control to spread manure the ecological way eliminating spray drift and reducing odors. Our tool bars are designed to apply hog or dairy manure on growing fields, between rows of corn or on harvested fields.



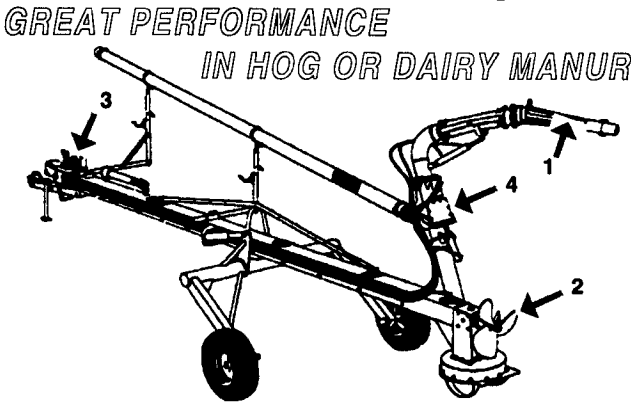
4-6 OR 8 WHEEL SPREADERS WITH POWER STEERING-3850 TO 9500 US GAL.

SPREADERS WITH SINGLE AXLE OR TANDEM-2350 TO 6000 US GAL.

- "V" shape bottom for more complete clean out.
- Standard exterior finish: epoxy primer and urethane paint.
- Low profile tank for maximum visibility and stability.

32' and 42' for Lagoons

GREAT PERFORMANCE IN HOG OR DAIRY MANURE



1-Highly articulated nozzle designed to slice and break the top crust from above the manure level as the propeller homogenises the liquid with the remaining floating chunks.

2-24" dia. mixing propeller providing full time agitation up to 21,500 US G.P.M. even when loading a spreader.

3- Hydraulic controls can be operated from tractor seat.

4-Rotative directional valve designed to be operated at low R.P.M. without stopping the P.T.O.

Gear box oil bath protected by a greasable 3 seals mechanism on each shaft.

AVAILABLE WITH MULTIPURPOSE OPTION TO ALSO CLIMB INTO CONCRETE PITS UP TO 14' DEEP.

JOHN DEERE

Nobody Does Hay Better
The revolutionary MoCo's are here

- Six models, all with an innovative, three-point suspension system for unmatched flotation.
- Three sicklebar models: Narrow-profile guards, easy adjustments, exclusive urethane-roll conditioning, and a cut thats six inches wider than other makes.
- Three rotary models: John Deere-built modular cutterbar is the strongest, easiest-to service cutter-bar. A choice of conditioning methods at all widths.
- Get excellent maneuverability plus driveline protection from the new tongue design.

CLAAS Forage Harvesters

The high quality of corn forage produced by the JAGUAR is derived from the CLAAS corn cracker. Two saw toothed rollers run at different speeds with 20% difference open up virtually every kernel and this means good quality silage which is easily digested. This makes for highest energy transfer for higher milk and meat yields.

The rollers are subject to wear and tear, so the CLAAS corn cracker features removeable outer sleeves. The shafts, drive pulley and bearings are all reused, thus reducing maintenance costs. Foreign bodies pass through thanks to a spring loaded mechanism. The 7.7" diameter of the corn cracker rollers is exceptionally large. The speed differential intensifies the grinding effect for effective opening of the kernels.

The degree of corn cracker intensity is adjustable to take account of differing dry matter content. This is done mechanically. An optional electrical adjustment is available.

Since the corn cracker stays on the machine, the changeover from corn to grass can always with a minimum of preparation. This is a help when grass and corn are being harvested at the same time.

The area around the corn cracker ahead of the coolign system is very large, enabling ease of access to parts you wouldn't otherwise be able to reach. For instance the accelerator or ejection chute.

Dairy of Distinction Supplement to Lancaster Farming, Saturday, July 29, 1995

The Kline Family Progressively Improves Their Dairy Facilities

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

ELVERSON (Berks Co.) — It all started 42 years ago when newlyweds Bill and Peg Kline bought a farm that had an old log house built by the Indians in 1818 and a barn that was built in 1851, plus a few other out-buildings.

From this begining when the elder Kline milked cows by hand, a bucket milker was added to the barn. Later, a pipeline was installed. Along the way, additional freestall buildings were erected to house the cows and heifers. And silos and manure storge systems were installed on the farmstead. Most recently, in 1993, a modern milking parlor was built that puts the farm in position to enter the technological era of computers.

When they started to farm, Peg said they would only last 10 years. But their only son Lynn took an interest in farming and now he is the one who keeps improving the place.

Today the original house has additions, but a unique sandstone fireplace that was uncovered in the restoration process lends authenticity to the historic building. The old barn bank barn is still used, and the original silo is now used for grain.

A herd of between 110 and 120 Holsteins average 20,000 pound of milk. Additional rented land was added to the farming operation this year, bringing in the farming operation to 500 acres. This year minimum no-till practices were used, and the crops look good. But Lynn says they are still learning how to use these less costly methods for planting.

They strive to grow out the heifers so they can come into the milking string at 24 months. But more attention is paid to the size of the heifer than to her age when making this management decision.

Personnel from the feed company, the breeding organization, and the veterinarian are used as consultants to the farming operation. "I depend on the people who provide the services to help me manage the farm," Lynn said. "The feed company provides the formulas, and we have come to trust their judgment. The artificial breeding technician knows the mating system and what strengths our cows need better than I do. So we depend on them to make the proper matings for us. And we get a lot of advice from the veterinarian too."

The cows are kept in the barn when the weather is hot. It is cooler in the barn with the fans going, and the cows don't even want to go outside. The older cows mind the heat more than the younger ones.

Of course, the cows milk well. During one recent period of time

Rocky Hollow Farms Is Fifth Generation Dairy

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

CONFLUENCE (Somerset Co.) — A confluence is a place where two running waters meet and form a larger, stronger flow.

Rocky Hollow Farm is an 800-acre dairy farm located near the town of Confluence, a place where the Youghiogheny River and the Casselman River meet and become one.

The Dairy of Distinction is a family farm operated by the father-son "confluence" of Eldon and Mark Sechler, respectively representing fourth and fifth generation family on the farm.

Formed in 1981, the father-son partnership owns 800 acres and rents additional ground to raise a total of about 150 acres alfala hay, 175 acres of corn, and about 75 acres of barley to feed their 115-head, closed milking string of registered and grade Holsteins.

Mark and Sandy have three children; Ryan, 12, Angela, 10, and Brandon, 5. Ryan and Angela show 4-H project animals. They live in one house on the farm, while Eldon and Loretta live in another.

The farmstead itself sits along Rt. 281, a main Somerset thoroughfare that courses through the town of Confluence, where the two rivers meet.

Sitting in an area marked by deep, twisting cuts of the rivers and their narrow valleys, the farm was obviously named after the terrain.

Because of the terrain, the Sechlers have been using no-till practices on about two-thirds of the acreage planted to corn. Mark said they have been doing the practice for about 17 years, because of the rolling hills and rock which would otherwise erode.

All additional farm acreage is used for pasture, especially since this past spring, when the Sechlers began working to integrate intensive grazing into their herd management.

With several streams on the property, grazing is made easier because ensuring adequate water in pasture without creating

Kline Farm

William and Peg Kline and their son Lynn have built up their Dairy of Distinction over a period of 42 years. Starting in 1953, the elder Klines bought the farm, located northeast of Elverson that at the time had a small barn and silo. At the time they installed a bucket milking machine. Later they added a pipeline, and in 1993 they built the new milking parlor. Today they milk 120 grade Holsteins and farm 500 acres of corn and small grains. Storage for bulk cotton seed was added last year. This saves $50 per ton on this feed ingredient. The Klines depend on the companies and persons who supply their feed, artificial insemination, and veterinarian service to act as their consultants. They say one of the major farm problems is to get good full-time hired help.

The Kline Family

there were more than 12 cows that were milking 100 pounds per day, several up to 120 pounds.

The Klines are very practical in their approach to farming; they don't try everything new. But they believe computers will be used a great deal in the future of farming. That's why their new milking parlor is computer ready when the time comes to make the move to automatically identify the cows.

"It takes a lot of work and attention to details to keep a farm going," Lynn said. "We like to keep our operation on a commercial basis to balance the check book. We don't always try new things first."

Kline road runs right past the barn and silos of this beautiful farm. Images of the farmstead reflect from the pond located close to the barns to give an added dimention to the view as you approach the farm lane. This good example for the consumer of where milk originates makes it easy to see why this is one of the new 1995 Dairy of Distinction farms in Pennsylvania.

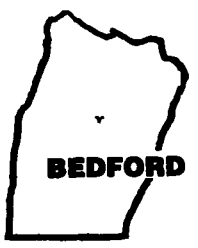
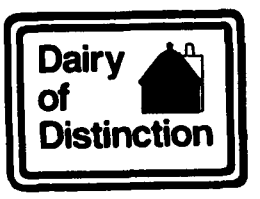
One-O-One Farm

Myron and Lori Bonzo with parents Lloyd and Reatha own One-O-One Registered Holstein Farm, located in Beaver County 30 miles north of Pittsburgh. The new Dairy of Distinction is also a Century Farm, and they raise corn and alfalfa to feed the cows on 250 acres of owned and rented ground. They specialize in top quality genetics with a small herd of 35 cows that average 24,000 pounds of milk and classification BAA of 106.7. An EX Mark daughter made over 36,000 pounds of milk last lactation. To be successful, Myron says you need to pay attention to the little things and grow the best hay possible to feed the cows.





Carper-Homestead Farm

Duane and Linda Biddle and their 10 year-old son Nicholas represent the sixth and seventh generations to live and farm the Carper-Homestead Farm, located south of Roaring Spring. Corn, alfalfa, and oats are grown on their 100 acres to feed their 55 Holstein milk cows and additional young stock. They just built a new freestall barn in April and feed a TMR mix. Herd average is 19,600. Duane said to be a successful farmer, you need to trust in the Lord, work at it, and don't take on too much at one time.

BEDFORD

Dairy of Distinction

Carrdale Holsteins

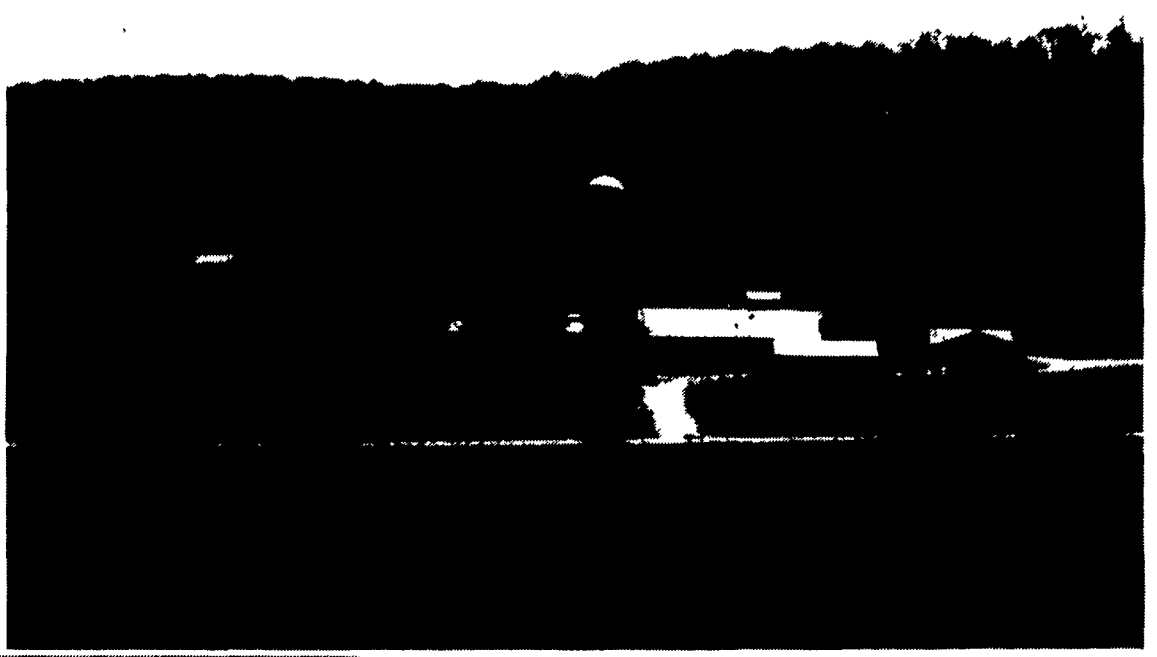
Carrdale Holsteins, owned by Gerald and Patricia Carr and family, have become know for their high production and superior type. This new Dairy of Distinction was one of the stops in Bedford County for the National Holstein Convention Tour last month. They farm 300 acres and milk 95 cows that average 24,487m 904f 804p and their classification shows BAA at 106.3 with 7 EX, and 37 VG. The Carrs are the first generation on the farm. They started their farming operation with few assets and borrowed money. The present show place and excellent herd of registered Holsteins is an example of what can be done with determination and hard work. Gerald and Patricia have three children: Daniel, Michael, and Paul. Daniel and his wife Lisa, have one son, Auston, 3.

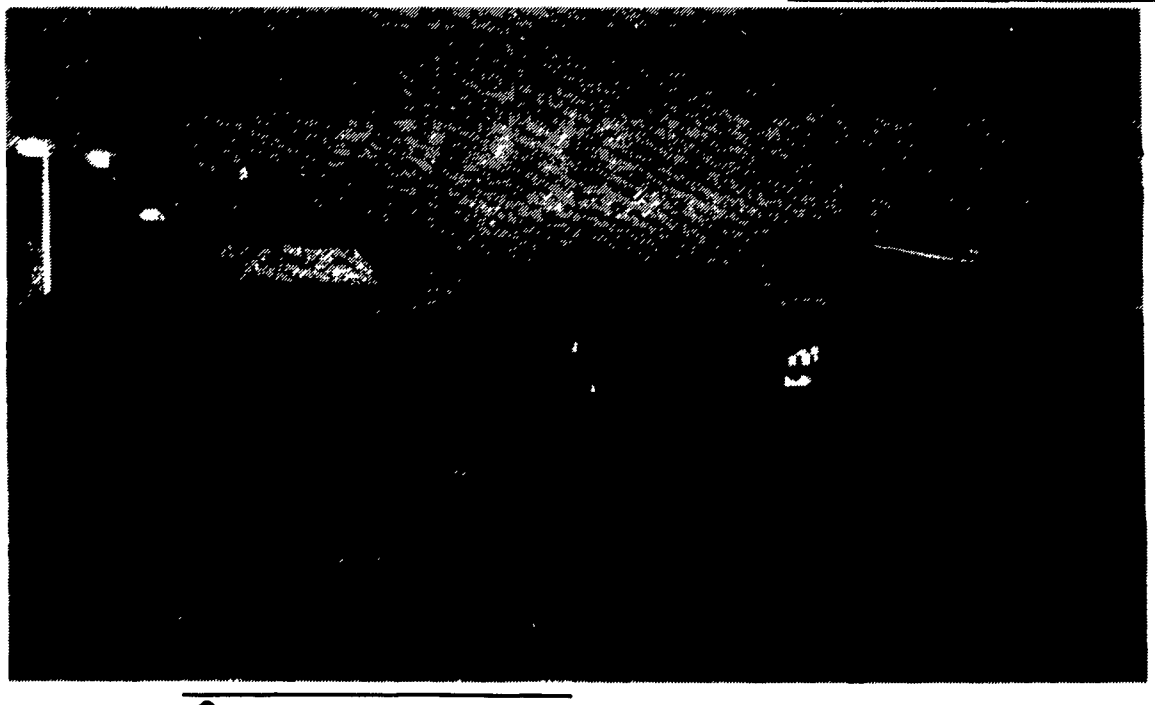
BEDFORD

Dairy of Distinction

Bi-Ran Farm

Brian, Randy, and Kevin Zembower are partners in the Bi-Ran Farm operation, located south of Bedford. The Zembowers farm 400 acres on five farms and milk 90 head of Holstein cows that average 18,000 pounds of milk. They feed TMR from an upright silo and say that to be successful on the dairy farm you need to work hard. Members of the Zembower family are as follows: Brian and his wife Faith have three children, Amy, 12; Heidi, 9, and Holly, 5. Randy and his wife Lee have three children, Jeffrey, 19; Steven, 16, and Thresa, 3. Kevin and his wife Dawn have Brandon, 2.





BEDFORD

Dairy of Distinction

Heisey Farm

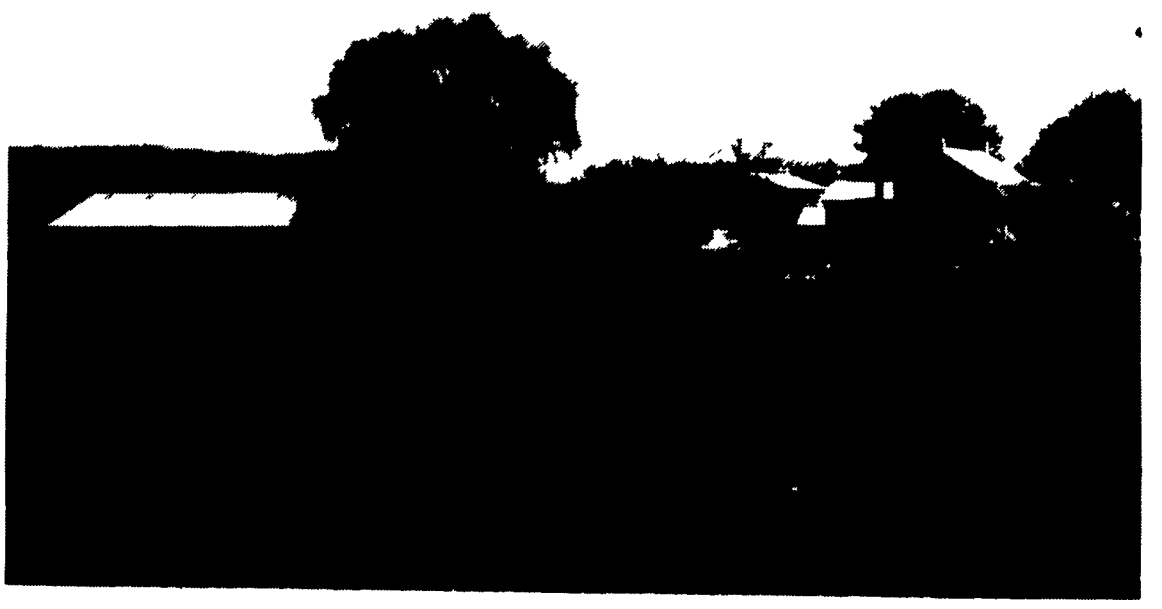
After farming for 16 years in Lebanon County, Marlin and Brenda Heisey and their six children moved from to their new Dairy of Distinction farm located west of Osterburg last year. They farm 250 acres of corn, alfalfa, grass and wheat. The 80 head of Holstein cows average over 21,000 pounds of milk and they have another 80 head of replacement stock. Milking is done in a tie-stall barn, and a TMR mix of corn silage, haylage, and high moisture corn is used in the feeding program. To be successful, Marlin says you need to keep the debt load low and labor costs to a minimum. The Heisey children are Colette, 16; Parke, 14; Chad, 10; David, 8; Lynette, 4, and Brandon, 1.

BEDFORD

Dairy of Distinction

Wakefield Farm

Brothers Jim and Tom Wakefield have incorporated the family farming operation located south of Bedford. The farm has been in the family for nearly a hundred years and by sharing responsibilities, Jim manages the crops and Tom manages the cows, the brothers can provide the management needed to keep track of the small details that must be considered in a successful farm operation. They farm 400 acres of corn, alfalfa, and a little wheat. Minimum till and no-till farming practices are used. The herd consists of 120 milk cows and about that many replacement heifers. The cows are milked in a double six herringbone parlor and fed TMR from three bunker silos. The herd average is over 20,000 pounds of milk. Tom and his wife Cathy have two children, Thad, 4, and J.T., 6. Jim and his wife Beverly have Scott, 13, and Betsy, 12.

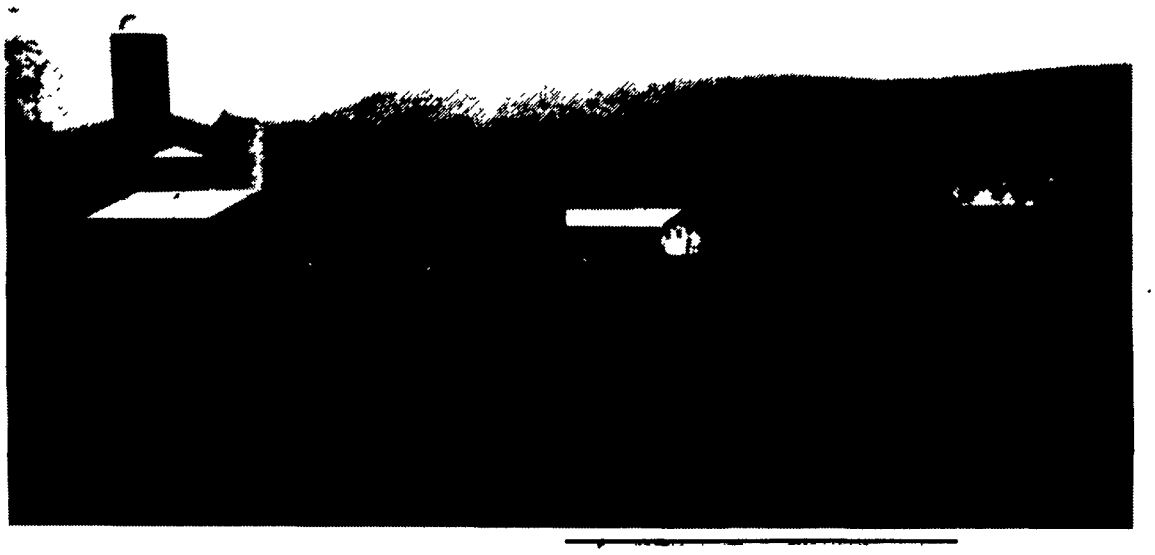


BEDFORD

Dairy of Distinction

Rice Farm

This Dairy of Distinction owned by Dick and Eleanor Rice is located west of New Enterprise in Bedford County. Dwayne Musselman is in partnership with the dairy operation. They farm 150 acres of corn and alfalfa and milk 70 Holstein and Holstein Jersey crossbred cows. Herd average is 20,800 pounds of milk. The Holstein Jersey cross has been working well with the cows from this breeding showing a little more protein. And calving problems with heifers are reduced to a minimum. Both TMR feeding and rotational grazing are used. Dwayne said that to be successful, you need to watch your money and how you spend it, and try to keep good cows that don't require much extra expense.



BERKS

Dairy of Distinction

Kurtland Farm

"My husband is very skilled in management," said Deborah Kurtz, who farms with Tim, son Jared, 7 and three daughters, Hannah, 5, Kaitlyn, 3, and Lauren, 1 at Kurtland Farm in Elverson, Berks County. Deborah said the family farms about 200 acres and cares for registered and grade Holstein, including 90 milking and 90 young stock. DHIA rolling herd average is 22,200 pounds milk, from tiestall to pipeline. A TMR is administered from a feed compoany. Kurtland Farm, in the family for 75 years, has been operated by Tim and Deborah for 10 years. In addition, one full-time herdsman, James Gridley, is employed, along with several part-time employees. They also sell about three acres of sweet corn. Deborah credits the time off provided by relief milking that allows Tom to return to work "refreshed" as vital to the operation.

Kerchen Hill Holsteins

Raymond and Nancy Seidel manage the Kerchen Hill Holsteins Dairy of Distinction in Kutztown, Berks County. They purchase feed for the operation and maintain about 16 acres in pasture. The Seidels maintain 38 milking and 30 young stock of registered Holsteins on the dairy, with a latest DHIA average of 20,000 pounds milk, 700f, and 640p. The cows are milked from tiestall to pipeline. Hay, grain, and corn silage are the primary feeds. The Seidels have been farming for a total of 43 years and have been at the Kutztown location for 19 years.

Becksville Farm

Becksville Farm, located in Sinking Valley near Tyrone, is owned in partnership by Jim and Joan Beck and their three grown children Jim III, Bruce, and Dayonne. The children all have college degrees but came back to the farming operation. The family farms 350 acres of corn and alfalfa to feed their herd of 160 registered Holsteins. Herd average on 100 milk cows is over 18,000 pounds of milk. They have three silos, use TMR, and milk in a parlor. The farm has been in the family since 1937, and the Becks say it takes dedication and hard work to keep the farm going. But for them it is a family affair.

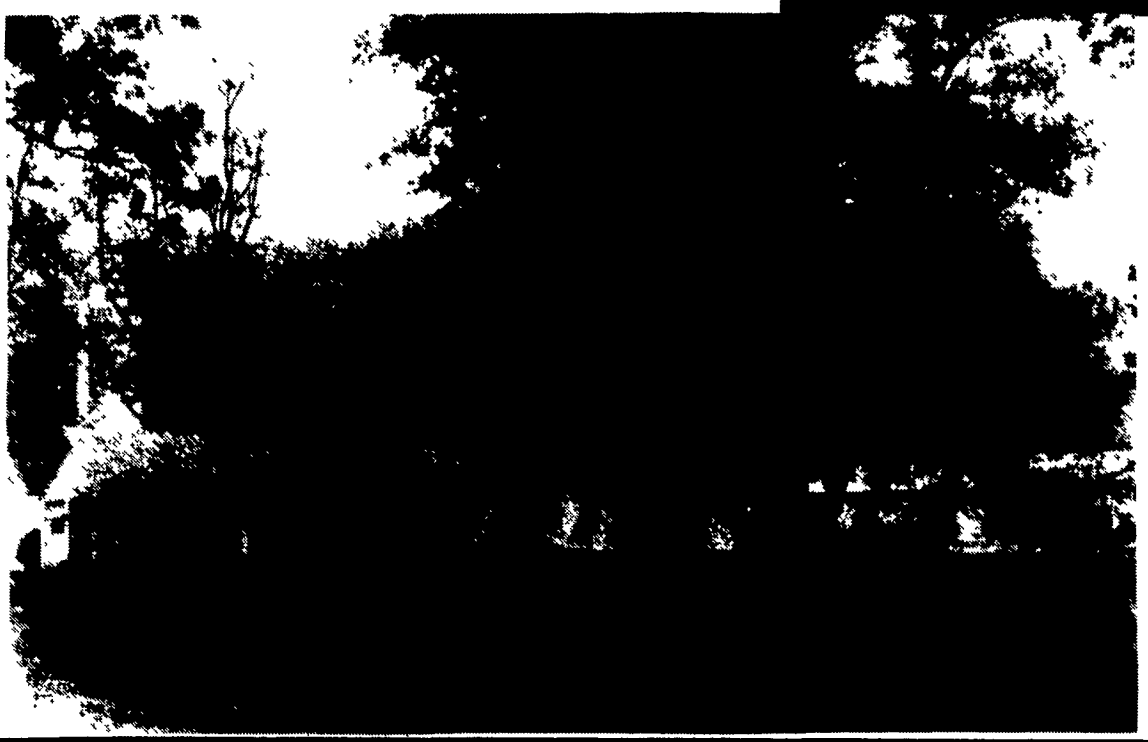
BLAIR

Dairy of Distinction

Keller Farm

The Keller Brothers, Jay and Jim, are in partnership at Kell-View Farms, located south of Tyrone in Blair County. They, along with their mother Mary, brother John and full-time employee Aaron Summers, farm 450 acres of corn, hay, and soybeans. Their 110 registered Holstein cows produce 21,656 pound of milk on average, and they are milked in a double six milking parlor. At last test, eight or nine cows were milking over 100 pounds of milk. The farm was purchased by the brothers' grandfather around 1920. The Kellers say farming is a full time job that now takes more brains than physical labor. Management is the most important thing.



BRADFORD

Dairy of Distinction

Elmglade Farm

Elmglade Farm, located at Sugar Run along the Susquehanna River, is owned by Tom and Judy McCarty and their four sons, Mike, 23; Clay, 22; David, 17, and Ken, 13. They farm 900 acres on several farms, and one of the farms has been in the family for almost 100 years. They make haylage, corn silage, hay and put up some high moisture corn. The 300 Holstein milk cows are fed with both TMR and rotational grazing systems. They milk in three different barns and have been increasing herd size to try to make their operation more efficient. Replacement heifers and calves number another 300 head. The McCartys are always looking for ways to cut costs and make their cows more productive.

Durham Crest Farm

Esther Crouse said she and her husband Robert were "born and raised on the farm" and the Durham Crest Farm is in the fifth generation. Esther said she works with the farm family members today to develop "a lot of patience and to teach a lot of respect and responsibilities on the farm," she said. "It doesn't hurt to work on a farm." Lately, more development than ever is taking over farmland in the Riegelsville, Bucks County area where they farm. But the family still manages a total of 300 acres (103 owned, the rest rented), including some cash crops. In all, they raise 20 acres of wheat, 225 acres of corn, 65 acres of alfalfa, and other crops. The Crouse family manages 70 milking and 70 young stock of registered and grade Holsteins. The DHIA rolling herd average is 22,449 pounds milk, 768f, and 728p, milking from tiestall to pipeline. A feed company creates a special TMR. The farm prefix comes from the crest of a hill north of Durham, Bucks County. Robert and Esther farm with two sons, Donald, 38 and Bruce, 30 and families.

Peaceful Acres

The David and Rhoda King family operate the 600-acre Peaceful Acres Dairy of Distinction Farm in Cochranville, Chester County. "Diversification and the Lord" helped them through a lot of hard times, according to Rhoda. The family manages about 52 milking and 50 young stock of grade Holsteins, milking from tiestall to pipeline. They graze the animals and don't use a TMR. The main farm has been in the family 46 years, according to Rhoda, and there are three other farms, maintained by three sons, Clair, 40, Marvin, 38, and Gerald, 29. Four other sons are James, 44, Kevin, 36, Earl Dwayne, 34, and Timothy, 32. One aspect of the farm's diversification is selling different sized bags of potatoes. David and Rhoda King have 12 grandchildren, and Rhoda said the "whole family just pulls together" to help with the farm.

Janaron Farms

Janaron Farms, located east of Meadville, is home for James and Janet Hunter and their children Janyelle, 21; Jarrett, 19, and Jonathan, 16. They farm 300 acres and have 150 registered Holsteins with 80 milk cows that average over 22,000 pounds of milk and classify with a BAA of 103.6. A two year-old Lincoln daughter recently completed a 365-day record of 36,919 lbs. of milk, and this summer three other cows have milked over 150 pounds of milk per day. The Hunters just moved to this farm in April of '94 after being wiped out in a tornado in 1985. In 1987 they moved to another farm and then on to this farm last year. James also breeds cows for Accelerated Genetics.

CRAWFORD

Dairy of Distinction

Eaton Farm

Don Eaton specializes in top quality registered Holstein dairy cows and does very little field work. Most of the feed is purchased and all the time is spent taking care of the cows.The present herd on this Dairy of Distinction is the fourth group of cows put together with the Don-Ton prefix. Don milks 50 cows in a tiestall barn with a herd average over 26,000 pounds of milk and a BAA of 110 for type. Records in the herd go over 40,000 pounds of milk and classification up to EX 93. Eaton didn't grow up on a farm but credits his father with teaching him to take care of the little basic things. Don is a prefectionist by his own admission. When he has a good herd assembled and going, he has a dispersal sale. Thus he can concentrate on what he does best—take care of the cows and use his good eye to select a good cow. Don and his wife Toni have four children, Aaron, 12; Tarah, 5; Katie, 3, and Jacob, 11 mos.

Dairy of Distinction

Kaschak Farm

David and Teresa Kaschak are a brother/sister team that farm 150 acres of hay and corn just north of Waterford. Their parents bought the farm in 1937. They have 60 head of Holsteins, and the herd average is 18,500. Last year they had cows that peaked at up to 125 pounds of milk per day. They make haylage in two up-right silos and milk in a stantion barn. They try to give their cows, especially the high producing ones, all the feed they will eat. Special attention is given to keep machinery in top working condition, and they try to keep ahead of the weather. In addition to the dairy, David and Teresa raise registered bull calves to sell for stud service on local farms and registered English Shepherd working dogs.

Baxter Farm

Neil and Ruth Baxter and son Neil James, farm 440 acres Northwest of Albion in Erie County. They milk 55 registered and grade Holsteins and a few registered Brown Swiss that carry the Ne-Ru prefix and average 19,700 pounds of milk. In addition, they have 55 young animals as replacements. A modified system of rotational grazing is used with three or four paddocks that are rotated on a weekly basis. Beside the cows, the Baxters raise 800 hogs. The farm has been in the family since 1961. Neal and Ruth have three grown daughters that also have families.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Governor's Office

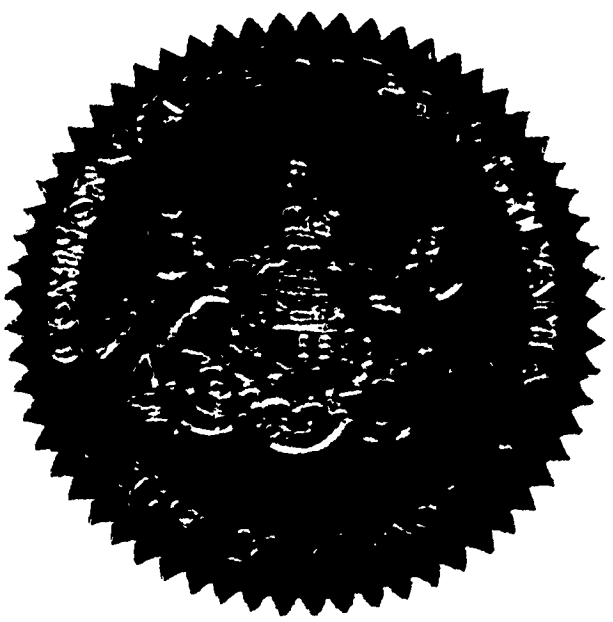
PROCLAMATION

DAIRY OF DISTINCTION WEEK
August 13 - 20, 1995

WHEREAS, Pennsylvania's dairy industry is the leading agricultural industry in the Commonwealth. With 10.2 billion gallons of milk produced annually, it ranks fourth in the nation in milk production; and

WHEREAS, in tribute to the hard work and dedication of the Commonwealth's 11,500 commercial dairy farm families, the Dairy of Distinction program was developed in 1987. A team of judges work to select the most attractive dairy farms in Pennsylvania, rating them for neatness, maintenance and roadside appearance. Five hundred and ninety-eight farms have been honored since the inception of the program, including forty-three farms receiving Dairy of Distinction awards for 1995.

THEREFORE, In recognition of the dedication and commitment of our dairy farmers, I, Tom Ridge, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby proclaim August 13 - 20, 1995, as DAIRY OF DISTINCTION WEEK in Pennsylvania. I encourage all Pennsylvania citizens to support the Commonwealth's dairy industry by enjoying our dairy products, and to recognize the contributions made by Pennsylvania dairy farmers to our economy and our quality of life.



GIVEN under my hand and the Seal of the Governor, at the City of Harrisburg, this twenty-first day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ninety-five, and of the Commonwealth the two hundred and twentieth.

Ashbaugh-Run Farm

Ashbaugh-Run Farm is located just south of Hesston. Roy and Hazel States and their two sons Richard and Kevin farm 500 acres and milk 110 mostly registered Holsteins that average 19,300 pounds of milk. They have a tie-stall barn with pipeline and from their five upright silos they use a TMR feeding program. The farm was purchased by the family in 1918. Richard and his wife Cathy have two children, Shannon, 15, and Roy Duston, 8.

Dairy of Distinction

Ed-Ann Acres

Ed-Ann Acres takes the middle names of Barry and Barbara Lucas to designate this new Dairy of Distinction, located northeast of Millerstown. The Lucas family farm 240 acres of corn, alfalfa, grass, and barley using some conventional and some no-till practices. Their herd of 65 Holstein milk cows average 20,700 pounds of milk. Earlier this year they had eleven cows milking over 100 pounds in one month. Additional young stock are raised for replacements. Barry grew up on his parents' farm in Centre County and always wanted to farm. After getting out of the service, he and Barbara worked off the farm for several years and finally bought this farm in 1980. They have three children, Anthony, 21; Jason, 17, and Becky, 12.

Dairy of Distinction

Lazy-Daisy Farm

The Lazy-Daisy Farm, located east of East Salem, has been known for red and white Holsteins for a long time. Mary Frymoyer and her late husband, who died in 1989, had the most red and white Holsteins in the county. Now the farm is operated by Kenneth Smith, who also has some red and whites that carry the Lazy-Dazy prefix. The farm consists of 100 acres, and the herd of 34 milk cows includes those that milk over 100 pounds per day. They are housed in a tiestall barn, and they graze the cows in summer but also green chop sudan grass and take it to the cows. The farm has been in the family since 1910. To be successful, Mary says you need to watch the small things and do your own work.

LANCASTER

Dairy of Distinction

Brubaker Farms

By listening to the expert opinions of industry and extension, Brubaker Farms has improved farm profitability through diversification, according to Tony Brubaker. Tony farms with his parents Luke and Barbara and Tony's brother Mike, who helps in the operation with wife Lisa and daughter Molly, 1½ years and Joshua, 1 month. Relying on the advice of a variety of industry and support services, Brubaker Farms Dairy of Distinction, located in Mount Joy, Lancaster County, has been expanding to the point where it milks about 375 grade Holstein using a double-10 parallel parlor. In addition, the Brubakers care for about 300 young stock. The latest rolling herd average was 21,900 pounds. The farm, on a TMR program, includes about 800 tillable acres, including 50 in wheat, 600 in corn, 50 in soybeans, 20 in rye (double-cropped), 20 in alfalfa, and 50 acres in peas.

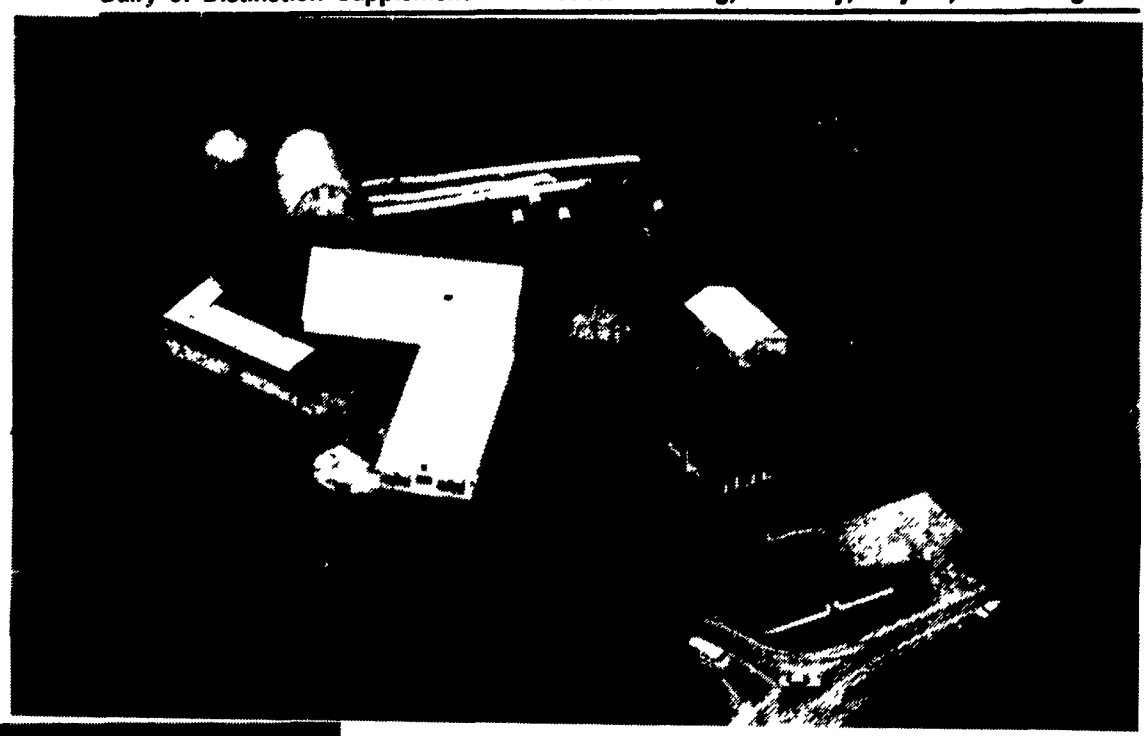
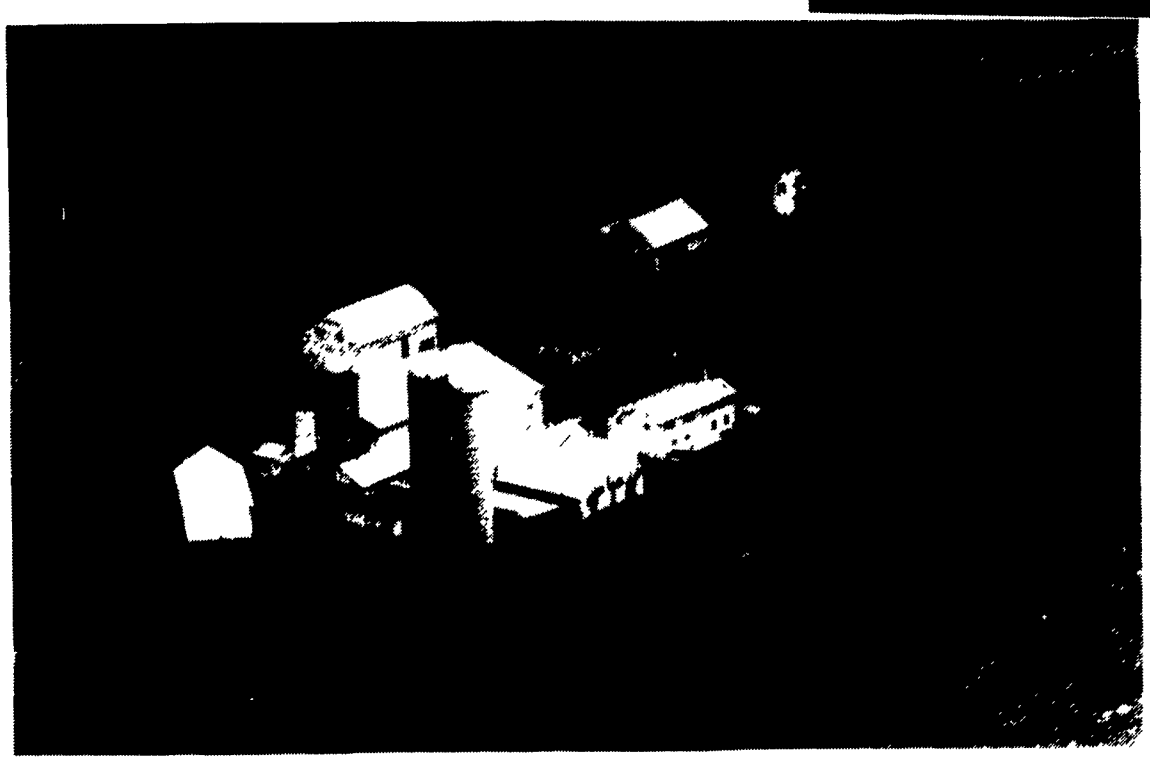
Katlin Farm

Marlin and Kathy Horst operate Katlin Farm in Lititz, Lancaster County. Marlin said the farm purchases all its feed for 50 milking (52 young stock) of registered Holsteins. Latest DHIA rolling herd average is 22,319 pounds milk, 796f, and 721p. Marlin said they milk from tiestall to pipline and administer a TMR from a feed company. Marlin farms with wife Kathy and Lynell, 2 years and Keith, 10 months. Marlin believes the advantages of having a good nutritionist and good feed company contribute to a successful dairy operation.





LANCASTER Dairy of Distinction

Sixcorner Farm

"We work with good people," said David Stoltzfoos of Sixcorner Farm in Leola, Lancaster County. David commented about the successful relationship the farm family has with nutritionists and industry representatives to make the Dairy of Distinction profitable. David, who farms with wife Gina, son Jordan, 1 month old, and father Wilmer, manages about 70 acres (60 tillable) and cares for 40 (45 young stock) of registered Holsteins. The latest DHIA rolling herd average is 20,500 pounds milk, 798f, and 658p. The cows are milked from tiestall to pipeline. A TMR is adminstered from a feed company. One farm building dates back to 1830, and this is the 6th generation of the family to operate the farm.

Fountain Hill Farm

Thomas and Iva Lapp family, who operate Fountain Hill Farm in Gap, Lancaster County, insist that it takes "committment, hard work, and the Lord's presence" to keep the dairy profitable and viable as a Dairy of Distinction. Tom said the operation includes a total of 161 acres, including rented ground, and some crops are sold on the market, including wheat and soybeans. The family cares for 65 milking and 60 young registered Holstein. Latest DHIA rolling herd average is 21,200 pounds of milk, from tiestall to pipeline. A TMR program is administered through a feed company. Tom believes it is important to have relief milking help through "family members working together." Thomas and Iva farm with their children, including Randy, 22, who helps full-time; Ivana, 23, who teaches school; Marvin, 17, a senior in high school; and twins, Krista and Katrina, 9.

LEBANON

Dairy of Distinction

Krall Farm

The teamwork between the family and the nutritionist goes a long way to help keeping the Krall Dairy of Distinction profitable, according to Tom Krall. Tom farms along with wife Shirley and family, including Joel, 12, Travis, 10, Marlin, 3 and Louise, 1 in Lebanon, Lebanon County. Tom said they maintain about 120 acres, including 75 acres in minimum tillage. They raise about 80 head of grade Holstein (milking) with about 80 replacement stock. Latest DHIA averages are 24,500 pounds milk, 867f, and 819p. The Kralls use a straight-9 parlor and administer a TMR through a nutritionist. The family moved to the farm in 1987. Tom said the farm hires custom operators to plant and spray, and to haul manure.

Here's what farmers are saying about Fertrell's Rumi-cult 40, a bacterial aid fortified with electrolytes, vitamins, amino acids, and blood builders specially formulated for high producing cows under stress.

"Previous digestive problems are what prompted us to try Fertrell's Rumi-cult. The rumi-cult solved the problems! We then joined the Fertrell feeding program and have had no serious vet problems since. This program has been more profitable than any other we've been on."

"We starting using Fertrell's Rumi-Cult 40 in June of 1987 and have been very happy with the results. Their knowledge about nutrition has helped us immensely. I appreciate the honest straightforward approach to helping us increase and maintain our butterfat. We place a great deal of trust in the knowledge of their nutritionist, Dave Mattocks.

Dairy of Distinction

King Brothers

The King brothers, along with their families, farm 430 acres two miles north of Sandy Lake. The have 125 Holstein cows that average 20,000 pounds of milk and another 125 head of replacement stock. They milk in a parlor and feed TMR from four silos. At present 12 or 13 cows are milking over 120 pound per day. Myron and his wife Shelley have three children, Jessica, 5; Brittany, 4, and Cortney, 2 weeks. Jonathan and his wife Karen have one son Adam, who is 11. Myron says that to be a successful farmer you need to watch everything to get the most out of your acres and out of your cows. You need high quality crops to feed the cows.

NORTHAMPTON

Dairy of Distinction

Farview Farmstead

"We definitely have room for improvement," commented Clarence Fehnel about his Farview Farmstead Dairy of Distinction. The 360-acre farm, located in Easton, Northampton County, was named after the "far view" provided by the unique sight of the Delaware water gap. For Clarence, keeping costs down work in such a way to boost farm profitability. "Sometimes I believe that good records cost money," he said, relying instead on cost efficiency to make the most of what they can do. They care for 30 milking registered and grade Holsteins, in addition to 25 young stock. Latest DHIA averages are 16,850 pounds milk, 635f, and 547p, from tiestall to pipeline. They feed a mixed ration, including corn cob meal, oats, soybean meal, molasses, and minerals. The Century Farm, in the family since 1894, wasn't taken over by Clarence and Carol until 1978.

NORTHUMBERLAND

Dairy of Distinction

Rebuck Farm

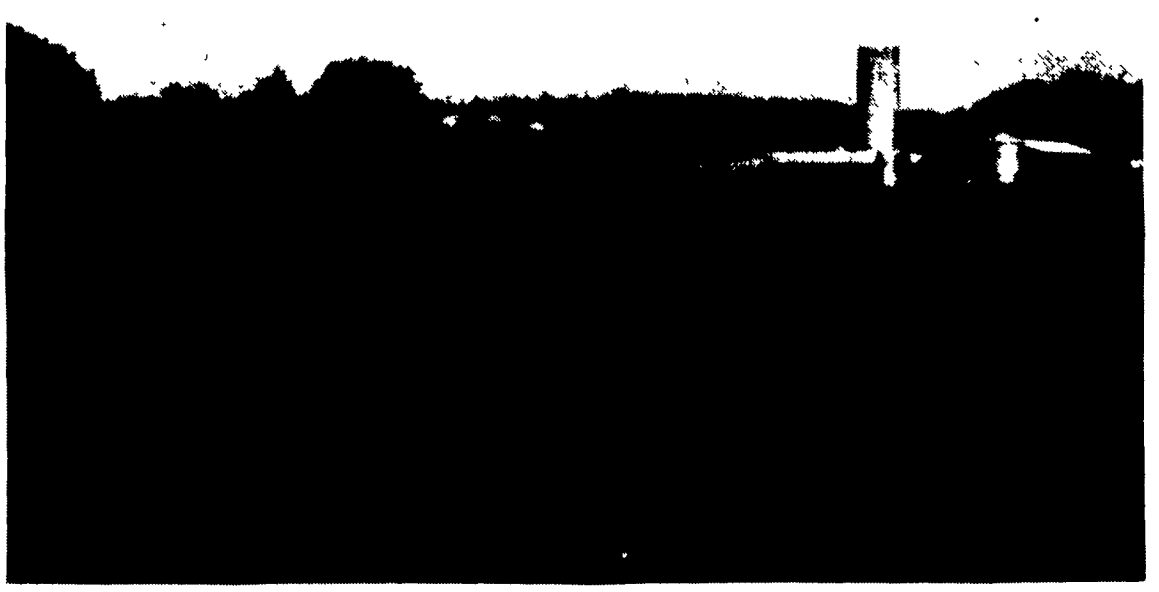
Luke and Mary Lou Rebuck and their family farm 250 acres south of Dornsife. They use minimum and no-till practices to raise alfalfa, corn, and small grains. Their 45 Holstein milk cows have a 20,000 pound herd average and are housed in a freestall barn with milking parlor. They have been using a modified rotational grazing program for their herd for many years. Luke said farming is a way of life, but you must like to farm to stay in it, because it is hard work. The Rebucks have four children, Thomas, Kimberly, Angela, and Gail.

PERRY

Dairy of Distinction

Moo-Echo Farm

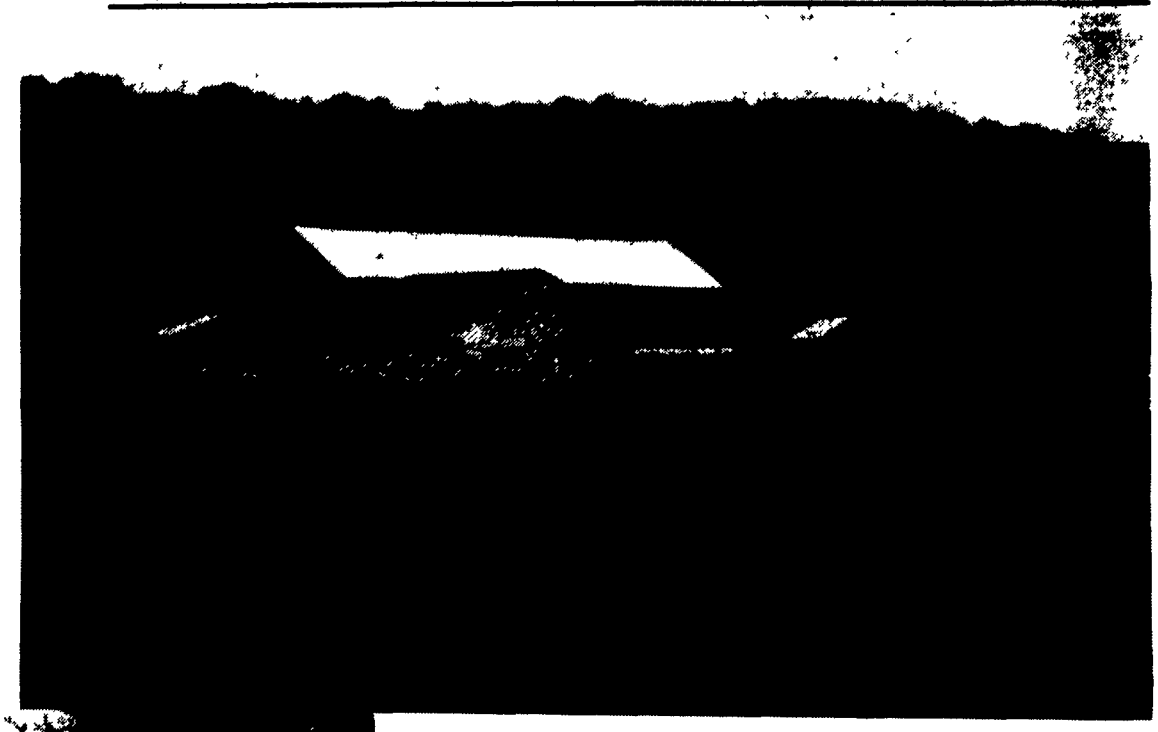
Duane and June Hertzler and their family own Moo-Echo Farm in Perry County located west of Loysville. They moved to this new Dairy of Distinction 17 years ago from Cumberland County. They farm over 800 acres that include 200 acres divided into paddocks for rotational grazing of their 175 milk cows and 150 replacement heifers. They also raise their bull calves into steers for beef. The herd average is right at 20,000 pounds, and Duane thinks they have not lost any production since they went to rotational grazing two years ago. And the feed cost is substantially less. The cows are rotated every 12 hours. Duane balances the philosophy of "Where there is a will, there is a way" with the recognition that "The Lord helps when we face tough situations." Duane and June have four children: Joel, 21; Neil, 19; Becky, 18, and Heather, 15. They got into the Dairy of Distinction program as an incentive for employees.

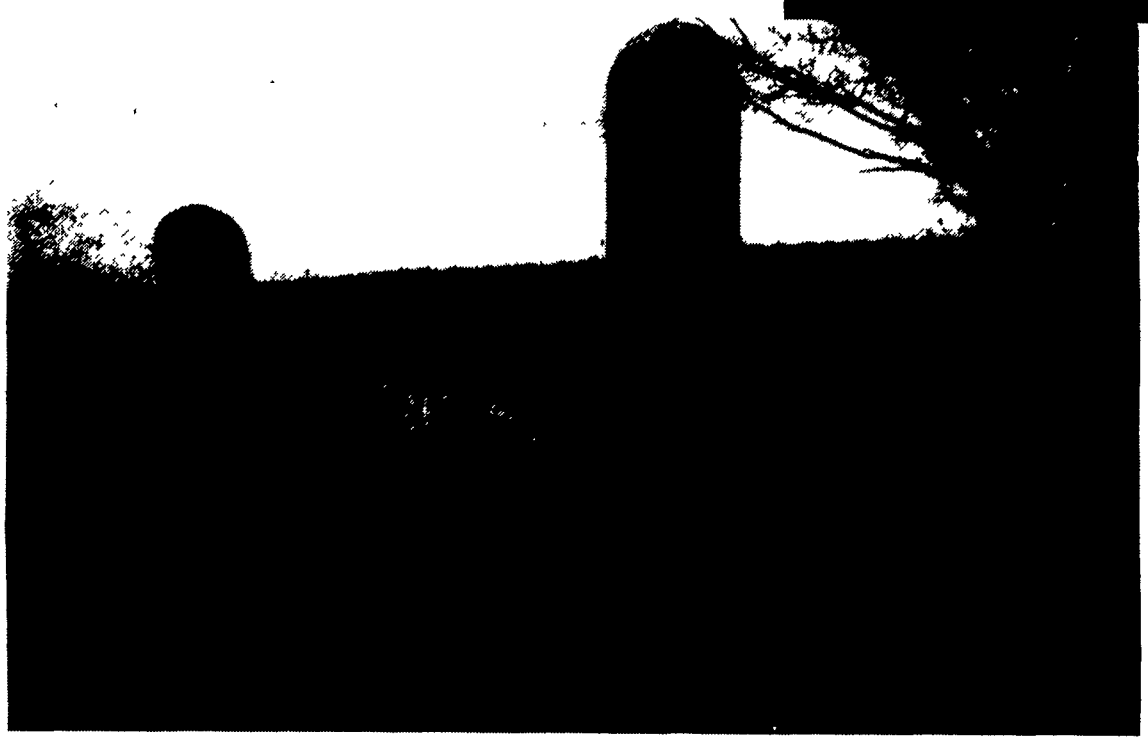


Dairy of Distinction

Lyons Farm

The Lyons Brothers, Bill and Bob, farm 350 acres, located west of Loysville. They have 70 registered Holsteins that produce a herd average of 20,094 pounds of milk. Milked in a tiestall barn the cows are fed a TMR ration that includes haylage and corn silage. The farm has been in the family for quite a few generations and it's this working together as a family that helps make the farming operation successful. Bill and his wife Crista have three children, Jenny, 15; Ben, 13, and David, 9.





Dairy of Distinction

Knowltstead Farm

At Knowltstead Farm, owned by Jack Knowlton, and with help from his daughter Rhoda, they farm 230 acres of corn and alfalfa to feed the dairy cows. The farm, that has been the family since the early 1950s, is located east of Coudersport in Potter County. They have 55 registered Holsteins that average 20,000 pounds of milk. Four or five of these cow are milking over 100 pounds per day. They also have 45 replacement heifers and calves. The cows are housed in a stantion barn, and they have a pipeline milker. Hard work over the years has helped to build a picturesque farm.

Danshire Farm

Danshire Farm is one of the new Potter County Dairy of Distinction Farms. Daniel and Shirley Tice moved from Dauphin County to this farm back in 1969. They and their family milk 55 registered Holstein and Ayrshire cows and have additional replacements. The herd average is 19,700. They house the cows in a tiestall barn and milk with a pipeline. They work 200 acres of ground and raise corn, alfalfa, and barley. And the family is dedicated to farming. Other family members include son Leon and his wife Kathy, and their children Brandi, 7, and Nina, 4. Daughter Tina, and her husband Jim Currier, and their children Lydia, 7, and Julie, 3. And son Dan, Jr., who is 15.

Dairy of Distinction

Rocky Hollow Farms

Rocky Hollow Farms in Somerset is a family farm being operated by the father-son partnership of Eldon and Mark Sechler, fourth and fifth generation family on the farm, respectively. The handsome farmstead sits along Rt. 281, a main Somerset thoroughfare. The partnership formed in 1981 and the two own 800 acres and rent additional ground to raise a total of about 150 acres alfala hay, 175 acres of corn, and about 75 acres of barley to feed their 115-head, closed milking string of registered and grade Holsteins. The herd is on official DHIA test and has a rolling herd average of about 19,500 pounds of milk. The operation consists of an old bank barn with a freestall extension, and a new brick milkhouse, a Virginia-style heifer barn and two small poultry buildings converted to raise calves. They milk in tie stalls.

SUSQUEHANNA Dairy of Distinction

Starzec Farms

"Years and years of experience" have added up to a successful dairy operation, according to Catherine Starzec, of Starzec Farms Dairy of Distinction. The farm is operated by Ed and Catherine Starzec in Montrose, Susquehanna County. According to Catherine, the operation milks a total of 50 grade Holsteins while maintaining 20 young stock. Milking is from stanchions. They feed mostly hay and grain.

SUSQUEHANNA Dairy of Distinction

Lyon Farms

You have to have faith in what you do and faith in the Good Lord to be a successful Dairy of Distinction, according to Marlene Lyon, who helps with Lyon Farms in Hallstead, Susquehanna County. Together with husband Dewey and two sons, Gary and George and their families, the Lyons care for about 100 head (71 milking and 30 calves) of registered and grade Holsteins on 309 acres. While not feeding a strict TMR, the Lyons put together a good grain mix of soybeans, other grain, minerals, and protein for their cattle. They milk from a stanchion barn. Latest DHIA rolling herd average is 17,321 pounds milk, 648f, and 547p. The Century Farm has been in the family since 1825 and the total operation includes three farms. Marlene and Dewey farm with son Gary Lyon, 39, with Gary's wife Elaine and their three boys, Levi, 9, Samuel, 7, and Amos, 4, and with George Lyon, 27.

SUSQUEHANNA Dairy of Distinction

Davis Farm

Improvements to make the farm "look a lot nicer now than years ago" have been the hallmark for the Davis Farm Dairy of Distinction, according to George H. Davis, Sr. The Davis family farms in Meshoppen, Susquehanna County. Altogether, the operation encompasses 160 acres, of which most is used for crops, including 35 acres of corn, 30 acres of hay, and several acres in woods and pasture. George said that they raise a mix of 30 Holsteins and five Jerseys. They milk from tiestall to pipeline. Feed consistss of straight hay and corn, and field grass during the summer. The Davis's have owned the farm since 1965.

SUSQUEHANNA Dairy of Distinction

Henderson Family Farm

A lot of work involving cleaning up the grounds and converting marginally productive fields to hay fields have gone a long way to make the Henderson Family Farm a profitable and vigorous Dairy of Distinction. Said Dorothy Henderson, "I was born and raised on a farm and I married a fellow that liked farming, too." With husband Clyde and daughters Margie, 32, and Millie (married to Barry Fitzgerald), the Hendersons farm about 200 acres altogether in Lake Ariel, Wayne County. They care for about 49 grade Holsteins, milking tiestall to pipeline. They use some pasture ground and feed a mixed ration of 18 percent protein, including minerals and vitamins. The farm has been in the family about 38 years. Clyde and Dorothy have two grandchildren, Coleen, 11 and Brian, 9.

WAYNE

Dairy of Distinction

Ban-Queen-Sons

Bagging haylage, or "baylage," is the key to success for the 450-acre farm operation called Ban-Queen-Sons in Thompson, Wayne County. By getting the hay dried and into bales early, the protein is 4-5 percent higher than conventional methods, according to David Banicky. The Banicky family cares for registered Holsteins, including 55 milking and 50 young stock. Latest DHIA averages are 23,159 pounds milk, 879f, and 762p. Milking is from tiestall to pipeline. Feed is baylage and there are 70 acres devoted to intensive grazing. David farms with brother Joe and his family.

WYOMING

Dairy of Distinction

Kuzma's Dairy Farm

Consistency is the backbone of this profitable Dairy of Distinction, according to Ray Kuzma of Kuzma's Dairy Farm. Along with his mother, Delores, and wife Annette, Ray grows about 175 acres of crops (75 of corn and 100 of hay) on his Tunkhannock property in Wyoming County. The Kuzmas milk 59 registered and grade Holsteins, with about 50 young stock. On DHIA, they have a rolling herd average of 22,200 pounds. They milk from a tiestall to pipeline. The farm, in the family for 74 years, has been under their management for 15 years. Ray and Annette have one daughter, Katie, 6 mos.

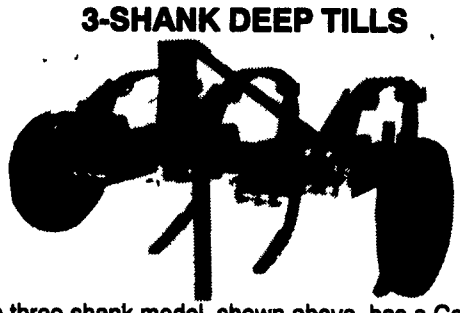
SOIL BUILDERS

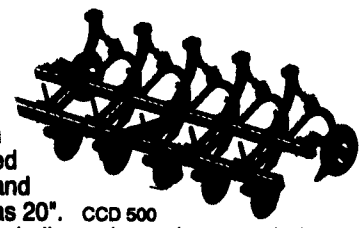
SOIL BUILDERS. Optional Coulter gang can be hydraulically controlled to save maintenance dollars. 5, 7, 9, 11 & 13 shanks. Available in 2 & 3 bar.

3-SHANK DEEP TILLS



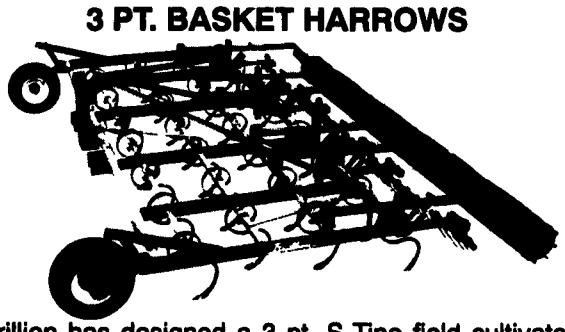
The three shank model, shown above, has a Category II hitch. With a cutting width of 7'6", it is ideal for operators with smaller acreages and horsepower. It is extremely maneuverable, yet provides the same basic deep tilling job as its "big brothers" Available with coulters.

COMPACTION COMMANDERS
NO-TILL RIPPER/DEEP RIPPER
DESIGNED FOR YOUR CONSERVATION NEEDS
3-5-7 Shank



Brillion intreduces their new Compaction Commander...designed to break up hardpan and compaction as deep as 20". CCD 500
The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage. Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil. 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue.

3 PT. BASKET HARROWS



Brillion has designed a 3 pt. S-Tine field cultivator with a larger, aggressively angled 12" diameter rolling basket, a 4-bar frame that allows for either 4" or 6" tooth spacing and an adjustable leveler bar in 12', 15' and 18' sizes. Gauge wheels are optional.

HFC FIELD CULTIVATORS

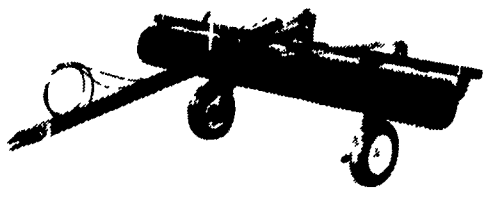
'C' Tooth -
4 Year Warranty

S-Tine -
3 Yr. Warranty

The "heart" of any field cultvator is the shank pivot point. A "bulked up" shank bracket made of cast ductile iron instead of the usual formed steel bracket, incorporated a hardened steel bushing AND a zerk grease fitting to lubricate the pivot point to reduce wear. The result is thousands of acres of extended life of the shanks.

P-SERIES TRANSPORT PULVERIZERS
10 Ft. to 18 Ft.

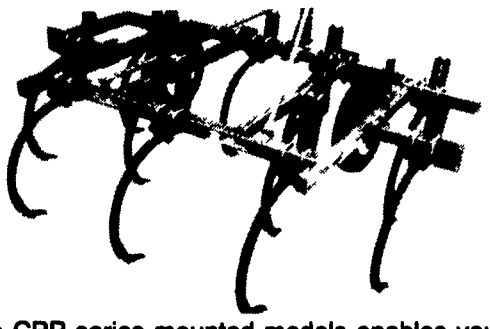


Rotary Frame Pulverizers; New PT10 Series Transport Concept. Machine weight is hydraulically rotated over the wheels for transport. This reduces draw bar hitch weight considerably and provides ample clearance for transport. Also Available As Pull Type.

X-FOLD PULVERIZERS

The X-Fold pulverizers are designed to meet the needs of today's larger acreage farmers...and Brillion offers them in two models and 11 sizes from 19' through 46'. Now available with 20" Ductile Wheels.

3 BAR CHISEL PLOWS



The CPP series mounted models enables you to turn short and fast... to transport easily, utilizing your tractor's hydraulic system, 7, 9, 11, 13 or 10,12,14,16 shank.

AG SURE STAND SEEDERS

SS8, SS10 & SS12 SEEDERS
For years Brillion Grass Seeders have proven to be the best machine for planting grasses and legumes... and now they're even better! Larger, heavier boxes, high seeding rates, nylon lined seed meter, heavier frame, new drive system and more. 5 ft., 8 ft., 10 ft., Available In 3-point or pull type.

ML SERIES PULVI-MULCHERS

How To Get More Money For The Milk

GEORGE F.W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — Whether you get $12.50 or $13.50 per 100 pounds of milk on the farm makes quite a difference in your monthly income if the cost of production remains the same.

Milk prices have not been particularly favorable on U.S. dairy farms lately, especially in the Northeast and the northern Midwest region. Traveling to these states recently, I saw many neglected dairy farms; some were idle and empty. The cows and the farmers were long gone, presumably to greener pastures in the South.

Andy Rooney recently devoted his segment on "60 Minutes" to the disappearance of "barns," meaning dairy barns, and what their loss means to the character of the American landscape.

I was recently in Eastern Germany, which had been Soviet-occupied until the fall of communism. I also stopped by the "real" Eastern Germany, where my mother's relatives used to have farms, and which is now Poland. I saw a similar sight there — neglected, idle and empty dairy farms.

Why?

In Germany and Poland, we can blame the failures of communism for the loss or neglect of dairy farms. In Wisconsin or Minnesota, the answer must be found elsewhere.

I think it's the so-called "bottom line," of which 80 percent or more comes from the price for 100 pounds of milk on the farm.

There are many ways to help solve this situation. In Austria and Switzerland, strong efforts are succeeding in what they term "direct marketing," or what we used to call years ago "vertical integration" or "value-added production." No matter what the name, it means more money on the bottom line.

Next month I will be one of the national judges of the American Cheese Society's annual farmstead cheese shows and contest, held this year in Wisconsin.

Though old in Europe, farmstead cheeses are a new U.S. specialty, increasingly supported around the country by strong consumer and restaurant demand. And farmstead cheeses have the potential to bring more money into the farmer's pocket for the same 100 pounds of milk.

This time of year brings another opportunity to help solve the milk price situation. The usual high heat makes our cows suffer, unless they have sufficient water-cooling systems provided not only for their comfort, but to actually cool down their bodies from being "overheated" just like a car!

Animal welfare people are often quoted as saying that comfortable cows give more milk. In scientific terms this means that cows have a physiological thermal-neutral zone that is below 80 degrees Fahrenheit, above which cows discontinue normal functioning, including less milk production.

In hot weather, the first thing dairy farmers will notice in addition to less milk per cow per day is that the milk composition changes toward lower contents in solids, protein and fat.

Providing cows with what our Florida and Arizona dairy farmers developed years ago — a system of water sprinklers in the yard on top of the cows and alternating cycles of watering with strong air fans blowing over their backs — really works to cool the cows.

The cows will return to normal milk production levels and normal composition; the bottom line will return to normal as well.

Florida dairy farmers have also taken refuge in genetics to maintain their bottom line by way of holding up milk composition.

The price of milk paid to farmers is based on how much protein, solids and fat contents are in the milk. The price for the same 100 pounds of milk increases for farmers only when they succeed in changing the milk composition toward more contents. This change is possible through genetics by selecting cows and bulls with the desired trait.

By adding Jersey cows, with their naturally high milk composition, to a Holstein herd, Florida dairy farmers are applying the science of genetics to get a higher price for 100 pounds of milk.

In addition to genetics and temperature control, a practical way of changing milk composition toward higher contents is through nutrition and feeding.

The nutritional factors that can affect (some even dramatically) the fat contents in milk are:

(1) the percent of fiber and its length in the daily ration;

(2) the ratio of forages to concentrates in the daily ration;

(3) the physical form of the forage;

(4) the feeding frequency;

(5) the amount and type of supplemental fat in the ration;

(6) the supply of normal saliva and/or feed supplementation with buffers.

The nutritional factors that can affect (although often not nearly as much as the changes in milk fat contents) the protein contents of milk:

(1) the level of energy in the daily ration;

(2) the kind and amount of protein in the ration;

(3) the amount and type of supplemental fat;

(4) the amount and kind of rumen-bypass protein;

(5) the amount and kind of rumen-protected amino acids.

Research has shown that milk protein levels do not change daily as much as milk fat, nor are they easily changed nutritionally.

Amino acid nutritional research had progressed to an exact science years ago in chicken, horse and swine nutrition, even human nutrition. Yet, the conventional wisdom was that rumen microbes make protein and its amino acids; therefore, we cannot worry about this in the feeding of cows and other ruminants.

Wrong!

Recent research evidence has shown that certain rumen "bypass" protein can maximize bypass of critical amino acids in cows, resulting in increased milk protein yield. The identification of such bypass sources is still only in the early stages and fertile current research field.

Bypass protein or amino acids simply means that certain feeds contain portions that are not broken down by rumen microbes. Thus, feed protein nitrogen is not lost to the cow due to rumen microbial fermentation, but the microbe-bypassed amino acids are saved for later true digestion in the small intestines of the cow.

The bypass property of proteins and amino acids is achieved by heating, or industrially, by coating.

Roasting soybeans or pelleting alfalfa hay — or when the heat in the silo or haystack sometimes produces "brown" hay — causes the heat to make some portion of the protein unavailable or "bypass" to rumen microbes.

We used to caution against heat denaturation of proteins, such as in the browning of hay. Now we know it may even be good for the cow.

Rumen microbes provide between 40 to 80 percent only of the needed amino acids by the cow. The difference has to come from feeding, or the cow will decrease her milk production and the milk composition.

New industry and research developments have led to certain critical amino acids fed in a protected form; e.g., lysine and methionine.

Studies at Washington State University showed that feed sup-

Plan To Enter The Next Dairy Of Distinction Program

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

EPHRATA (Lancaster County) — The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, Inc., is prepared to receive applications for the 1996 awards. This program rewards clean, well-kept farmsteads to help with consumer acceptance of dairy products in the store.

State President Dan Baker, dairyman from Covington, Tioga County, said the program has been well-received, and officers look forward to an excellent program again next year.

"There are plenty of good looking dairy farms out there that have not been judged," Baker said. "And even those who have entered the selection process in the past years without success should enter again."

The program provides rewards of recognition to producers who maintain attractive production sites. This recognition benefits the entire dairy industry, as well as individual dairy farmers. Not only does the favorable publicity generated by the program in the general press help bring modern farm practices to the attention of urban people, farmers use the distinction to promote their own operation or seek and hire farm labor.

Paul Nichols, the secretary for the Pennsylvania program, said applications may be sent to him any time after January 1, 1996. Deadline for applications is April 15. Judging is completed in May and is based on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings. The states are divided into districts, and a local committee oversees the program in each district.

A team of judges designated by the local committee visits each farm and uses a score sheet to rate each farm. In Pennsylvania, in addition to this team of judges, the sanitarian for the farm's cooperatiive or dealer-handler is asked to be part of the judging process.

"One of the things I always tell people is that even though they may not now have the most fancy place, they can work toward the principles of the Dairy of Distinction program," Nichols said. "By doing this, they work toward a goal that encourages consumers to use more dairy products."

Winners receive a colorful, 18x24-inch Dairy of Distinction sign to be placed at the entrance to the farmstead. In addition, as in past years, an 11x14-inch color portrait of the farm will be given by Lancaster Farming to each winning farm in the Pennsylvania program.

This representative Dairy of Distinction Farm was named in 1995 and is owned by Barry and Barbara Lucas at Millerstown in Juniata County. Farms that look attractive help to make a good impression on consumers who buy dairy products.

"As a dairy farmer, you work hard all year long, taking care of your farm," said Helen Fountain, program executive secretary. "In addition to managing your herd, there are lawns to mow, flowers to plant, and overall maintenance to keep farm buildings looking great. You deserve to be recognized for all the hard work, dedication and pride you put into your farmstead.

"It's time you and your farm received some recognition for your hard work. The coveted Dairy of Distinction award will give you that recognition. In addition, your attractive farm will enhance consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of milk, thereby stimulating milk sales and encourage public support for the dairy industry."

Active dairy farms in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsyvania are cligible to apply for the award. Criteria for Dairy of Distinction awards include clean and attractively finished buildings; neat landscaping, ditches, roads and lands; and well-maintained fences. Cleanliness of animals, barnyard, feed areas, as well as manure management, are also taken into consideration.

Applications are available from each state's program secretary or local cooperative extension. In New York, contact Carol Weddle, New York, Holstein Assn., 957 Mitchell St., Box 190, Ithaca, N.Y. 14851. In New Jersey, contact Angust Knispel, RD 1, Box 325, Pittstown, N.J. 08867.

In Pennsylvania, you may contact Paul Nichols, American Dairy Association/Dairy Council, Tower Business Building, 239 Schuyler Ave., Kingstown, PA 18704.

Cash Flow Accounting Helps Credit

LARRY LABOWSKI
Extension Agent

YOUNGSVILLE (Warren Co.)—Have you ever asked a banker for a loan, only to be turned down, even though you have never missed a payment to anyone in your life?

If you have, you are not alone!

But, before you punch out the poor loan officer, take a hard look at how the loan would affect your day-to-day finances.

Probably the most important financial document that you can provide to your banker is the cash flow statement.

This form will show where all of your hard-earned money goes. You may even be surprised!

Let's start by lcoking at the time when money always gets the tightest:

Spring Planting

Seed and fertilizer are often purchased early for tax planning, or to take advantage of dealer discounts. However, even if that is the case, farmers are still caught paying for fuel, oil, and repairs that happen most when the equipment is used heavily.

Does your milk check increase just because you need the funds in April and May? Usually not enough to cover everything for planting. This creates a need to borrow money from someone.

The first place most farmers borrow is from the supplier on a short-term account, usually 30 days. But, what happens after 30 days? Interest is usually charged at a rate of at least 18 percent APR, or 1.5 percent of the monthly balance.

Most lenders currently charge between 10-12 percent at least a third cheaper!

If you can afford to pay back the spring planting costs over the next 12 months, and still show a positive cash flow, the banks are usually willing to lend you the money.

There are several ways you can keep track of your cash spending.

The most basic system is to record each bill you pay, as they occur into some kind of ledger.

Another is a computerized record system. Or, you may hire someone to keep track of everything for you.

Using any of these systems will help you show your lending institution how you will repay the proposed loan.

Cash flow analysis is also great for decision making! You can use your records to show how changes in your operation will affect your bottom line.

The following example is of a farmer considering to increase his production level to increase his cash flow:

Determine Cash Inflow: Increased Milk Sales

Determine Cash Outflows: Additional Feed Costs; Increased Vet Expenses; Additional Marketing Costs

Net Cash Flow

This simple model can be used for any purchase you have planned. If you borrow money to make the purchase, be sure to include the payments in the cash outflow.

Cash flow budgeting is very important to farmers. Not only will it improve your borrowing relationship, but you should have a better understanding of where your money goes.

Get More Money For The Milk

plementation with bypass methionine and lysine increased milk protein contents from 3.38 to 3.42 percent, from 3.04 to 3.19, and from 3.13 to 3.16 in three trials; milk protein yields also increased from 2.5 to 2.8 pounds per cow per day on average.

Since milk on the farm is paid for by its solids, protein and fat contents, changes in milk composition will increase milk price and, hopefully the bottom line on the dairy farm.

Strategies to maximize the farmer's price for milk are basic to the question of whether the American dairy farm will still be around tomorrow. It may also be the most effective means for farm preservation.

Congratulations!

AUTOFLOW™ MILKING STALLS

With Non-Stop Cow Traffic

Using less stalls at maximum efficiency lowers the total cost of your automation and improves labor efficiency. Comparison shows it takes as much as 50% fewer AutoFlow stalls to achieve the same throughput as with similarly automated herringbone and parallel systems.

As milking equipment becomes more sophisticated and more expensive, the investment per stall becomes an important factor. The Surge AutoFlow parlor maximizes efficiencies per stall without sacrificing cow throughput.

President Baker's Message

Since the Dairy of Distinction program began in Pennsylvania in 1987, hundreds of dairy farmers have applied to have their farms recognized as a "Dairy of Distinction."

Those attractive farms that were honored to receive the colorful farm sign are truly an advertisement for their industry, not only to their neighbors, but to those who pass their farms. This is the purpose of the program: to be a point of pride in promoting the source of the state beverage—milk.

However the executive committee recognizes there are may more farms that would merit the designation if only they would submit an application to the program. Also, there are those farms that entered in the past that have truly improved the appearance of their farms and would now qualify. But no one else can enter for you. Mr., Mrs., or Ms. Dairy Farmer, this is a self nominating program. Only you can take the initiative to complete the application and send it in. We encourage you to participate in 1996.

It will make us all proud to see more farms strive to become a "Dairy of Distinction."

Thank you again to all our hard-working volunteers on the committees for making the program successful the past eight years.

Dan Baker
President, Pennsylvania
Dairy of Distinction Program

Editor's Note: 1996 application forms for Dairy of Distinction will be available after January 1, 1996. Forms are distributed by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., Tower Business Building, 239 Schuyler Ave., Box 5, Kingston, PA 1874-3378.

Automatic Farm Systems
for grinding high moisture & dry grains

Ask Anyone who owns one –
Here's testimony from two Lebanon Co., PA farmers:

Tom Krall installed a hammer mill from Automatic Farm Systems last spring. He feels it's been a very wise move financially.

Tom says, "I had all my feed delivered, other than silage. Now I'll buy corn and barley cheaper, at harvest, and save on hauling and grinding. My initial cost, operating cost, and maintenance cost are all low. I expect this machine will pay for itself in a year."

"It's a pretty handy machine. It's all automatic, so it doesn't create any extra work. And it's not dusty like a roller mill because it's all enclosed."

David Bomberger installed a hammer mill from Automatic Farm System last winter. Already he sees a big difference from the roller mill he had before.

David says, "This mill does a much better job of cutting the corn – now we can get it fine enough. We're feeding the same amount of corn, but the cows are utilizing it better. You see less grain in the manure. And I really feel it's helped production."

Give us a call to learn how an AFS hammer mill will work on your dairy operation, with low initial cost and low maintenance.

Mark said grazing has worked well so far, though adding, "We have lots to learn yet."

The herd is on official DHIA test and has a rolling herd average of about 19,500 pounds of milk. Mark said his goal is to increase the production per cow, not the number of cows, at least until the children are grown enough to start considering making an expansion decision.

Milking in tie stalls, Mark said he would like the herd production to break the 20,000-pounds of milk average.

The operation consists of an old bank barn with a freestall extension, and a new brick milkhouse. Though shocked and not injured, the new milkhouse was needed after a milk tanker backed into the old milkhouse while Mark was inside.

Of the two houses, an older three-story frame farmhouse is where Mark and his family live. A newer stone house with a white, three-rail PVC fence around the yard is where father and mother Loretta live.

Mark said that the family was pleased to receive the Dairy of Distinction honors, though ironically after attending a banquet to receive the award, the farm didn't look as good as before they got the award.

Mark said that the weather forecast was good when the family left the farm to attend the awards banquet.

When they returned home, however, they discovered that a storm had ripped through the area and tore off a lot of the roof from the house.

He said that night at 2 a.m. he had rain water running into bed.

The roof has since been repaired and the house re-sided. The new roof is green. The house siding white with green trim and green shutters, matching the color scheme of a brand new shop building on the farm.

As with any family farm that has been ongoing for generations, operations change over time and require differing demands on structures.

For the past 10 years, the Sechlers have been dealing with that situation, tearing down old obsolete buildings and putting up newer ones, or modifing existing ones for incorporation into the current operation.

For example, two older poultry buildings were converted to house the farm's calf-raising operations. Mark said he has kept the controlled lighting and fans that controlled the environment for poultry and uses them to the benefit of their replacement calves.

With individual stalls built inside the shell of the poultry buildings, the setup allows for easier and more comfortable feeding and working conditions, as well as a healthier and more consistent environment for the calves. Mark said he knows they have attained a less-than 1-percent calf mortality since the conversion.

Three years ago, the Sechlers built a Virginia-style heifer barn that has made raising animals more efficient and consistent.

Other changes loom. A computer was purchased recently but has not yet been incorporated into the management of the farm. Mark said his children, especially Ryan have been learning about the computer and have been working on it. Eventually, it may get used for farm business.

Earning the Dairy of Distinction Award is an honor, Mark said. He said that keeping the farm looking nice is important to him. "I just like to have a nice place."

The red and white Dairy of Distinction sign hangs from a post along the road in front of the farm along with a sign for Galliker's Dairy, a locally recognizable dairy that receives milk from Rocky Hollow Farms.
